ITALY MAY SOLVE SOUTH'S PROBLEM

Ambassador Plans to Divert the Immigration Flood from Northern Cities to Dixie's Farms.

HOMES THERE FOR ALL.

Shadow of Negro Domination Would Be Dispelled and the Urgent Need of Labor Supplied.

BY RAYMOND.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Sig. Edmondo Mayor des Planches, Italy's ambassador to the United States, has undertaken a work, which, if it is carried through successfully, will be of vast benefit to the United States, because it seems likely to be the first real beginning of a scientific solution of the vexed race question.

The aim of the ambassador is to benefit his countrymen who are now arriving in the United States literally by the hundreds of thousands every year. If he is successful the benefit to these Italian immigrants cannot be doubted.

What the people of the United States will be most of all interested in learning is the fact that these intelligent labors of the ambassador from Italy are of such a character that in the end they are almost certain, if successfully conducted, to revolutionize industrial conditions in the southern states, and thereby to eliminate the race question as a threatening social and political problem of American life.

New Highway of Diplomacy.

These are big things to talk about, and of course they may never come true, but the Italian ambassador is in earnest, and he seems to have left the beaten track of diplomatic methods and started into a new highway of most promising character.

It should of course be understood that Sig. Mayor has not undertaken the work of revolutionizing the American social fabric. His sole aim is to benefit his poor countrymen, and he will probably be as much surprised as any one to find how extravagantly popular he will become in the south when his plan and those of the government he represents are fully understood there.

It seems almost absurd to say that a possible solution of the race question in America could by any means come from sunny Italy, and yet this is more than a possibility, and the plans of the ambassador have been entered into by the commissioner general of immigration, Mr. Sargent, and Commissioner Williams of Ellis island, the two officials who are best acquainted with the character of the Italian people coming into the United States.

Italians to Go South.

In brief, the Italian ambassador, acting, it is to be presumed, with the full cooperation of his own government, is taking steps to divert the floodtide of Italian immigration away from the tenement house districts of New York, Baltimore, and Philadelphia, away from the crowded manufacturing towns of New England, away from the railroad camps and mining towns, into the southland, into the sunshine, and into the kind of agricultural conditions to which these sturdy but poor immigrants are accustomed.

This is by no means a little job, but the time seems ripe for an undertaking of this character, and if existing conditions in the southern states are studied intelligently it will readily be discovered that the turning of the tide of Italians into the great agricultural states of the south will soon solve the race question if enough of them go there.

Cannot Drive Negro Out.

The negro will remain in the south by millions in all human probability. He cannot be driven out, nor should he be. The one scientific solution of the race problem seems to be, not to remove the negro from the south, but to increase the strength of the white men in the south.

The negro is not a menace in the northern states because the colored population is so small there that the white element completely overshadows the black contingent, and the two races work side by side in general harmony.

The negro is a menace to the south because in many sections he largely outnumbers the whites, and if given political control would beyond doubt put every department of local and state governments into the hands of negroes, to the absolute exclusion of the whites, and to the ultimate certain destruction of property interests in those communities.

Great Influx of Italians.

During the fiscal year which closed with the last day of June, 1903, out of 857,046 steerage passengers to the United States listed by the immigration bureau no less than 230,846 were former subjects of the king of Italy. Of this enormous influx of Italians only 87,429 were from the northern provinces of Italy. The remainder, 197,117, were of the class known to immigration officers as south Italians.

These immigrants from southern Italy are practically all of the agricultural class. One would expect to find them leaving the seaboard and going into the interior, taking up land and developing the country, as did the Scandinavians and Germans, who proved to be such important factors in the building up of the northwest.

Possibly it was the climate of the northern states which kept these southern Italians out of the fields, but more probably it was their poverty, which required them to earn a living within a few hours after their arrival in the home of the brave and land of the free.

Too Many in the Cities.

The painful fact is that these Italians who are, as I have said, normally a class of agricultural laborers, have become congested along the northern Atlantic seaboard and almost entirely in the great cities or in the more grimy manufacturing towns. The figures of the immigration bureau, which are compiled with great care and which at least show the original destination of the immigrant, although they cannot, of course, indicate his subsequent wanderings, fully bear out these statements.

According to these figures for the same fiscal year, 91,774 of these immigrants were ticketed to New York state; 42,696 to Pennsylvania, and 13,731 to Massachusetts. Taking the New England states, with New York, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey, it will be seen that 178,483 of these south Italians were in a single year packed into the country north of the Potomac and east of the mountains.

ARTHUR J. CATON DIES SUDDENLY.

Expires in New York Hotel a Few Hours After Death of Thomas A. Moran in Same Place.

PERITONITIS THE CAUSE.

Wife and Her Niece Who Had Just Come from Europe with Him When the End Came.

Arthur J. Caton of Chicago died suddenly last night in New York City. His death was caused by acute peritonitis and occurred in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel at 8 p. m. Another citizen of Chicago, ex-Judge Thomas A. Moran, had died as suddenly in the same hotel eighteen hours earlier.

A long distance telephone message brought the first word of the death of Mr. Caton. It came to Mr. and Mrs. Augustus N. Eddy, 1001 Michigan avenue. Mrs. Caton and her niece, Miss Katherine Eddy, who landed from Europe on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse on Wednesday, were with Mr. Caton at the time.

Mr. Caton's death was utterly unexpected by his friends or family. No news of his illness reached Chicago till 6 o'clock yesterday evening, when Mrs. Caton telephoned to her sister, Mrs. Eddy, that her husband had been suddenly attacked by peritonitis and that his condition was extremely serious. Dr. E. G. Janeway was summoned and did what was possible for the relief of the patient, but the end came soon afterward.

In New York to Meet Wife.

Mr. Caton left Chicago last Saturday, accompanied by Mr. Eddy, to meet his wife and Mrs. Eddy and her daughter, who returned on Wednesday from a summer in England and on the continent.

"Mr. Caton's health had been failing for some time," said Mr. Eddy last night, "but no one expected a fatal termination to his indisposition. He seemed in the best of spirits yesterday when I left him to come west with Mrs. Eddy."

The horse show was the last event in Chicago with which Mr. Caton was prominently connected, and a remark of his made at that time is recalled as a possible foreboding of his sudden death. After guiding his four-in-hand coach through a dangerous mixup in the ring with the uncontrollable team of J. Hobart Moore he turned to a friend and said:

"This is my last horse show; I must step down and out."

Breeder of Horses.

Mr. Caton's love of horse was one of his prominent characteristics. On his extensive farm at Ottawa, Ill., where he was born fifty-six years ago, he bred and drove thoroughbreds. He kept this interest up all his life and was an organizer and director of the Chicago Horse Show association. His four in hand driving made him one of the leading amateur whips of the country.

To his fondness for horses Mr. Caton added an interest in the various institutions maintained for the improvement in the breeding of dogs. He was at one time president of the Mascoutah Kennel club and maintained an extensive kennel on his country estate. Love of open air exercise caused Mr. Caton to become one of the first Chicago men to take up golf. He played at Wheaton and was president of the Chicago Golf club for one term.

With the birth and growth of the Chicago club Mr. Caton's Chicago career was most closely bound up. He was president of the club for six years and was only succeeded last fall by John M. Clark because he was unwilling again to run for office. In 1883 he joined the Washington Park club and devoted much attention to that institution when it was in the heyday of its prosperity. Other social bodies that owe much to Mr. Caton's genius for club making and club building are the Saddle and Cycle club, the Chicago Athletic club, and the Onwentsia club.

Son of Judge Caton of Ottawa.

Mr. Caton was the son of Judge John D. Caton of Ottawa, who was a pioneer in the legal and judicial development of Illinois. Judge Caton sent his son to Phillips academy at Andover to prepare for college, and from that school the young man entered Yale university. He spent a year in New Haven and then went to Hamilton college, from which he was graduated at the age of 22. He immediately afterwards was admitted to the bar in New York.

The practice of law Mr. Caton began in Chicago in the offices of Williams & Thompson. The ample fortune left him by his father enabled him, however, to indulge his inclination for travel, and during the closing years of his life he withdrew from the active duties of his profession and gave himself up to the management of his estate.

Athlete in Younger Days.

In college he gained athletic training as an oarsman and a sprinter, and this foundation enabled him to retain his physical powers and to be entirely untroubled by ill-health. Mr. Caton made two or three trips around the world and visited Japan before modern civilization had made inroads upon it. Some years ago he made an extensive tour through China and the far east.

In "riding circuit" with the judges of the northern Illinois district during the 30s Judge Caton came often to Chicago and was in a measure a resident here, so that much of the property inherited by his son had its interests centered in Cook county. This was one of the reasons which led Arthur Caton to make this city his home, although he never gave up the family seat at Ottawa.

It was at Ottawa that Mr. Caton met Miss Delia Spencer, who became his wife. Miss Spencers' father was one of the founders of the hardware firm of Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., and she was a leader in the younger society set of that day when she determined to go to the Ottawa farm for a brief rest. There she met Mr. Caton, to whom she became engaged after a brief courtship.

Receiver of a Railroad.

In business circles, beyond his connection with Wisconsin and Michigan lumber lands and his local real estate holdings, Mr. Caton was chiefly known for his successful winding up of the affairs of the Chicago and Southern railway. Although a comparatively young man when he was appointed receiver of this company, he displayed great ability in the management of the property and brought its tangled intricacies to an unexpectedly favorable conclusion.

In the social life of Chicago both Mr. and Mrs. Caton have always been leading figures. At the time of the visit of Prince Henry of Prussia Mr. Caton was his principal entertainer, furnishing him with the four-horse

SECRETARY OF WAR TAFT IS GOING TO PANAMA TO INVESTIGATE CONDITIONS. THE ADMINISTRATION COULDN'T SEND A BETTER MAN.

ROYAL FAMILY IS ASSAILED.

ECHO OF INNSBRUCK AFFAIR

Mob in Rome Makes Demonstration Against Consulate.

VIENNA, Nov. 18.—Herr Pernerstorfer, one of the socialist leaders, made a violent attack on the imperial dynasty in the reichsrath this afternoon. Referring to the Innsbruck affair, he alleged that the highest influences had been used to prevent a harmonious understanding being reached between Germans and Italians within the monarchy, adding that settlement of national differences in the Tyrol were now rendered impossible for many years.

The speaker charged the dynasty with being responsible for all the unhappy conditions prevailing in Austria. The Hapsburgs, he said, had always regarded the country as an object of exploitation and had been a burden upon the people for 600 years. The members of the imperial family were not even prominent for personal qualities. The women, he asserted, were bigots and the men clerical partisans, mostly ignorant and uneducated. He concluded with characterizing the Hapsburgs as the evil fortune of the realm.

Mob Moves on Embassy.

ROME, Nov. 18.—A demonstration against the Austrian embassy and consulate was made today following an impressive meeting at the Quirino theater to protest against the Innsbruck affair.

The demonstration had been anticipated by the authorities and precautions had been taken accordingly. At all the streets opening into the Plaza police, carbineers, bersaglieri, and cavalry had been stationed, and these halted and turned back the mob from the vicinity of the embassy.

At the meeting in the Quirino theater the speeches were frequently interrupted with applause mingled with invectives against Austria. An order of the day embodying the opinions expressed by the speakers was voted by acclamation and amidst cries of "Long Live Italy" and "Garibaldi Forever."

Following is the text of the order of the day:

"Before the events at Innsbruck, where moral and material violence was accomplished by ferocious Teutonic intransigeance against young Italians obliged to ask foreign hospitality and culture, Rome raises before civilized people of all countries the protest of Latin sentiment against German intolerance aroused and favored by the Austrian imperial policy, and calls peoples and governments as witnesses of these unheard of persecutions."

Riot, Parliament Prorogued.

BUDA-PESTH, Nov. 18.—The Hungarian parliament was prorogued tonight in the midst of a riot. The lower house early in the day had voted to hold afternoon sessions in addition to the morning sittings. Previous to the vote the Hungarian opposition left the house, singing the Kossuth hymn, Francis Kossuth having declared that the Hungarians would never agree to such an illegal procedure.

President of the Chamber De Perczel tried to put to a vote the motion dealing with obstruction, but was met with screams of passionate protestation, while Deputy Rakosi threatened him with a pair of scissors.

Many members hurried to President De Perczel's assistance. Seats, books, and ink pots were hurled at Perczel, and the opposing parties were hardly prevented from indulging in blows.

MISSOURIANS FEEL "SHAME": ASK TRANSFER TO ARKANSAS.

Famers in Southern Counties Think the State Disgraced by Voting for Roosevelt—Want to Be Part of Solid South.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Because, they say, Missouri has disgraced itself by voting for Roosevelt and forsaking the long and honorable association with the solid south, farmers of Dunklin county, in southwest Missouri, are circulating a petition asking the state legislature to transfer the county to Arkansas. Two hundred have signed the petition.

Dunklin county is on the northeast boundary of Arkansas. The vote in 1900 was 2,711 for Bryan and 1,128 for McKinley. This year Roosevelt was only 200 votes behind Parker. A similar petition will be circulated in Pemiscot county, which cast only seventeen votes for McKinley in 1900.

The petition states that no honorable man can now acknowledge citizenship in Missouri without shame and disgrace, because it has joined the republican party and passes into the domination of the trusts. It also declares that, owing to the complete control the trusts exercise, the state probably never again will be ruled by the democrats.

PAUL MORTON SUDDENLY ILL.

Secretary of Navy Excuses Himself from New York Banquet After Speaking but a Few Minutes.

New York, Nov. 18.—Secretary Paul Morton of the navy was taken ill this evening at the dinner of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers at Delmonico's. He had been assigned to respond to the toast, "The President of the United States," and he represented President Roosevelt at the banquet. The secretary had spoken but a few moments when he excused himself and left the banquet hall. It was said the secretary was not seriously sick, but did not feel well enough to remain longer.

Before illness compelled him to desist Mr. Morton said he was in favor of a navy of such efficiency that no other nation would undertake to seek an engagement with us.

"You can be assured," he continued, "that you have in the White house now a man who believes in having the best and strongest navy in the world."

BRECKINRIDGE CLOSE TO DEATH.

Slight Rally at Midnight May Carry Him Through the Day—Heroic Measures Adopted.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 19.—Although desperately ill at midnight, Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge has shown improvement during the last hour. During the day he had difficulty in breathing. Early last night heroic remedies were resorted to to prolong life, and physicians did not think he could survive until morning.

At 1F o'clock his lungs became inflated and the difficulty of breathing disappeared.

Oxygen is being administered, and it is believed he will survive until tonight.

BELASCO TO FIGHT SYNDICATE.

Impresario to Equip Washington, D. C., Convention Hall with Movable Stage for Mrs. Carter.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—David Belasco has hired the convention hall and will build in it a movable stage to put on Mrs. Carter's new play. All of the Washington theaters are under control of the theatrical syndicate, and he says he is forced to do this. He declares he will fight the trust in this way everywhere. The stage will cost $20,000.

WITS WEAKEN ON GRIDIRON.

Northwestern Trainer Says Players Have Delusions.

PUTS BLAME ON STRAIN.

Football Victims Are Led to Make Strange Statements.

Football players, according to Jere Delaney, trainer of Northwestern university eleven, are subject to an ailment similar to softening of the brain, which leads not only to the making of peculiar statements but causes strange actions which sometimes are amusing.

The exact cause of the trouble, Trainer Delaney said yesterday, he is unable to fathom. He declared, however, that it results more from the long continued physical and nervous strain to which the men are subjected during the three months of rigid training which they are forced to undergo than from the blows, kicks, and bumps they receive on their skulls during games.

Only at rare intervals during the football season is a candidate for a university team allowed any real recreation. His mind constantly is concentrated on the theories and facts of the game, which are pounded into him by his coaches and trainers.

Danger in the "Day Dreams."

Delaney has had considerable experience with athletes both in the east and in the west, and it is from his close observation of their behavior, he says, that his conclusions are deduced.

"It always has been my aim," he said, "not only to keep the men's bodies in fighting trim but to watch their mental condition and to see that they are not inclined to let their thoughts wander to strange, imaginative subjects when they are at rest.

"It is known that every player of the game fights his games over and over again in his dreams, but only by the men who are in closest touch with the players is it recognized that they are given to constant day dreaming, during which they make strange motions as if struggling with an imaginary opponent."

Minds Given to Wandering.

According to Delaney, the athletes are given to almost childish methods of play when at rest. An instance related by the trainer was of a man who during more than an hour pored over a map of the United States, drawing lines with his index finger and imagining he was traveling over the country which his finger crossed.

"From Chicago to Philadelphia to see old Penn play," the player mused aloud; "then a trip to Boston—gee, but it's a long trip—to see Harvard. But there's no game, so let's go to the seashore. Rah for a swim! Wow, it's too blasted cold!" Then he drew his finger back 200 imaginary miles before he could check his flight from the icy waves.

Many more instances are related by Delaney, but he did not laugh over them. On the contrary, he says, he constantly is scheming to relieve the minds of the men so that they will stay normal and not be subject to the weird processes of a mild form of insanity caused by the steady diet of football, football, and nothing else.

D. B. HILL'S FRIEND A CONVICT.

F. P. Demarest, Lawyer and Politician of New York, Found Guilty of a Fraud.

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—F. P. Demarest, a lawyer and politician whose vote elected D. B. Hill United States senator, has been convicted of fraud.

ADAMS PROMISES COLORADO PEACE.

Governor-Elect Declares He Will Not Permit Further Deportation of the Union Miners.

WRONGS ON BOTH SIDES.

Capital and Labor Must Unite in Respecting the Law and Obeying the Courts.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Denver, Colo., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Governor-elect Alva Adams today made a comprehensive statement to THE TRIBUNE, declaring, like President Roosevelt, that "every man should have a square deal" under his administration. He declared he was not bound to the Western Federation of Miners, or to any other interests; that he was opposed to the deportation of miners; and that the best policy to restore confidence in financial interests in Colorado would be the assurance that law and order would be upheld. With this, he added, went the harmonious working together of labor and capital.

Deportations Not Justified.

The following questions by THE TRIBUNE were freely discussed by the governor-elect. They were presented with a view to fairly and sufficiently inform those concerned on his position in relation to immediate questions of policy of wide interest outside the state:

"Was there in your opinion any justification for the deportation of the members of the Western Federation of Miners last summer?"

"There was not. I am under no obligations to the Western Federation of Miners, and I do not even know their leaders. But I do not believe in deportation. The deportation of several hundred miners was illegal, and cowardly, and an evasion of the law. There was no excuse for it. The miners should have been tried, and if found guilty sent to the penitentiary. The mine owners argue that the action of the courts would have been doubtful, but it should not have been, as they had all the court machinery at their command, taking from the sheriff his powers under threat of the rope."

Lawlessness on Both Sides.

"Do you consider such acts as were reasonably credited to members of the federation acts of insurrection against state authority?"

"I can't answer that question without going into it too deeply. There was lawlessness on both sides. If the matter had been taken into court the issues could have been decided by judicial minds. I am certainly opposed to illegal acts both by labor and by capital.

Opposes Use of Militia.

"As you now view the matter, do you think you would, in event of a recurrance of such disorder, utilize the state militia to the extent that the present chief executive of the state has?"

"I will call on the militia whenever necessary. I sincerely hope it will never be necessary. Desperate cases require desperate remedies, but I am totally opposed to using militia except as the law provides and to suppress lawlessness.

"I am opposed to using the militia as was done last summer in behalf of certain interests and to the detriment of other interests. The militia was traded off to certain corporations and was paid by those corporations. The militia should be used to quell insurrection, but only to protect the civil authorities, as the law provides.

Bell a Don Quixote.

"Gov. Peabody, in his use of the militia and his deportation of miners, was largely guided by Adj. Gen. Sherman Bell, a Don Quixote jousting at windmills. A showy soldier and a good fellow, but devoid of tact and lacking in judgment.

"I shall appoint as attorney general some conservative soldier who will use his brain and not his jaw. Gov. Peabody and the adjutant general in their deportation of miners were governed by the same spirit that actuated Napoleon when he ordered the Lombardy massacres. They wished to show they were masters."

Not Pledged to Miners.

"Can the reported fact of the return to Cripple Creek since the election of the deported members of the federation, and can the utterance credited to the leaders of that organization rejoicing in the result of the election be fairly construed as due to the belief on their part that you are in sympathy with the objects of the Western Federation of Miners?"

"Not at all. They are rejoicing over Peabody's defeat rather than over my election. I was simply an instrument. Neither the Western Federation nor any other single interest has received any promise from me. I take the office absolutely unpledged except to the cause of law and order and giving every man a square deal. I would not take it under any other consideration."

Sees Danger in Socialism.

"The sentiment printed on union cards of the Western Federation of Labor is that labor produces all wealth and that wealth belongs to the producers thereof. Do you believe that sympathy with the exponents thereof by the chief executive would help or hinder the material prosperity of Colorado?"

"I won't take up these questions. They lead to socialism and I am not a socialist. I have never seen any of the socialistic leaders of the federation and do not even know them. I stand for the protection of property rights. The laboring element is entitled to what they earn. As for the capitalists, they generally get what is coming to them."

What Does Colorado Need.

"Recognising the labor situation as it is, what do you consider would be the proper policy to beget confidence in Colorado investments?"

"An assurance to all interests that the laws will be enforced, that capital and labor will have equal protection. Coupled with this must be the assurance that capital and labor will harmoniously work together.

"These are apparently simple propositions. It may be difficult to carry them out, but I am not apprehending trouble. The labor question has two sides. Neither has had its rights respected. But capital and labor can't get away from the fact that they are partners. I don't expect to make a 'pet' of either partner."

"From your viewpoint how important to the state welfare do you consider the opinion of capital generally outside Colorado?"

"Of the utmost importance. Colorado ltalistic interests, that there will be no favoritism shown any special interest or series of interests, but that the rights of all will be equally upheld. I have perfect confidence that the next two years will be the most prosperous in the state's history."

Colorado Anxious for Peace.

"What effect would the seating of Gov. Peabody have on business?"

"A demoralizing effect. The people want no more scenes of turmoil. They want peace and they cannot have that under Gov. Peabody. His retention in office will simply result in a repetition of the deplorable conditions of the last eighteen months."

"Do you believe there will be scenes of anarchy and violence if Gov. Peabody is seated?"

"The case is not supposable. Peabody has been repudiated. The people will not stand for him. He should withdraw. You might as well suppose the case of one man's stealing another man's house.

"I don't believe Peabody or his friends are serious in claiming enough votes to elect the governor. The only way they can do it will be to throw out enough democratic votes. I don't believe the Supreme court will do that. All the republicans hope for, in my belief, is to gain enough votes to insure a republican legislature."

Warrants for 152 Democrats.

Should the Supreme court tomorrow decide that the democratic election officials charged with fraud are guilty of contempt of court it is the intention of the republicans to immediately cause the arrest of 152 others, for whom bench warrants were taken out today. Some of them will be for intimidation of witnesses. These warrants include the names of prominent democrats, among them several aldermen.

If the republicans can prove all they allege, the election frauds committed in Denver were almost unparalleled, even in the days of Boss Tweed in New York.

The democrats are exercised tonight over the possible fate of the prisoners. There is a story that the Supreme court will send them to jails in the eastern part of the state, where there is nothing but alkali water, fearing to trust them to the custody of the sheriff of Denver county, who is a democrat.

If this action is taken there is certain to be trouble. Anticipating this, the democrats are preparing to apply to the federal court for writs of habeas corpus to test the jurisdiction of the Supreme court in the election contest. The republican attorneys, however, say that the federal court can have no jurisdiction in state election cases.

Fraud Case in Court.

The star case of the republicans in the election contest went to court this afternoon. William and Peter Miller, Patrick Pitt, William Shepherdson, and Thomas Douglas were charged with having stolen the ballots in the Eighth precinct of the Seventh ward in the city of Denver while the lights were extinguished and with substituting a new set of ballots that gave Peabody only fifteen votes out of 318, though the original ballots showed that the candidates ran about even. The charges were withdrawn against Douglas during the hearing, and the court will give its decision on the cases of the other accused tomorrow afternoon. The refusal of the court to have the ballot box brought in court was construed by Milton Smith, the democratic state committeeman, tonight as indicating a belief on the part of the republican majority on the court that the ballots had not been tampered with. Steele, the democratic judge, wanted the ballots brought into court.

Makes Signed Statement.

Attorney Brown, in behalf of the republicans, issued the following signed statement tonight:

"The elections here have been so rottenly conducted as shown by the Bonynge-Shafroth contest in congress that this time the Supreme court appointed watchers in each precinct in Denver, county and city, and enjoined all the officials to conduct the election honestly and according to the law.

"Tremendous frauds against the republican candidates were attempted and consummated in more than 100 precincts, so the offenders may be punished for the contempt in violating the court's order.

"False returns have been sent in from other counties.

"The Wolcott faction of the republicans united with the democrats to defeat Gov. Peabody's election. In my opinion he has been fairly elected, and we expect to prove it conclusively. The matter will be peacefully settled, according to law, through the courts, no one contemplates using force.

"JAMES H. BROWN,
"Counsel for Republican Contestants."

Says Conviction Is Certain.

"The conviction of the election officials by the Supreme court tomorrow is a foregone conclusion," said James H. Brown, who is conducting the republican election contest, late tonight. "Important arrests will follow. The court did not care to bring in the ballot boxes, because it was convinced of the prisoners' guilt.

"The democrats also have an idea that Gov.-Elect Adams can pardon election fraud perpetrators. A governor has no power to pardon for contempt of court."

Asked about the story that the Supreme court will send the prisoners to jails in eastern Colorado, Mr. Brown said:

"The Supreme court has that power. The democratic sheriff of Denver county is one of the parties involved in the frauds, and the Denver jail already is overflowing."

Count May Take Weeks.

While the Supreme court was hearing the election contest in the capitol, the election commission was busy canvassing the returns in the courthouse, watched by representatives of the Supreme court. If the count proceeds no faster than it did today it will consume weeks. The canvassing board is composed of two democrats and one republican. The republican, coached by attorneys, began to object early in the count of the precincts of the Sixteenth ward on grounds of irregularities. He wanted them thrown out.

"I see how this will end," said one of the democratic commissioners, "he is making the objections as a basis for a future appeal to the Supreme court."

The democrats refused to continue the canvass without an order and the Supreme court told them to go ahead. Every half hour or so the board would go over to the statehouse in an automobile for additional instructions, or to make a protest.

Neither Peabody nor Adams gained any votes on today's count, but many irregularities were found. Instances were discovered where, according to the tallies, Adams received more votes than there were ballots. Under the Supreme court rulings these could not be counted, but the footings of the judges were accepted as official.

In the third precinct H. A. Lindsley, democratic candidate for district attorney, was found to have received forty-four more votes according to the judges' footings than there were tally marks. This was an instance where the republicans received the worst of it on the Supreme court's ruling

Policy of the Republicans.

After a long wrangle the precinct was thrown out. The policy of the republicans, although they will not admit it, will be to raise objections to every precinct, with the object of having all those that show a majority for Adams thrown out.

Thus far the count has indicated irregularities and ignorances, rather than fraud. The democratic commissioners began with the last ward in the city because there were a lot of frauds charged in the First.

Forty-seven of the men charged with fixing the election have meanwhile taken trains out of town.

Official returns from every county in the state except Denver and three others today gave Adams a plurality of 10,106, of which 5,271 are outside of Denver.

Adjt. Gen. Bell said tonight when he heard what Alva Adams said about him that he was not paying any attention to politicians. He disclaimed any intention of calling out the state troops on any pretext whatever.

The Federation of Miners is taking no apparent interest in the contest. None of them attends the Supreme court sessions.

"We have done our work," said one of their officials.

Adams and Milton Smith both deny the story that Adams will appoint Hours, the Leadville populist and alleged socialist, a member of the Supreme court.

Sensation at Cripple Creek.

A sensation was created in the Cripple Creek district today when thirty-seven cases against members of the Western Federation of Miners for alleged complicity in the Victor rioting and Independence depot explosion of last June were abandoned, and the men, who were placed under heavy bonds, were released from all blame in the case. The remaining seventeen cases, it is believed, will never come to trial.

MUKDEN HEARS CANNON ROAR.

MUKDEN, Nov. 18.—On the morning of Nov. 17, after a long silence, the distant roar of cannon was heard, but where the fighting occurred is not yet known. There is no assurance yet that it means that a general fight is beginning. No excitement is yet displayed among Russian officers or Chinese here.

The Red Cross is making extensive preparations for the transportation of wounded from fields of battle. Two kinds of horse litters are being experimented with, one for the seriously wounded and the other for the slightly wounded. In the event of the trial being successful, which seems likely, all field hospitals will be equipped with these litters, reducing the number of bearers, which under the old system has necessarily subtracted from the fighting line, by almost half.

JAPS ATTACK PINE TREE HILL.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 18.—A dispatch from Lieut. Gen. Sakharoff dated today, says that during the night the Japanese attacked the Russian position in front of Poutiloff hill (Pine Tree hill), but were repulsed.

The newspapers today devote long articles to the praise of Lieut. Gen. Stoessel and the heroic garrison of Port Arthur and to a general indorsement of the movement started at Kieff for a national subscription in behalf of the families of the killed and surviving defenders.

Emperor Nicholas will leave for the Caucasus on Dec. 3 to bid farewell to the Circassian cavalry.

The mobilization of reservists of the city of St. Petersburg, it is expected, will be announced next week. While the reservists of the province in which St. Petersburg is included were called to the colors some time ago, the actual mobilization at the Russian capital has been postponed as long as possible.

It is reported on apparently good authority that the meeting of the zemstvos, which was scheduled for today, has been postponed.

Pleased at American Action.

At the admiralty here great pleasure is expressed over the disposition manifested by the commander of the United States cruiser New Orleans at Chefoo to join in the protection of the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Rastoropny against a repetition of the destroyer Ryeshiteini incident, but this time the Russians were determined to take no chances of their vessel being cut out and Commander Pelem's advices to the admiralty confirm the report that he was under orders to blow the Rastoropny up if the Japanese appeared off the harbor.

RUSSIAN ARSENAL EXPLODED.

TOKIO, Nov. 18, 3 p. m.—A telegram from Nogi reports the destruction of another Russian arsenal and magazine at Port Arthur.

The Japanese discovered, it is said, the location of the arsenal and centered their artillery fire upon it. After dropping 200 shells in the locality they succeeded in blowing it up.

The Japanese are widening their saps and are using them to move their guns forward.

The Russians continue their spirited sorties, using hand grenades in their attacks upon the saps.

JAP GUNS ARE INFERIOR.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—The Tokio correspondent of the Tageblatt says the slow progress being made north of Port Arthur is attributed by those well informed in Tokio to the inferiority of the Japanese guns as compared with the heavy Russian guns, which evidently have been landed from the warships. The fire from these guns has been concentrated by Gen. Stoessel's artillery commander, Gen. Nikiten, with great skill upon the Japanese advanced positions and partly nullified the advantages that the Japanese had gained earlier.

STOESSEL SAFE—IF.

LONDON, Nov. 19, 3 a. m.—The Daily Mail's St. Petersburg correspondent says that Lieut. Gen. Stoessel's report expresses a firm conviction that he will be able to hold out at Port Arthur until the Baltic squadron arrives in March, on the condition that he is supplied with munitions and stores. The government, the corespondent adds, has instructed its agents abroad to supply Lieut Gen. Stoessel's requirements at any cost.

English Trawlers Fired On by Baltic Fleet Ask for Sums from $250 to $10,000 Each.

HULL, Eng., Nov. 18.—Individual claims for damages as a result of the attack on the fishing fleet by Russian warships on the night of Oct. 21 were presented to the board of trade commission inquiry today.

Among others, Skipper Whelpton of the Mino claimed $750 for injuries to his health and shock to his nervous system and $2,500 for saving the Mino when it was unseaworthy. The skipper of the Gull claimed $250 for injury to his health and $10,000 for saving the lives of the crew of the Crane. Others claimed from $250 to $500 each.

The injured engineers of the trawler Crane claimed from $5,000 to $7,500 each.

The next sessions will be held in London to consider the wider question of general damage consequent on the firing of the Russian warships on the fishing fleet.

The canal authorities are exercising the strictest vigilance and coast guards are patrolling the canal.

CZAR TO BUILD NEW NAVY

CONTRACTS WILL BE LET IN AMERICA, FRANCE, AND GERMANY.

Vital Importance of Sea Power Russia's Bitterest Lesson of the War—Entire Fleet Must Be Built—Admiralty Plans to Have Some Warships Constructed Abroad, but Ultimately Will Have Great Shipyards at Home Ports.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 19, 2:05 a. m.—America is likely to profit, both directly and indirectly, from the execution of the large naval program which Russia is now elaborating.

The vital importance of sea power has been Russia's bitterest lesson of the war, and the government is fully determined that the maintenance of the empire's position in future as a first class power will be impossible without an adequate navy.

If the losses the Pacific fleet has already sustained should be followed by disaster to Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's squadron it will be necessary not only to rebuild the whole navy but to increase its strength.

The immensity of the task seems to be fully appreciated. While some of the contracts will be placed abroad, owing to the limited facilities of Russian yards (and it is expected that at least one big ship will be constructed in America), the admiralty's plans will be directed towards ultimate divorce from dependence upon foreign shipbuilders by the organization at home of vast shipbuilding, armor plate, ordnance, and kindred industries. For this purpose it is realized, however, that foreign builders and specialists must be attracted, and some alluring prospects are likely to present themselves.

Vikers' Sons & Maxim, and Armstrong, Whitworth & Co., limited, of England have already made advances, but owing to the anti-English sentiment British firms are not meeting with a cordial reception.

The disposition is to turn towards France, Germany, and the United States, and a great plant at Libau or on the banks of the Neva, directed by American brains, and possibly in association with French and German enterprise, is one of the possibilities of the near future.

Don Luis F. Corea Pays Flying Visit to His Fiancee, Mrs. Ida Dunlop Jordan, at Her Home in Georgia—Sails Later Without Bidding Washington Officials Good-By—His Home at the Capital in a Dismantled Condition—Troubles in the Path of His Wooing.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Señor Don Luis F. Corea, the Nicaraguan minister, who is now on his way to his home in Nicaragua, made a flying trip to the Georgia home of his beautiful fiancée, Mrs. Ida Dunlop Jordan, and had what is believed to be the final interview with her before sailing for his native land.

The marriage of Señor Corea and the Georgia beauty will not occur this month, and there is much speculation here as to whether it will ever take place. The wedding was fixed for the latter part of November, but the exact day was not named.

Must Postpone Wedding.

Señor Corea's trip to Nicaragua will consume twelve days, and therefore there must be another postponement if the wedding takes place, and on this point there appears to be considerable doubt.

There is also considerable speculation as to whether the diplomat will return to this country at all, the opinion of the diplomatic corps being about evenly divided.

All the arrangements for the wedding practically had been completed, and the bride-elect was awaiting the arrival of her trousseau from Paris before setting the day for the ceremony.

Suggests Negro Blood.

Soon after the engagement of Señor Corea and Mrs. Jordan was announced members of her family received an anonymous letter in which the charge was made that Señor Corea had negro blood in his veins and that he proposed to marry Mrs. Jordan to secure possession of her wealth. Señor Corea declared that there was no truth in the charges and insisted that a brother of Mrs. Jordan make an investigation to prove the truth or falsity of the charges. This inquiry has been in progress for some time, but in the absence of the Nicaraguan minister the result cannot be obtained.

PANAMA REVOLT CRUSHED IN TIME

Prompt Action by United States Minister Thwarts a Conspiracy.

GEN. HUERTAS PUT OUT.

American Squadron to Remain at Isthmus and Marines Are Near at Hand.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PANAMA, Nov. 18.—The attempted military coup d'état here was discovered and frustrated in its incipiency, and matters now have assumed definite shape, promising a peaceable solution. When President Amador learned of the plot he immediately applied to the American legation for assistance in upholding his government. Gen. Huertas, chief commander of the army, was the prime mover in the conspiracy to overthrow the government. He was warned by Mr. Lee, the American charge d'affaires, not to make the attempt.

John Barrett, the American minister, arrived here on Wednesday on his return from the United States, and held a conference with President Amador at once. The latter, acting on Minister Barrett's advice, demanded the resignation of Gen. Huertas, on the ground that he had been guilty of insubordination and of inciting mutiny in the army against the government.

Gen. Huertas resigned today, and steps will be taken to disband the army, which is regarded as a source of possible revolution.

The American squadron will remain at Panama for the present. One company of American marines who had been stationed at Emperador has been sent to Ancon, where it will remain until everything is quiet. No rioting has occurred, and it is believed there is no probability of further trouble.

The coöperation of the squadron and the use of American marines is due to a request made by President Amador in accordance with the provisions of the treaty of the United States with the republic of Panama. It is conceded that Gen. Huertas was conspiring against the government, acting as the instrument of outside disaffected politicals, not as a representative of Panama. The insurrectionary movement was not countenanced by liberals or conservatives.

Miss Katherine Doyer.

When you are sick in some part of your body it is because some organ is not doing its work properly.

Every organ of the body is absolutely controlled by the nerves.

Weak, "run down" nerves tell of their condition by stopping the proper action of some one organ, or of several organs, of the body.

Medical science has for the past seventeen years agreed with the teachings of Prof. Edward E. Phelps of Dartmouth University.

Prof. Phelps was the first physician to openly declare twenty years ago that the health of the human body depends entirely upon the health of the nerves.

Prof. Phelps formulated the prescription of Paine's Celery Compound. The first druggist that this prescription was taken to was a man by the name of Paine. One of the principal ingredients of the prescription is the seed of the celery plant.

After two years' trial of the prescription by Prof. Phelps and a number of the leading Massachusetts physicians it was decided to place this prescription before the public.

The formula was sent to every registered physician in the United States. The prescription was named Paine's Celery Compound, and one of the largest and oldest manufacturing chemists in the country, Wells, Richardson & Co., of Burlington, Vt., undertook its production.

Paine's Celery Compound has stood the test of seventeen years' constant use. It has been for the past seventeen years, and is to-day, the most universally used tonic prescription in the world.

A photograph of Miss Katherine Doyer, of Brooklyn, appears at the head of this article. Miss Doyer's experience is given in her own words to illustrate the effective work that Paine's Celery Compound is constantly doing as the curative agent in the nourishing and rebuilding of "rundown" nerves.

"Some time ago I gradually began to grow weak and emaciated; my eyes became dull, my sight poor and my head dizzy. I was restless and nervous and troubled with bad dreams; I had shooting pains in my stomach and suffered nausea after eating. I consulted a physician, who said I had catarrh of the stomach. I took his prescription for nearly six months, but got no better. Hearing so much of Paine's Celery Compound, I decided to try it. It was a fortunate thing for me that I did, for inside of two months I was entirely cured, and have never had a return of any nervous troubles since."—Miss Katherine Doyer, 422 Gold-st., Brooklyn, N. Y., August 15, 1904.

Paine's Celery Compound is a nerve invigorator, a regulator and an ideal blood cleanser. It takes away the "wear" on the nerves and enables them to work without tearing themselves to pieces, and it prevents the unhealthy reaction of tired nerves on the entire system.

It solves the problem of how to build up the nervous system, as no other remedy has ever done.

It cures the causes of constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia, headache, sleeplessness and every sign of impure blood. Nervousness—whether in the form of headaches, sleeplessness, indigestion, melancholia, irritability or any one of a host of other troubles—is a disease, and as such can be driven from the system by the use of Paine's Celery Compound.

Remember this—Paine's Celery Compound is the prescription of one of the most famous physicians this country has ever known, and all reputable druggists sell and recommend it.

This Credit Man's Doctor Told Him What to Eat and the Man is Glad.

Milwaukee, Wis., 504 Oakland Ave., June 17, 1904.

Dear Sirs:—When I returned from the South last Winter I was fifteen pounds short in weight and without an appetite. My doctor suggested Apitezo. He said it would build up my blood and prove a pleasant and invigorating food. I have been eating three biscuits of Apitezo each day for half a year. It tastes as good to-day as ever. I began by using it for breakfast. Before long I was eating it at supper. When I return home late at night I eat a half or whole Apitezo biscuit in preference to fruit or any light luncheon. It doesn't distress the stomach or disturb my sleep. The doctor tells me my blood is in perfect condition. I could not take the iron tinctures he gave me, and he says the iron in Apitezo ought to have the credit for my good health.

"PRESSURE" GAS KILLS AND MAIMS.

Acetylene Tank "Lets Go" at Grand Crossing—Four Dead, 11 Hurt.

EXPLOSION IS TERRIFIC.

Buildings Wrecked in Neighborhood—Overcharging May Have Caused Accident.

That the manufacture of acetylene gas is not governed by the municipal code was brought to light when four men were killed and a score injured in a terrific gas explosion which shook Grand Crossing yesterday morning. This gas when forced into tanks is under a pressure of 150 pounds. The ordinary pressure of common gas is one and a half ounces.

The city firemen at least were aware of the menace, as was shown by a letter sent to Mayor Harrison by Chief Musham last May. The chief asked an ordinance regulating the manufacturing of gas under high pressure. The matter was referred to the council judiciary committee on May 16. The committee had reached no decision, however.

It was declared in Grand Crossing after the disaster that residents had tried to secure the removal of the plant, but had failed.

Where Explosion Occurred.

The fatal explosion occurred in a building occupied by the Pyle National Electric Headlight company and forming a part of the plant owned but never occupied by the People's Gaslight and Coke company, it having secured possession when the consolidation of all gas companies went into effect. The detonation there set fire to the adjoining building occupied by the Acetylene Apparatus company. It was situated at Seventy-third street and South Chicago avenue.

In that small building were twenty-two acetylene gas tanks, such as are used in lighting railway cars. Of these eleven exploded almost simultaneously, the others at brief intervals.

The Dead.

JENNINGS, THOMAS, Sixty-fourth street and Jefferson avenue, engineer at Pyle plant, instantly killed.

MUEHL, GEORGE, 94 Keenon street, draftsman employed by the People's Gaslight and Coke company, was on roof of adjoining building; body blown across street.

WATKINS, AMOS, 865 West Jackson boulevard, assistant superintendent of Pyle company, instantly killed.

WELLS, RALPH, 6523 Ellis avenue, superintendent for the Pyle company, instantly killed.

The Injured.

Bosse, Edward, 310 Desplaines street, Blue Island; arms broken.

Cox, Alfred, 4958 Princeton avenue; internally injured; may die.

Doane, Thomas, Seventy-fifth street and Dobson avenue, working at a lathe in the plant; struck on the head by glass and severely cut.

Grant, C. W., 6038 Langley avenue; blown 100 feet from the building; legs and arms fractured.

Hansel, Bruno, 807 Hoyne street; face and body cut and bruised by flying bricks.

Kelly, John, fireman of Truck 16, caught beneath falling wall, severely bruised.

Kennedy, John, 7345 Greenwood avenue; walking in South Chicago avenue, near the plant, when he was struck in the back and felled by a piece of steel; not seriously injured.

Logan, J. C., employed in adjoining building; blown out of the building, but escaped without serious injury.

Maloney, William H., 7208 Ellis avenue; on third floor of acetylene tank building; blown through the wall 100 feet away from the building; body crushed and severely injured; may die.

Olson, William, employed of the gas company; thrown down as he passed one of the tanks; injuries not serious.

Wrabble, Max, 6352 Evans avenue; right foot blown off; internal injuries; arms and leg broken; rescued by a companion.

Overcharging May Be the Cause.

The cause of the explosion is believed to have been the overcharging of one of the acetylene gas tanks. Wells, Watkins, and Jennings were in the tankroom at the time. Their charred bodies were found in the ruins of the building. Muehl had been sent from the office of the People's Gaslight and Coke company to attend to repairs on a building leased to another concern.

Nearly all the injured were workmen in a large three story building adjoining, rented by the Acetylene Apparatus Manufacturing company. This building also was wrecked.

The first explosion came at 10:15 o'clock. Five minutes earlier A. M. Doane, foreman for the acetylene company, had passed through the building where it occurred, stopping for a time to speak with the men at work there.

Witness Describes the Explosion.

"I barely escaped with my life," he stated. "Hardly had I gone across the street, when there was a tremendous report that shook the earth, a flash of flame and smoke, and the walls of the plant began to crumble. An acetylene gas tank shot through the roof of the building I had just left high in the air and broke into pieces."

In a saloon at the opposite corner of Seventy-third street and South Chicago avenue were the proprietor, Stephen Hennessey, and several customers. A sheet of iron was hurled through the window, tearing away the front part of the building. The occupants scattered in terror.

School Drill Prevents Panic.

The shock was felt for miles and caused a panic in the neighborhood of the plant. At the Cornell school, Seventy-fifth street and Drexel avenue, several children were thrown violently from their seats and almost every window in the schoolhouse was shattered. The fire drill was formed immediately and the children dismissed without a panic. Similar conditions prevailed at the Paul Revere school, Seventy-second street and Ellis avenue. The teachers' perfect control over their pupils alone prevented a wild rush for the doors, in which many would have been injured, perhaps killed.

The instant they recovered from the stunning shock a score of rescuers rushed to the wrecked buildings. They were driven back, however, by the flames, which spread rapidly. A general alarm of fire was sent in, but in spite of the efforts of the firemen it seemed for a time that the fire would spread to three immense steel gas tanks only a short distance from the factory and used by the People's company for storing illuminating gas. Fearful of such a catastrophe, many families in the neighborhood deserted their homes, returning only when the fire had been extinguished.

Engineer's View of the Cause.

"The overcharging of one of the acetylene gas tanks undoubtedly caused the explosions," said W. Edward Scofield, 7365 South Chicago avenue. Scofield is the mechanical engineer of the Acetylene company and the inventor of the machinery used in charging the tanks.

"In charging the tanks, a great deal of caution is required to see that their capacity is not exceeded," he stated. "Usually a workman is careful to be well on the safe side. The man in charge of the work today may have been careless or the tank may not have been of standard resistance. The tanks are under a pressure of 150 pounds to the square inch.

"I conjecture that the explosion of the first tank shattered the pipes through which the gas was being transmitted from the reservoir and allowed the gas to escape and become ignited. The heat thus produced probably resulted in the explosion of the other tanks.

"The only preventive of such an accident lies in extreme caution."

Supt. J. H. Eustace of the People's Gas company arrived at the plant soon after the explosion and expressed surprise that the fire had not spread to the large tanks of illuminating gas. With several workmen, he entered the factory yard and shut off the supply pipes leading from the wrecked building. The gas in the tanks was pumped hastily through mains to tanks in another part of the city.

An inspection of the plant was made late in the afternoon by Coroner Traeger, accompanied by a deputy, with a view to fixing responsibility for the accident at the inquest this morning.

"I will cross examine everybody connected with the plant and learn what their methods have been," the coroner stated. "I am not sure that there has been any laxity in the operation of the plant, but if such has been the case the responsible parties will not escape punishment."

Acting Building Commissioner Stanhope also made a personal inspection of the plant with Chief Building Inspector Doherty. Mr. Stanhope said he wanted particularly to get data as to the strength of the walls and the buildings on the scene of the explosion. A report would be drawn up today, he said.

Fire Marshal Campion was at the wreck as soon as he could make his way. Battalion Chief Kenyon will make a formal report of his findings today, and on this report Chief Campion will, he said, make any recommendations that may occur.

"As a general proposition," the chief said, "I should think such tanks would better be placed underground. However, I have not enough exact information to enable me to discuss the situation yet."

History of Wrecked Plant.

The plant was the old Hyde Park Gas plant, which was absorbed by the People's Gaslight and Coke company. After allowing it to remain in idleness for six years because it was too small for their purposes the gas people eighteen months ago leased it to the two companies which were in possession until yesterday.

The loss on the various buildings and their contents is estimated at $75,000, divided as follows: People's Gaslight and Coke company, $30,000; Pyle National Electric Headlight company, $20,000; Acetylene Apparatus Manufacturing company, $25,000.

FIRE IN A BIG DANCE HALL.

Blaze of Mysterious Origin Damages Stage in Wicker Park Building, West North Avenue.

Fire which started on the stage in the large dance hall of the Wicker Park building yesterday afternoon threatened to destroy the structure at 501 West North avenue. After a hard fight the firemen kept the flames back of the proscenium arch, where they did $5,000 damage.

The blaze was on the third floor, and the firemen have been unable to determine its origin.

Quick work was done in repairing. Carpenters who were put to work immediately after the engines left will have the hall ready for a dance tonight.

AIRSHIP CLINGS TO FENCE.

Fouling of Anchor Blocks Attempt of Benbow of Montana to Fly at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—T. C. Benbow of Butte, Mont., attempted his first free flight with his airship, the Meteor, from the Aeronautic concourse this afternoon.

As the airship neared the concourse fence, at a height of about forty-five to sixty feet, the anchor caught on top of the fence, bringing the ship to a sudden halt and dipping the prow down so that the stern of the ship was almost forty-five degrees above the prow.

The flying machine was pitching and tossing on the end of the rope, and it was only by the utmost exertion that he prevented himself from being thrown from the basket.

Benbow finally released his hold with one hand, and in imminent danger of being tossed from the car lowered a second rope to the ground and was pulled safely down. The damage to the craft was slight.

BOGUS M'CUTCHEON TAKEN

MAN WHO TRIED TO SELL PROPOSED BOOK ARRESTED.

Found by Kansas City Police with Pictures and Descriptions Sent from Chicago — Game Is to Telephone Business Men Asking for $150 to $500 for Copy of Work Which Should Contain Sketch of Victim Drawn by Cartoonist.

Having posed under the name of THE TRIBUNE'S cartoonist, John T. McCutcheon, "Winifred Campbell," who also has two "aliases," and who recently attempted to induce some of Chicago's prominent business men to subscribe $150 to $500 each toward a projected book of caricatures, was captured last night in Kansas City. His book of "Caricatures of Prominent Men" remains unpublished.

His arrest was the result of his abandoning the telephone and appearing in person before several of his intended victims there, stating boldly either that he was Mr. McCutcheon himself or the artist's agent.

Detectives Anderson and Elrose were detailed on the case by Lieut. Roban. Through descriptions of Campbell given by those whom he approached, his identity was easily established. It was found he was also known as William R. Bond and Daniel Malcomb, and that he had a police record.

Police Send Out Descriptions.

Obtaining his photographs and measurements, Chief O'Neill sent these, together with a description of the man, to the police of Milwaukee and Kansas City. This matter was accompanied by a letter under the date of Nov. 17, which stated that the police would probably find the man staying at some leading hotel. A book containing the photographs of prominent men, it was said, might also be found in his possession.

A telegram from the police at Kansas City received here late last night told the brief story of the police's capture. Whether this has been impersonating Mr. McCutcheon outside Chicago is not known.

It was stated that Campbell had succeeded in obtaining a considerable amount of money from several well known Chicago business men. Their names, however, are guarded closely. It was these men who furnished the identification.

Details of Campbell's Game.

Campbell's game was to call up some business man at his office, state that he was Mr. McCutcheon, and was preparing a volume of sketches of prominent citizens. There would be a little expense attached to it, he explained, and added that if his "customer" would send a check for the amount, inclosing a photograph, the book would be forthcoming.

The ruse was discovered when Mr. McCutcheon's telephone bell called the artist at his studio in the Fine Arts building a dozen times to answer what were at first to him insane inquiries.

"How about that book of drawings, Mr. McCutcheon? If I send my personal check will that be all right?"

Mr. McCutcheon warned the public of the game and the operations stopped. The prisoner will be brought to Chicago for a trial.

Campbell arrived in Kansas City last Sunday accompanied by his wife. He will be held here to await the arrival of Chicago detectives. He disclaims any knowledge of the charges against him in Chicago. He says he had trouble in Milwaukee, but settled with his accusers.

MINISTER IS SENT TO JAIL.

Massachusetts Clergyman Found Guilty of Contempt of Court for Writing to a Judge.

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 18.—The Rev. W. P. Squires, pastor of the First Baptist church at East Brookfield, was sent to jail for thirty days today for contempt of court by Judge Forbes of the Probate court. The clergyman wrote a letter to the judge in connection with a suit now pending, in which the First Baptist church is interested, accusing witnesses of perjury. The judge promptly decided that the writer had used "undue and improper influence" with the court and sentenced him to pay a fine of $50 or go to jail. The clergyman said he could not pay the fine and took the alternative.

LIVELY FIGHT OVER A HOTEL.

Testimony in Indiana Harbor Case, on Trial at Laporte, Involves a Number of Chicagoans.

The legal battle between the Indiana Harbor company and Mrs. Bertha K. Chittenden for possession of the South Bay hotel, Indiana Harbor, is growing lively. The case is on trial before a jury at Laporte, Ind., the company, which is controlled by the Palmer family, trying to dispossess Mrs. Chittenden. The charge is she violated the lease by allowing the sale of liquor on Sunday and after hours and by housing certain guests. It is charged that a clergyman became intoxicated in the hotel. The visits of several parties of Chicagoans to the hotel also figure in the testimony.

HORSE SLEUTH "NO GOOD" IN MURDER CASE INQUIRY.

Fails to Go to Place Where Body of Italian Was Thrown Into Lake, and Inspector Shippy Is Disgusted.

"Guiseppi," an aged, broken down, dapple gray horse, is "no good" as a detective. Inspector Shippy decided this yesterday after using the feeble wagon hauler in an attempt to solve the mystery of the murder of Natoli Selafani, whose body was found on Monday in the lake off the foot of Bryan avenue, Rogers Park.

The horse was taken early in the morning from 95 Polk street, where the police arrested Joseph Renzino, its owner, as a suspect. The horse is believed to have been the one which hauled the Italian's body from Chicago and Lombardo is thought to have been the driver.

Horse Sleepy Early in Day.

"Gid-ap," cried Shippy, but the steed did not budge. After considerable prodding it started north, the police hoping it would lead them to the spot where Selafani's body was thrown into the lake. The men drove to North Clark street and Devon avenue, then loosed the reins and let the animal take its own course. It trotted right ahead, head down, not interested in the murder. Finally it was stopped several blocks north of Bryan avenue, and Shippy turned back.

But while the "horse clew" failed, there were other developments in the mystery. Six of the men held as accessories to the crime were arraigned in the Chicago avenue police court and held in $5,000 bonds each for a further hearing a week from today. They were:

Joseph Renzino, proprietor of grocery at 65 Polk street, and brother of Charles Renzino, in whose lodging house at 415 Clark street the murder is believed to have been committed.

Joseph Lombardo, lodger of Charles Renzino.

Frank Blino, occupant of room near one in which crime is said to have been committed.

Joyce Toppin, colored porter in lodging house saloon, who said he heard struggle in Selafani's room Saturday night.

Peter Miro, lodger; principal suspect.

John Justine, waiter in Renzino saloon.

Philip Domingo, friend of Seafiani, may be released.

City Chemist in the Case.

In examining the suspects Inspector Shippy had a stenographer take down their replies to prove no "sweatbox" methods were used. He said:

"The decision of the city chemist on some of our evidence will be of vital importance. On the coat of Joseph Renzino are several spots, on the tarpaulin found in the wagon are more, and on a quantity of paper found in the rear of Renzino's barn are blood stains in great numbers and hairs which I believe are those from a man's head."

Promise $10,000 Cash for Release.

Relatives of Charles Renzino in the evening sought to secure his release. When told $10,000 cash was necessary as security they appeared jubilant and declared they would be at the station this morning with the bond requirement.

Lombardo attempted to establish an alibi by declaring that on the night of the murder he was delivering baggage, and had taken three trunks to the grocery of Mrs. G. Gotto, 95 Polk street. Mrs. Gotto confronted him and denied his story.

Similar to Murder in 1903.

The police found the nineteen wounds on Selafani's body were similar to the eighteen on that of Giuseppi Dugo, whose body was found in bushes in Jackson park on Jan. 13, 1903. They believe the same gang may have committed both crimes.

SAN FRANCISCO CHINATOWN MAY MOVE TO NEW QUARTERS.

Corporation Plans Model Oriental City for Present Residents and to Increase Values in Old District.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—To establish an oriental city in San Francisco and to rebuild the present Chinese quarter is the purpose of a corporation just organized here under the name of the United States Improvement and Investment company. It's aim is to build a model city on the bay shore, equipped with a modern sewage system, a refuse incinerating plant, street railways, theaters, hospitals, schools, and all other conveniences. At the same time they will retain all the picturesque oriental characteristics.

The idea is to afford Chinese merchants every facility for rapidly building up a large export and import trade with their own country, so as to secure to this city the major part of the trade of the far east.

At present the properties in Chinatown, which takes in almost sixteen city blocks, are appraised at less than $6,000,000, but the company claims that under its plan they will be worth $25,000,000.

ARSON WITNESS ADMITS PERJURY.

I. N. Perry Scores Heavily When Watchman Bock Confesses on the Stand.

SURPRISE TO THE STATE.

Witness Says He Testified Falsely to Hide His Own Neglect of Duty.

Isaac N. Perry's chances for escaping an indictment on the charge of arson were brightened considerably yesterday when the star witness for the prosecution, Watchman Frank Bock, "corrected" some of the material points in his testimony relative to his movements on the day of the fire in the Chicago Car and Locomotive works in Hegewisch.

When the hearing was resumed in Justice Foster's court in South Chicago, Bock was recalled to the stand by Attorney Forrest and subjected to a scathing line of questions. He retracted his previous testimony about going directly back to the works when he left Perry at the railroad station on the afternoon of Oct. 9, and admitted that he was away from the factory for half an hour. His excuse for his contradictory statement was that he wished to conceal the fact that he was idling his time. He also brought out that the factory yard was easy of entrance.

Defense Claims Great Victory.

These surprising admissions, according to the lawyers for the defense, affected deeply the general credibility of the witness, and destroyed the chain of circumstantial evidence which the prosecution had been weaving around Perry.

"While Bock has disappointed us, he has retracted none of the story of Perry's movements, which are unexplainable except upon the ground of guilt," said Attorney Haynie R. Pearson.

Some attempt was made by the state to get at the facts in regard to the exact relation of the National Bank of North America to F. M. Pease, but Assistant State's Attorney Lindley was not satisfied with the evidence brought out and will call all the directors of the bank to the stand if necessary to find out the truth.

Forrest Goes After Bock.

Bock was called to the stand when court convened. He was trembling. Beginning with the time when the witness left Perry at the factory on the afternoon of Oct. 9, Attorney Forrest traced his movements at the railroad station, and down to the check office of the Western Steel and Foundry company.

"Did you meet a man there named Holt or Kennedy?" asked the attorney.

"Yes, I saw them both."

"Will you swear that you did not stop in the check office fifteen minutes?"

"No. I sat down there awhile."

"While you were seated there did not some one tap on the window and say 'fire,' and point in the direction of the erecting shop?"

"I heard a man holler and looking up saw the smoke."

Lied to Protect Himself.

"Now, will you tell the court why it was that when you were recalled before by me you positively stated that your attention was not called to the fire when you were in the checkroom?"

"I did it for this reason. After I left Mr. Perry, after the train went away with him, I went back. Seeing Holt at the gate I talked to him. Had I not stopped likely I would have been on the premises as I should have been."

"And knowing these things were not facts you testified to them?"

"I did because I did not care to mention that I had spent that time in the office."

Admits Testimony Was False.

"And all those answers that you made to Mr. Lindley as to where it was you first discovered a fire were untrue?"

"Yes, sir."

"What did you go to the city hall this morning for?"

"I was going to tell Mr. Lindley that I was going to correct my statements. I know I was wrong."

"When did you first make up your mind to tell the truth?"

"After I was on the stand here the last time. I saw you knew it then."

Attorney Lindley was plainly nonplused by the situation his star witness was placed in and in a cross examination tried to show that no motive of enmity to Mr. Perry was behind the perjury and that the material facts of the testimony still stood.

C. O. Austin a Witness.

Charles O. Austin, former vice president of the National Bank of North America, was next called to the stand. He testified concerning the Pease indebtedness to the bank, saying that the note was for $185,000, and was liquidated by notes of the Standard Trading company. William H. Gilkes, discount clerk at the bank, testified regarding the dates of the notes. Interest on the notes was promptly paid by Perry. No evidence was admitted to show that Perry personally guaranteed the loan.

Jone Tells of the Fuses.

City Chemist Hugo Jone was put on the stand, and testified as an expert witness on the combustibility of cotton fuses treated in oils.

He said that a fuse similar to the one in evidence treated with linseed or olive oil would burn from twenty to thirty minutes, leaving a mark like the one on the exhibits.

James W. Erringer, western salesman for the Lehman Carriage Heater company of New York, testified that the carbon in evidence was sold by his company to from 75 to 100 Chicago customers, among whom was Martin Farrell, the livery man at 201 Thirtieth street. The hearing was continued until Tuesday morning.

IS ARRESTED FOR SHOPLIFTING.

Well Dressed Prisoner Gives the Name of Mrs. Mary Lester When Locked Up by the Police.

A well dressed woman giving the name of Mrs. Mary Lester was arrested for theft in a State street department store yesterday afternoon. She was taken to the Harrison street station and, the police say, confessed. A silk dressing sacque was found on her. This, the police say, was stolen from another store a short time before she was detected. The woman is well dressed and the police say she refuses to give her correct name. She said she lived in Elgin, Ill., but later retracted her statement and said that she lived in Aurora. The prisoner also said that she was the widow of John Lester, who killed himself at their home in Harvey more than three years ago.

HATCHET USED BY ROBBER

VICTIM MAY DIE FROM ATTACK IN HIS PAWNSHOP.

Hyman Isaacs, 2342 State Street, Beaten Over Head by Negro While Alone in His Store—Found Unconscious by Daughter in Afternoon—Man Arrested and Handle of Weapon Found in His Room—Alleged to Have Confessed Crime.

In an encounter with a negro robber Hyman Isaacs, a pawnbroker at 2342 State street, yesterday was beaten over the head with a hatchet and probably fatally injured. The robber looted the cash drawer and escaped. He was arrested later and gave the name of William M. Johnson. The handle of the hatchet was found in his room at 2214 Dearborn street. The blade was picked up in the pawnshop where the attack was made.

Isaacs, who is 54 years old, was alone in the shop when the negro entered. There was no witness to the assault. The theory of the police is that Isaacs resisted an attempt to rob him and was struck down.

Desperate Struggle in Store.

That the pawnbroker struggled desperately to save his cash and valuables was shown by the disorder in the store. Tables were overturned and goods scattered about the floor. Back and forth Isaacs and his assailant evidently had struggled the entire length of the place.

The blunt end of the hatchet apparently was used by the negro. After securing the money from the cash drawer the robber ran from the store, leaving his hat behind. As he dashed from the shop he attracted the attention of August Banlody, a barber next door. Banlody started in pursuit, but was driven back.

Daughter Finds the Victim.

At 2 o'clock Miss Bessie Isaacs, a daughter of the pawnbroker, who acts as his bookkeeper, came to the shop to allow her father to go to luncheon. She found him lying on the floor unconscious and became hysterical. Her screams attracted the attention of neighbors and the police were notified. Isaacs was taken to the Post Graduate hospital.

Detective Cronin of the Cottage Grove avenue station was one of the men detailed on the case. At Twenty-second and State streets in the evening he met Johnson carrying a bundle and wearing a new hat. Johnson was taken to the police station and questioned. The bundle contained a new suit of clothing which had just been purchased. The prisoner admitted beating the pawnbroker.

Handle Fits the Blade.

Meanwhile Sergeant O'Connor had gone to Johnson's room. There he found the handle of the hatchet. It was taken to the pawnshop and fitted to the blade found there. Johnson was taken to the hospital to be identified by Isaacs, but the pawnbroker was still unconscious late last night.

It could not be learned how much cash and other booty was taken by the robber. Miss Isaacs said she would be unable to tell until an inventory had been made. It is thought the robber secured considerable jewelry.

Says Isaacs Threatened Him.

Johnson is employed in a downtown restaurant as a waiter. He had in his possession several pawn tickets issued by Isaacs.

"I beat him because he threatened to shoot me," said Johnson to the police. "He drove me out of his store and I went home and got the hatchet. Then I went back and when he reached for his revolver I struck him."

Johnson's story is not believed by the police. The trouble with the pawnbroker, he says, was over a difference of 25 cents in the price to be paid for a suit of clothes.

"Strong Arm" Woman Taken.

The first "strong arm woman" arrested by the police in several years was captured by Patrolman McGrath of the Desplaines street station in the evening, after she had attacked and robbed Edward Hineman of Elgin, Ill. The prisoner is Lottie Harris, a negress. In the struggle following the seizure of Hineman's purse, the man was slashed with a knife and was unconscious when the policeman returned to the scene with the prisoner.

Hineman, with his wife, was visiting at 181 West Lake street, and was attacked at Lake and Sangamon streets. He was seized from behind, his assailant pressing an arm about his throat, while with her free hand she secured a purse containing $77. As she fled Hineman pursued her, shouting for help. He seized her, but was cut across the face with a knife. McGrath had heard his cries and, after a short chase, captured the woman. She came from St. Louis, and is said to have served prison sentences for similiar offenses.

Robbers Use Clubs Downtown.

Two robbers carrying clubs attacked Robert Wynn, superintendent of the North Shore Electric plant of Waukegan, while he was walking in Lake street, near La Salle, at 10:30 o'clock at night. They beat him on the head, without warning, and left him stunned on the sidewalk. After they had secured a small amount of money they remained bending over him.

Wynn, although dazed, seized one of the thieves, shouted for help, and held him until a policeman came. The robber was taken to the Central station.

Silverware valued at $400 was taken in the evening from the residence of Dr. R. Lull, 121 North Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park, during the family's absence.

GETS EVEN WITH HOLDUP MAN.

Man Robbed of Last Cent Identifies Harry Spencer as One Who Raided Roeder's Saloon.

There was a dramatic scene in the West Chicago avenue police station last night when Harry Spencer was identified as the man who robbed several persons in the saloon of Joseph Roeder, 404 Western avenue, recently. P. J. McCormack, one of the victims, said as he identified Spencer:

"Don't you remember my plea for mercy when I told you that my mother was on her deathbed, my family destitute, and that I was unemployed when you robbed me of my last dollar at the point of your revolver? You shall have no mercy from me."

Spencer was arrested in connection with the Peterson murder some months ago, but established an alibi. His last alleged robbery was Monday night in the saloon of Jerry Sullivan, Wood street and Grand avenue. He was positively identified by Sullivan and John McGinnis, who were in the saloon at the time.

After purchasing an entire new wardrobe and a railway ticket to Jackson, Mich., Rudolph Hanewald was arrested by the West Chicago avenue police on a charge of the theft of $800 from his employer, Charles Pufander, a butcher at Erie and Noble streets.

JUDGE MAY CLOSE TRACTION DEAL.

Given Out That Visit to New York Was to Urge Purchase of City Railway.

SUCCESS IS IN SIGHT.

Returning to Chicago, and an Announcement of Merger Plans Expected Soon.

Judge Grosscup will return from New York today. With him will come not only Special Counsel John S. Miller and Receiver Marshall E. Sampsell, whom he took with him, but a number of the eastern people whom he went to see. It is reported that the judge is still wearing the smile which he so noticeably displayed after the New York conference.

A statement made in that city last evening by one of the parties to the conference was as follows:

"Judge Grosscup came here to see the eastern men interested in the Chicago Union Traction company and he secured assurance from them that they will now go ahead with the merger proposition and take over the Chicago City railway. A statement to this effect will be made after Judge Grosscup gets back to Chicago on Saturday.

"What figure was agreed upon for the City railway stock I do not know."

A story which was told in Chicago yesterday was that one of the objects of the eastern trip was to seek an arrangement whereby it would be possible for the Union Traction company to make a waiver of its ninety-nine year rights on the lines of the one in the Chicago City tentative ordinance. He had learned from his conferences with the city authorities that a waiver must be made as a condition precedent of any franchise extensions.

Heavy Load of Bonds.

The difficulty in the Union Traction situation is that that company is burdened with a great load of bonds, issued for the underlying companies, and the main security for these bonds is the rights under the ninety-nine year act. The bondholders naturally will insist that their security be not impaired.

It has been the opinion of the judge for some time that if some other adequate security is substituted for these ninety-nine year rights the bondholders would have no right to complain, and that substitution which has been generally suggested was a new ordinance giving franchise rights for the entire system for twenty years instead of the ninety-nine year act, which has a longer life but only applies to a part of the property.

The plan of settling this, which it is reported the judge talked of at the New York conferences, is that the trustees for the various issues of bonds put out by the North and West Chicago street railway companies be joined as parties to a suit in which the matter is to be decided, defendants entering into an agreement not to appeal.

Statement by Chairman Foreman.

Chairman Foreman of the committee on local transportation gave out a statement during the day in which he insisted that the Union Traction company must at once show a real desire to reach a settlement with the city or some other method of operating the properties would be the inevitable result. Among other things the alderman said:

"The proclamation by the mayor in regard to a referendum and the securing of a petition under the public option act raise a question which must be carefully considered.

"I firmly believe that if a settlement is to be made with the present companies it must be made quickly. The people must have decent street railway service. The present companies must promptly show signs of repentance. It may be true that while the lamp holds out to burn the vilest sinner may return, but a corporate sinner may become so vile the lamp will cease burning for it."

Admires New York Subway.

Ald. Foreman goes to New York tomorrow or Monday to inspect the subway there. Engineer George Jackson will go with him. Commissioner Bloodgood returned yesterday from New York, where he had been on a similar mission. He came back enthusiastic over the subway, but claiming Chicago could improve on it if it built one.

MEDICAL "GRAFT" EXPOSURE LEADS TO WARM MEETING.

Participation of Dr. J. Clarence Webster and Dr. Palmer Findley Discussed by Gynecological Society.

The introduction by Dr. E. C. Dudley at the meeting of the Gynecological society last night of an amendment to the constitution prohibiting its members from making any division of their fees with other surgeons was the signal for a discussion regarding the part taken by the president, Dr. J. Clarence Webster, and the secretary, Dr. Palmer Findley, in the recent exposure of the division of fees.

Dr. Findley suggested the scheme to a reporter for THE TRIBUNE, dictated the decoy letter, and selected the names of the surgeons to whom they were to be sent by checking them off in a medical directory. Dr. Webster was consulted frequently. He revised and made corrections in the letter. When the answers were sent on to Chicago they were turned over to Dr. Findley by the reporter, and the reporter later secured them from Dr. Webster.

Dr. Webster and Dr. Findley made statements regarding their actions. The discussion, which followed was participated in by several others of the physicians present, and it is said to have been heated until toward the close of the meeting, which did not adjourn until midnight.

Later speakers, it was said, strove to bring about harmony, and the spirit manifested toward the last indicated that much of the bitterness had been overcome and that for the best interests of the society and the profession it was decided to take a lenient view of the ethical offense which some of those present thought their president and secretary had committed.

The decision is said to have been reached that the incident should be closed as far as that society is concerned.

FAMILY TOO BIG FOR BRONX FLATS

Man and Wife and Seven Children Are Forced to Live in Tent.

MILLIONS FOR CHARITIES

Miss Sarah C. Tracy, in Her Will, Provides for Building Schools and Orphan Asylums.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, New York, Nov. 18.

Henry Brooks, his wife, five children, and two grandchildren are living in a tent pitched on the "four corners" in East Chester because Brooks says he cannot find any landlord in the Bronx who will rent him apartments because of his many small children. He is a well to do cabinet maker and well able to pay reasonable rent. Brooks lived with his family of children, whose ages range from 9 months to 14 years, at Two Hundred and Sixteenth street and White Plains road until three weeks ago. Then they moved because the house was condemned to permit widening the street. Three days later Brooks engaged a flat ten blocks further south and paid $10 deposit. When he went there with his family and furniture the landlord balked and gave him back his $10.

Barred from Flats Because He Has Children.

The van driver took the furniture to a vacant lot on Eleventh street and White Plains road and left it there. He said that Brooks had such hard luck that he would not take any pay. The Brookses pitched their tent there over night, and in the morning moved to the vicinity of the marshes off the Boston post road, near the shores of Pelham bay. They have been there ever since. According to Brooks he has gone all over the Bronx in an unsuccessful hunt for rooms. Today he visited twenty landlords, but without success. The storm of last Sunday tipped his tent over the stove and set fire to it. He is fearful what will happen if his big family should still be living in the tent when cold weather and snow come.

Little is known outside of her own immediate neighborhood of Miss Sarah C. Tracy, for many years a devout attendant at the Church of St. Francis Xavier in West Thirteenth street, who died on Nov. 9 and left a fortune estimated at $6,000,000, the greater part of which in her will she bequeathed to charity. The bulk of the estate is left to Bishop P. J. Donahue of Wheeling, W. Va., the only instruction being that he have erected and maintained the following institutions:

Woman Bequeaths Large Fortune to Charities.

An industrial school for unfortunates in memory of her grandfather, Keating Rawson.

An orphan asylum for poor boys under invocation of St. Edward.

An orphan asylum for poor girls under invocation of St. Catherine of Siena.

Two orphan asylums in memory of her brother, Edward Tracy.

The will provides further for "the erection of a church to the Blessed Virgin Mary, mother of God."

The freight steamer Mohawk of the Central Vermont railroad, bound for New London, Conn., took fire off Morton's point, on Long Island sound, and was burned to the water's edge early today. The crew, except the watchman, were rescued and taken to Fall River, Mass. It is believed the Mohawk will be a total loss. The Mohawk left New York last evening with a full cargo of general merchandise, and had twenty-eight persons on board. That only one life was lost was due to the fact that the Fall River line steamer Boston had closely followed the Mohawk down the sound and was at hand to render aid when it became necessary to desert the ship.

The Mohawk's men said the fire was discovered by those in the pilot house shortly after midnight, and gained headway from the start.

"The baroness was proud of her family connections. She was an aristocrat, though democratic in many ways. She did not have as well bred table manners as one might have expected from her antecedents," testified James M. Giles, a witness before Surrogate Thomas in the contest of the will of Baroness Sarah Morris de Vaugrigneuse today.

Picked Her Teeth with a Fork; Mind Unsound?

The baroness left more than $500,000 to her business agent, J. Herbert Carpenter. Relatives who were not mentioned are endeavoring to prove that the testatrix was not competent to make a will, while representatives of the American Geographical society and Grace church declare she was of sound mind.

That she was in the habit of picking her teeth with a fork was one of the points brought out in favor of the former contention.

"How much did she drink at a meal?" inquired the surrogate of a maid.

"She always took two glasses of champagne, a tumbler full of claret, some water, a little wine, and a glass of whisky for lunch," replied the girl.

J. P. Morgan, ex-Lieut. Gov. Timothy L. Woodruff, Alfred G. Vanderbilt, and others are named as codefendants with the state of New York in proceedings to recover a vast tract of forest lands in the Adirondacks now being instituted by the heirs of the late George T. Downing, a mulatto who died in Newport two years ago. According to Rufus L. Perry, a lawyer of Brooklyn, who has been retained by the executors of the Downing estate, the property involved aggregates between 5,000 and 6,000 acres and is valued at $1,000,000 or more. It was sold by the state for nonpayment of taxes.

Representatives of Chicago banks are in New York endeavoring to loan large sums of money. It is said the Chicago banks have more money than they know what to do with. They keep large sums on deposit in New York. One of these banks, for example, keeps $20,000,000 in New York, on which it receives 2 per cent. An officer of this bank came east to see whether they could not employ some of this money to a better advantage, but he found New York banks offering money in such abundance at only a little better than 2 per cent that he decided to leave his bank's deposit in the local banks.

Fearing that Lawrence J. Dr. Samuel J. ITALY MAY SOLVE SOUTH'S PROBLEM

Ambassador Plans to Divert the Immigration Flood from Northern Cities to Dixie's Farms.

sufficient to attract the attention of the Italian government. It naturally began to look around for some means by which to better the conditions of the Italians coming to this country. Speaking in round numbers, only 20 per cent of the south Italians seemed to get away from the northern Atlantic seaboard. A vast majority crowd the tenements of New York, Boston, and Philadelphia. Others are building railroads in the east and living in filthy, movable huts, while still others die like sheep in the miserable hovels which shelter the laborers in the mines of Pennsylvania, Maryland, and West Virginia.

It would be hard to imagine an environment more completely at odds with the old home life of these former denizens of sunny Italy.

Homes Waiting in the South.

In the south today, in South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, and more particularly in Texas, there are hundreds of thousands of acres of land which are lying idle merely for want of laborers to scratch the soil. The labor supply of the south today is confined to the negro, as it was in 1860. There are opportunities to develop coal, iron, lumber, and other natural products, to say nothing of the increased production of cotton, sugar, rice, and other staples, which have been neglected all these years. Tens of millions of people have come into the United States, and yet scarcely any at all have reached the south.

Seem to Shun the South.

I have just shown that during the fiscal year of 1903 there were 91,774 south Italians destined for New York state. How many were billed to Mississippi, where Gov. Vardaman complains of the tyranny of black labor? Just thirty-six.

The contrast is startling, and it seems to be in absolute defiance of the ordinary laws of supply and demand, because labor, white or black, is welcomed in Mississippi, as in other states.

Let me run over the figures. There are 26 for Arkansas, 7 for Georgia, 2 for North Carolina, 11 for South Carolina, 151 for Texas and 67 for Virginia. There were 4,815 south Italians who went to Louisiana. A large percentage of them engaged in the fruit business in New Orleans and other towns, while there were a few, some of whom I saw at work, who went into the cotton plantations in that state. Taken altogether, the total immigration into the southern states for the year cited amounted to only 5,203 of these south Italians.

Result of Padrone Evil.

One can readily understand that the Scandinavians, the Germans, and the Irish should naturally have held themselves close to the northern states, where climatic conditions were similar to those they had left at home. By this same law of climate, the south Italians should have gone into our southern states. It so happened when they began to come here practically all of them were in one way or another under the influence of the padrone system, which best flourishes in the large cities, in the great manufacturing centers, or in mining and railroad work, where men could be sold to employers in large blocks.

The padrone system has been largely destroyed, but the tide of Italian immigration has naturally followed between the dikes which were originally built by the padrones and which. I have heard it whispered, were at least ignored if not encouraged by certain officials of the Italian government here in America in years gone by.

The new Italian ambassador is a progressive man. He has been shocked at the congestion of his countrymen in the great cities and in the mines and railroad camps. His attention has been invited to the south. At first he had the broad acres of Texas more particularly in view, but within the last week or so his attention has been more or less directed to the fact that in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana there are thousands upon thousands of acres of the finest kind of land which can be had almost for the asking. That is to say, the southern owners will hire any man who comes along, white or black, for wages, or they will rent the land for a small sum, payable either in cash or produce, when the crop is harvested, or they will rent the plantation on shares and advance the renter as much as he needs to cultivate the land.

Sig. Edmondo Mayor des Planches, the Italian ambassador, has studied the question since his arrival, has reported the situation to his government, and has been instructed to take the preliminary steps to divert the Italian immigrants in this country into the south and southwest. The influence of the ambassador is enormous, and when he makes up his mind as to the best locality this country is likely to see an influx of agricultural white labor into the south which in the course of a few years would restore the balance of power and place it once more in the hands of the white men.

Would Settle Negro Question.

Whenever the white men by sticking together can carry the elections without much difficulty they will stick together and the necessity for disfranchising the negro will cease.

Ambassador Mayor des Planches expected to start south about this time, but an arbitration treaty between the United States and Italy is in process of negotiation. Later on there come the usual social obligations of an early Washington winter. Late in January, however, the ambassador will start through the southern states on a tour of inspection. He has already received many invitations from important cities, and later on, when the purpose of his visit becomes understood, probably he will be flooded with requests for stops, because the demand for labor throughout the entire south can scarcely be appreciated by the northern people. It is enormous and is growing daily, and unless I am much mistaken the ambassador is likely to be overwhelmed by the liberality of offers of assistance in his work which will come to him from every important section of the southern states.

Funeral Plans Being Made.

No arrangements have been made as yet for Mr. Caton's funeral beyond the decision that his body will be brought back to Chicago at once. The Chicago club will take immediate action upon his death, and a similar move is planned at the Calumet club, where Mr. Caton spent much of his time.

DEATH OF THOMAS A. MORAN.

Heart Disease Ends His Life Suddenly Shortly After Midnight in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

A telephone message brought the news early yesterday morning of the sudden death in New York of former Judge Thomas A. Moran. He expired at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel shortly after midnight. Death was caused by heart disease.

On Thursday evening Mr. Moran went to Weber & Zeigfeld's music hall and returned to his room in the hotel apparently feeling well. He retired about midnight. Toward 1 o'clock he called to find who occupied the next room and complained that he had difficulty in breathing. Dr. Robert S. Adams, the hotel physician, was summoned, but when he arrived he found that nothing he could do availed and Mr. Moran died in a short time.

Shortly after his death Coroner's Physician Weston was summoned to the hotel. He made a brief inquiry. He determined the cause of death and granted a permit for the removal of the body. When he sent his report to the coroner's office he omitted to specify the cause of death. Then a rumor started that death was due to suicide and Coroner Schooler telephoned to the police to stop the removal of the body. Then the coroner hastened to the hotel. His investigation showed there was no ground for the rumor and he countermanded the order to the police.

Mr. Moran had been a sufferer from chronic rheumatism for several years and recently had taken a course of baths at San Antonio, Tex.

He left for New York on professional business last Wednesday. With him was Alfred S. Austrian, one of his law partners.

Preparing for Funeral.

Carl Meyer, a member of the law firm, and Eugene Moran, the youngest son, left for New York at noon on the Twentieth Century limited. It is expected that they will return with the body at once, leaving New York at 2:45 this afternoon, and the funeral will be held, in all probability, on Monday or Tuesday.

Committees were appointed by the Chicago Bar association, the Iroquois, Chicago, and Sheridan clubs, of which Mr. Moran was a member, to coöperate in the funeral arrangements. The judges of the Circuit and Superior courts held a meeting and appointed Judges Dunne, Clifford, and Gary to prepare resolutions. They also decided to not open their courts on the day of the funeral until 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

In Many Important Suits.

In the last few years Mr. Moran had figured in some of the largest legal contests in Chicago. He was, in fact, engaged on one side or the other of nearly every great case that has atracted public attention in the last quarter of a century.

He was elected to the bench of the Circuit court in 1879, and was reëlected in 1885, and again in 1891. After having served for six years on the Circuit bench he was assigned to the Appellate bench by the Supreme court. He served in that position until March, 1892, then, when he had still an unexpired term of five and one-half years, he resigned to resume the practice of law.

Born in New England.

Mr. Moran was of Irish descent. He was born at Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 7, 1839. When he was 7 years of age his father moved with his family to Bristol, Kenosha county, Wis., and became a farmer. Young Moran as a boy aided in carrying on the work of the farm until he was 19, attending district school during the winter months.

After the death of his father, in 1862, the farm was sold, and young Moran went to the Albany Law school, in New York. He was graduated there in May, 1865. He came to Chicago in November, 1865, and engaged in practice, spending some time in the office of Monroe & McKinnon.

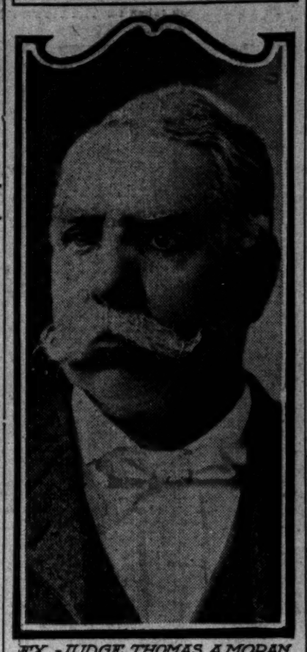

Later he became successively a member of the firms of Schoff & Moran, Moran, English & Moran, English & Wolf. He was senior member of the last named firm when he was elevated to the bench. When he resigned from the bench it was to enter the law firm of Moran, Kraus, Mayer & Stein. This firm became successively Moran, Kraus, Mayer & Moran and finally Moran, Mayer & Meyer.

Dean of Chicago Kent College.

Mr. Moran was elected a member of the faculty of the Chicago College of Law, the law department of Lake Forest college, in 1889. This school afterwards became the Chicago Kent College of Law, of which he was made dean. His work in the law school give him also a wide reputation as an educator. He had an honorary degree from Notre Dame university and from the Jesuit college of Chicago, and from Mount St. Mary college of Emmetsburg, Ireland.

He was married in 1868 to Miss Josephine Quinn of Albany, N. Y. Mrs. Moran and eight children, four sons and four daughters, survive him. Three of his sons, Thomas A. Jr., John P., and Eugene A., were associated with him in the law firm of Moran, Mayer & Meyer. Thomas A. Moran Jr. is the secretary of the Chicago Athletic club. The family residence is at 4710 Vincennes avenue.

EX JUDGE THOMAS A MORAN.

News of Mr. Moran's death was received by telephone from New York where he had gone on Wednesday.

JURY FINALLY IS COMPLETED IN THE NAN PATTERSON CASE.

Defendant Herself Takes Hand in Selecting Some of the Members Who Will Decide Her Guilt or Innocence.

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—The jury which will decide whether Nan Patterson is guilty or innocent of killing Cæsar Young, the bookmaker, in a cab on June 4 last, was completed this afternoon, almost at the close of the day's session. When it came to selecting some of the jurors the defendant herself decided whether to reject or accept them. The trial will begin before Justice Vernon M. Davis of the Supreme court criminal branch Monday at 10:30 o'clock.

It was announced tonight that Hyman Stern, the pawnbroker who says he sold the pistol with which Young was killed, was "threatened with" appendicitis, or at least he notified the district attorney to that effect. Stern believes he sold the pistol to J. Morgan Smith, Nan Patterson's brother-in-law, the night before the shooting. Stern was in court at the coroner's request to see if he could identify Smith, but Smith wasn't there.

The district attorney's office has tried vainly to find Smith since. Stern, however, has seen newspaper photographs of Smith taken the day of the shooting, and he says Smith is the man who bought the pistol. His testimony therefore is important to the prosecution. Rand says he will have him in court. If he is sick it may be necessary to bring him there in a chair, but he will be on hand. No intimation was made by Stern of trying to avoid being a witness.

A STRIKE

It is astonishing how thoroughly organized labor unions have become. Even your liver belongs to a union, and unless you treat it in the most careful and considerate manner it goes on a strike. You don't have to wait for a walking delegate to tell you that your liver has quit work; there are plenty of unmistakable signs. Your skin becomes sallow, you wake in the morning with a dull headache and a bad taste in your mouth. Your tongue is coated and your breath is bad. You have an acute touch of the "Don't Care" feeling, and when the Union's committee of three, Biliousness, Constipation and Headache, call on you you try to put them off with a little calomel. In such cases temporization is dangerous. Settle the trouble at once with Conference Between Teamsters and the Furniture Men Is Arranged.

MORE RIOTING IN STREET.

Crowds Pelt Nonunion Men and Form Blockades Which the Police Break.

Peace in the furniture drivers' strike is believed to be at hand. Following a conference between President C. H. Hill of the Manufacturers' association and Secretary A. J. Reed of the union yesterday afternoon a truce was arranged until this morning. Another meeting then will be held of the representatives of both sides at which, it is expected, an agreement will be signed.

The men employed in six factories went on strike in the morning in accordance with orders given them on Thursday. No more will, however, be called out unless the peace negotiations shall come to nothing.

Hill and Reed Draft Agreement.

Reed was in his office in the afternoon when a telephone call was received from President Hill. The latter said he had been out of the city when the strike began and that he wished a chance to talk the matter over with Reed. The union secretary hurried to the office of the manufacturer with the Heywood Bros. & Wakefield company, 272 Wabash avenue.

Some differences arose at first over the details of the agreement demanded by the union. Mr. Hill objected to the clause providing practically for the "closed shop" and suggested a change in the section governing barn stewards. The two men argued the matter until they had decided on a compromise satisfactory to both and then parted with the understanding they would meet today.

The form of contract determined on, it is said, does not declare for the "closed shop," but covers the point with a clause providing that the employers shall not discriminate against union men and shall give them the preference when hiring drivers. They believe their organization is so strong that it will be impossible to secure teamsters outside of it. The new wage scale is not in question, as the manufacturers already had conceded the advance of 50 cents a week asked by the union.

Police Escort Furniture Wagons.

With nonunion drivers the Johnson Chair company continued to run wagons through the streets. Five loads of furniture were taken to the freighthouse of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad and the teams safely returned to the shop. It took a large detail of policemen, backed up by a patrol wagon, to accomplish this, however.

The first shipment was sent out in one wagon near noon. The vehicle was rushed through almost before the union sympathizers were aware of what was up. Small blockades were tried, but the police headed off the attempts. Then a larger job was undertaken in the middle of the afternoon, when four wagons started out together. They proceeded from the factory, 255 North Green street, south to Erie street, east to Union street, and south to the railroad sheds below Kinzie street.

Riot at Railroad Yards.

Before enough teams were on hand to make a blockade the loaded vehicles and the policemen had broken through and were on their way down Union street. The crowd trotted alongside the wagons and ahead the teamsters tried to wheel their horses into the way to interfere with the advance. In this they failed because of the speed of the chair company teams and the activity of the police.

While the furniture was being unloaded nearly 1,000 men collected at the entrance to the railroad yards, among the freight cars and in adjoining streets. The police had to charge this crowd to make a way for the return. Men were knocked down and stones were thrown. Then the rioters scattered on the run. As the wagons drew away from the freight shed a pistol shot was heard from the cars. It was fired by a special policeman employed by the chair company, and he was taken in hand by the city force.

Meets Crowd in Kinzie Street.

At Kinzie street the procession entered into the thick of the moving crowd, which was spread over the pavement and walks. A stone came from behind a saloon, and a policeman, with a drawn revolver, dashed toward the thrower. The disturber fled.

No more trouble was encountered until Halsted and Erie streets was reached. There the second blockade had been in process of formation. Like the other, it was imperfect. A hole was left by which the nonunion drivers passed through. One of the blockading teamsters tried to force his horses to drag his heavily loaded wagon in behind the third furniture wagon and cut it out, causing a slight delay. A stone sailed high in the air from the saloon at the corner, narrowly missing a policeman.

One Teamster Is Arrested.

Sergeant Foley of the West Chicago avenue police station pulled the driver from a wagon of A. Peterson & Co., furniture manufacturers, saying he had thrown the stone. The teamsters protested in vain and the man was taken to the station.

Frank Bernstein was held to the Juvenile court and Joseph Makerat was fined $10 by Justice Prindiville for alleged complicity in Thursday's disturbances. The hearing of George Chaffee was continued.

HEARING SCHARDT'S APPEAL.

Committee of Labor Federation Will Make Its Report to the Convention Today.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Chairman Wilson of the committee on local and federated bodies of the American Federation of Labor took up the question of seating Delegate Schardt of the Chicago Federation of Labor today. The committee met in the Lick house, and from 2 until 7 o'clock this evening heard arguments advanced by Delegates Mangen, Dold, and Fitzpatrick, who have charge of the presentation of the case in the interests of the Chicago body.

They contended that the action of the executive council of the American federation in issuing its mandate to revoke the charter of the Chicago federation was manifestly unfair. It was shown that the Chicago federation had done all in its power to bring about a settlement between the rival unions in that city, even going so far as to offer to settle disputes by arbitration.

Just what the committee will report to the convention tomorrow, Chairman Wilson would not state, claiming that the committee had not yet come to a definite decision, but from the general feeling of the various members they do not seem inclined to override the report of the executive council, which is opposed to the seating of Schardt.

On the other hand they may compromise by favoring the temporary seating of the delegate and suggest that a special committee of the American federation take evidence on the ground in Chicago, and there decide what action the Chicago federation must take regarding the labor difficulties between the rival unions which brought about the present strained state of affairs.

By unanimous vote the delegates to the federation convention today decided to aid the striking textile workers of Fall River to the extent of $25,000 per week for three weeks. If by the end of this time it is found that the strike is not broken the executive council will, if it sees fit, continue the donation.

Columbus, O., Nov. 18.—Ralph Doty and Isaac Reynolds, dangerous patients, escaped from the Columbus state hospital tonight by sawing the iron bars in a window and reaching the ground with a sheet. Doty stabbed an attendant and a carpenter at the institution in an attempt to escape several weeks ago.

Pet of Hospital Lost to Father.

"LITTLE MARGARET"

A dramatic scene was enacted yesterday in Judge Tuley's court, when "Little Margaret," the 10 year old child that was reared in the Michael Reese hospital, was given over permanently to her foster mother, Miss Margaret Tooker, superintendent of the hospital. Her father, Benzion Binderman, 167 Liberty street, had sought to secure the girl.

Disregarding the conventions of the court, Miss Tooker caught the child to her breast and kissed her. This was a signal for the score of witnesses, hospital nurses, and others who have followed "Little Margaret's" career to do likewise.

Adolph Greensfelder, a retired shoe merchant, one of the girl's "chums," with tears in his eyes, kissed her again and again. Other aged men, who often had visited the girl at the hospital, embraced her in delight.

The decision of Judge Tuley was the outcome of a long fight. Margaret was born in the hospital, where her mother died. She was kept alive by being placed in an incubator. In the ten years she has been in the hospital she has added to her friends day by day. She is a slight child, with large black eyes and black hair.

Her father, who remarried after his first wife's death, and who has six children, has visited Margaret at the hospital only twice and never has held her in his arms. He admitted she would be better off in her adopted home, but said her custody was his by law. It is said he approached Miss Tooker's attorney, A. J. Pflaum, with an offer to sell the girl for $500.

BREWER AND SON INJURED IN COLLISION WITH A CAR

Francis J. Dewes and Edward Dewes Are Thrown from Their Carriage at Cleveland and North Avenues.

Francis J. Dewes, president of the Standard brewery, and his son, Edward Dewes, were injured yesterday noon when a Lincoln avenue trolley car struck a closed coupé in which they were driving. It was at first believed the elder man could not recover. He was injured internally. The accident happened at Cleveland and North avenues.

The carriage was wrecked and the occupants hurled to the pavement.

Both the injured men were taken to the Dewes residence, 1849 Wrightwood avenue.

All three fortunately landed on a grass plat and escaped with only severe bruises.

Other accidents during the day were:

The Killed.

ANDERSON, JOHN, 75 years old, 132 Lake street, Oak Park; struck by Chicago and Northwestern train while crossing the tracks at Marion street; was a paralytic; witnesses declared the man might have avoided death.

The Injured.

Solomon, Mrs. S., 1006 East Fifty-first street; struck by cable car while crossing State street at Madison street; dragged and bruised.

Northwestern and Oak Park and Chicago elevated trains collided at Randolph street late last evening, causing a commotion among the passengers. The accident was caused by a broken axle. Several windows were shattered, but no one was reported injured. Traffic was delayed less than ten minutes.

CHARGES FRAUD FOR SCHUETTLER

Capt. Clancy Demands Recomputation of the Examination Averages.

FIGURES HIMSELF AT TOP

Action Stirs Up the Fight Over the Assistant Police Chieftainship.

Charging that the civil service examination for assistant chief of police was tinged with fraud and deception, Capt. William P. Clancy, who stood second on the list, filed a demand with the commission yesterday for a recomputation of the averages resulting from the markings. He asserts that the figures were juggled with, and backs up his allegations with the table compiled by Prof. I. E. Dickson of the University of Chicago chair of mathematics, showing that the petitioner ranked at the top and Herman Schuettler was not among the first three.

Capt. Clancy asserts that the professor's table of results shows plainly the true averages of the men, and "lays bare the scheme by which it was sought to swindle some of the candidates out of their rights."

Powell Disputes New Figures.

President Powell of the commission declared Prof. Dickson's figures are incorrect.

Prof. Dickson's figures, printed several days ago in The Tribune, give the four leading candidates the following totals: Clancy, 92.81; Shippy, 90.45; O'Brien, 87.67; and Schuettler, 82.24. The official figures are: Shippy, 88.07; Clancy, 85.81; Schuettler, 83.85; and Kelly, 82.12.

Makes Charges in Letter.

In his letter to the commissioner Capt. Clancy says in part:

I am yet suffering from a lame shoulder resulting from an injury received in one of the riots during the first weeks of the stockyards strike. I might have pulled more and I might have blown more wind into the tube but for this.

Probably if I had had the doctor with me during the twelve weeks of the stockyards strike, when I slept no more than four hours out of every twenty-four, and charged the mobs with my men and quelled the riots, he might have pronounced my physical condition excellent.

Mr. Powell, you can go into several bum saloons, where they keep those blowing machines, and pick out hundreds of hobos who can almost blow the machine off its stand, and yet no insurance company would accept them as good or first class risks.

Rendering Plants Must Go.

The council judiciary subcommittee at an executive session in the afternoon decided upon a five year time limit, after which rendering plants will not be permitted within the city limits. According to Chairman Alling, slaughtering plants would be included, only the injury to business interests would be too great. The following concerns, it was said, will fall within the provisions of the new ordinance, should it pass:

Diamond glue works,	John Fitzpatrick,
Scannel & Co.,	Fitzpatrick Bros. com'y,
Dettmeier,	Umbach,
Joseph Lister company,	Darling company,
C. Turnet company,	Adler & Oberndorf,

The Omaha Packing company and the Armour glue works do not, in Mr. Alling's belief, fall within the proscribed lines.

Plan for Garbage Disposal.

Ald. Raymer, Eidmann, Ehemann, Jones, and Finn were directed by the finance committee to draw up specifications and an advertisement for bids to cover the disposal of the 1,000 to 1,200 tons of garbage produced in Chicago daily.

The committee also recommended the passage of an order directing Controller McGann to take steps to issue the remaining $2,000,000 of the $5,000,000 bond issue for permanent improvements.

TAKES LEAVE OF SANITARIUM.

Son of Theatrical Manager Palmer Escapes from Institution—Nurse May Have Aided Him.

Stamford, Conn., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—It became known tonight that Arthur Palmer, 27 years old, son of A. M. Palmer, the well known theatrical manager of New York, escaped from a Stamford sanitarium Sunday and is yet at large. The simultaneous disappearance of a young nurse leads the sanitarium authorities to believe she assisted Palmer in his escape and may be with him. Palmer was receiving treatment for a nervous disorder.

CITY IN PALL OF SMOKE.

STATE STREET AT 5 P. M. IS LIKE THE HOOSAC TUNNEL.

Black Clouds Roll from Chimneys of Many Buildings and Settle Into the Downtown Thoroughfares Till Pedestrians Are Half Stifled and Blinded — Peculiar Atmospheric Conditions and Indifference to the Law the Cause.

State street at 5 o'clock last night was like the Hoosac tunnel on a large scale. From numerous buildings in the downtown district black columns of smoke generated by soft coal poured from the chimneys down into the crowded street, where thousands of returning shoppers were wiping their eyes and looking up wonderingly at the tall buildings.

If Rudyard Kipling had been in the city he again would have made the remark that the people here "breathe dirt." The dirt was not breathed from choice, but from necessity. Soot, cinders, and smoke spread like a pall over the blinded shoppers, enveloped the skyscrapers, settled, and was blown away the skyscrapers, settled, and was blown away over the lake.

Peculiar atmospheric conditions, combined with the unchecked volumes of smoke, were responsible for the condition. The city hall, where the offices of the smoke inspector are located, was one of the worst offenders. Pedestrians in Dearborn street staggered blindly on, dodging street cars by instinct and wondering if they had got into a railway station by mistake.

The cross streets, Monroe, Madison, and Washington, were choked with smoke. A policeman stationed on a corner, after looking for some time at the phenomenon, said:

"There are too many prominent citizens in Chicago."

Another policeman, stationed in State street, when asked if an unusual condition did not prevail, replied: "I don't know. I'm a stranger here myself."

Each chimney seemed to be trying to outdo the other. From the Columbus Memorial building, the Boston store, the Unity building, the city hall, the Illinois Bank building, and from a number of smaller buildings came a stream of soot and coal dust.

O'DONNELL CASE IN JUDGE'S HANDS

Habeas Corpus Hearing Before Hanecy Ends and Decision Is Reserved.

HARD FIGHT BY STATE.

Court Rules Out All Points Raised Except the One of Jurisdiction.

Arguments were finished in the Patrick H. O'Donnell habeas corpus case yesterday afternoon and Judge Hanecy has taken the matter under advisement until Monday or Tuesday.

O'Donnell, his lawyers, and his followers were disappointed by the peremptory ruling of the court that he would not consider any point in the petition beyond the issue raised with regard to the construction of the statutes concerning the operation of the law of limitations. Upon this depends the question of whether or not the Criminal court has lost jurisdiction.

Eliminates Many Allegations.

The allegations of fraud on the part of the state's attorney, the charges that O'Donnell's indictment for conspiracy to bribe a jury had been secured by perjured testimony, and even the assertion that the state had not made a showing of fact to warrant a continuance, which the petitioner's attorneys have dragged into their petition, all were eliminated from the discussion by the court. It has been said that he was seeking a hearing on the merits of the case before Judge Hanecy, so that if he is released on a writ of habeas corpus, he also can claim that his skirts will be cleared of the criminal charges.

"If O'Donnell secures his release through a writ of habeas corpus, under the ruling of Judge Hanecy today, it will be an empty victory for him," said an attorney connected with the case.

Tries to Show Fraud Was Used.

The morning session was almost entirely occupied by Attorney Hartnett, representing O'Donnell, in reading lengthy affidavits tending to show fraud on the part of the state's attorney in procuring the indictment of O'Donnell, and also that the petitioner was not connected with the jury bribing conspiracy.

"It is within the province of the habeas corpus act to relieve the oppressed, and Patrick H. O'Donnell asks this court to relieve him from the oppression of the state, and offers to prove the allegations set up in these affidavits and to call witnesses from the state's attorney's office to testify to the truth of his allegations," said Hartnett.

Lays Foundation for Ruling.

Judge-elect A. C. Barnes conducted the argument for the state, and in his opening statement he laid the foundation for the ruling which the court later gave.

"The only debatable proposition in the relator's petition is whether or not the Criminal court has lost its jurisdiction over his case because of the failure of the prosecution to bring him to trial within a specified term," he said. "As to all the other topics he has brought into the issue, there is no showing made which would warrant the court to make an investigation in his behalf."

Argues Jurisdiction Question.

With this introduction, Mr. Barnes proceeded with his argument upon the question of jurisdiction, maintaining that under the most liberal construction of the law for O'Donnell the state should have until September to try the case, after which there was a right to one continuance, which was taken, and which set the case for Nov. 16, the day the habeas corpus petition was filed. According to the state's interpretation of the law, however, there still is another month before the statute of limitation is operative, and O'Donnell can demand his discharge.

DUAL TRAGEDY IN A BUGGY.

Killing of H. J. Hillebrand and Mrs. W. J. Miller Near Detroit Believed Murder and Suicide.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 18.—H. J. Hillebrand, a barkeeper, and Mrs. W. J. Miller of Detroit were found dead in a buggy at Wyandotte, twelve miles from this city, today. The police say it is a case of murder and suicide. Whether Hillebrand or the woman fired the shots is unknown. Miller says the tragedy was due to his wife's refusal to elope with Hillebrand to Chicago, as he had threatened her.

A Scientific Medicine

Box 172, Appleton, Wis., Aug. 26, 1903.

I took Wine of Cardui some time ago for female weakness and a run down condition which was undermining my health. One of your booklets was left at our house and I read of what your Wine of Cardui had done for others who were suffering as I was, and I thought it would do no harm to try it and bought a bottle. I began taking it at once and soon began to feel much better. The dizzy, weak headaches which had troubled me two or three times a week had disappeared, my pains each month gradually diminished and I soon felt much stronger, so that I was able to resume my work. However, I still continued to take Wine of Cardui until I finally felt in splendid health and never had an ache or pain. I am pleased with the results obtained from the use of your medicine.

WINE OF CARDUI

Miss Nelson's dizzy headaches indicated a weakness in the female organism, a trouble that would be greatly aggravated by any exertion. That Wine of Cardui restored her health and strength so that she was able to resume her duties demonstrates how thoroughly Wine of Cardui does its work.

Without going to an expensive specialist, without local examinations or without a dangerous operation, Miss Nelson was cured by taking Wine of Cardui in the privacy of her own home.

Over 1,500,000 sick women have been restored to health and strength by this natural tonic, and we have yet to hear of one case it has failed to benefit. Wine of Cardui is a certain cure. It is a medicine that you can depend on.

Secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today. It only costs $1.00 a bottle but it practically assures you health.

The football fans of Chicago, and, in fact, of the whole country, will be watching the outcome of the Northwestern-Minnesota game at Marshall field this afternoon. A fact lending additional interest to the contest was the revelation yesterday that Strathern had played four seasons on the Minnesota team before this year, and, according to the conference rules, is ineligible.

The football records show that Strathern played for Minnesota against Ames on Oct. 5, 1900, and against North Dakota on Oct. 21 of the same year.

The original assertion to this effect was made by a friend of Coach McCornack's early in the season, but Dr. Williams' obvious breach of the rules in playing him was not emphasized until yesterday, when McCornack discussed it with several alumni of Northwestern.

The records for the last four years have been examined, and the absolute truth of the assertion is proved by them beyond a doubt. Why Strathern was not protested earlier in the season seems to be a mystery, but today there will be no excuse for allowing him to play, although McCornack declares he will not take any active steps to bar him.

Minnesota's Name in Danger.

"The matter," said the purple coach, "is entirely in the hands of Dr. Williams, who, for the sake of Minnesota's name, will doubtless take Strathern out of the lineup. If he persists in playing him, Northwestern will not protest."

But the conference is expected to take immediate action, barring the Gophers from any claim to share in the championship honors. Such an open defiance to the rules in face of certain proof can only meet with disapproval from every lover of the game, and will put a stain on the reputation of the offending coach and university that can never be removed.

The excitement in Evanston was increased by the arrest of a man who persisted in prowling around Sheppard field, and the subsequent discovery on his person of a pass to Northrop field, Minneapolis, signed by Dr. Williams. The fellow, who gave his name to the police as Arthur Page, although he signed another on the register of the Avenue house, has been hanging around Evanston for a day or two, posing as a bookmaker, but offering such small odds that he placed no bets. It is thought he may have learned some of Northwestern secrets, but he did not reach Coach Williams last night, as he was locked up in a cell.

He was taken to the Evanston police station and booked on a charge of disorderly conduct. In his pocket were papers marked Arthur W. Page. Under the name, on one card, was printed "Assistant coach, Minnesota team." On the other side of the same card appeared the following indorsement by Coach Williams: "Mr. Arthur W. Page has been appointed head guardsman on Northrop field, and he has authority to cause the removal from the field, during secret practice, of those who cannot produce satisfactory evidence that they are permitted to be there. HENRY L. WILLIAMS."

"Team Must Fight"—McCornack.

The purple team was given a short signal practice, which was said to be satisfactory to the coaches. Last night they refused to discuss the game at any length further than saying that Northwestern would put up a stiff fight. McCornack said:

"Minnesota has a great team, worthy of the name of champion, but, winning or losing the game is not so important to me as to have the team exhibit football knowledge and fight better than it did on the same field four weeks ago. In fact, my men are under obligations to do this much."

The men are in good condition except for a few bruises, and have improved a great deal during the last week, so that, unless Minnesota has also advanced, they will hold the score down. Reports from Minneapolis say this is what Coach Williams is expecting, but the fact banners are prepared bearing past and future scores and giving the Gopher total in the Northwestern game as 50 points, leads to the belief they are confident of beating Chicago's score against the Methodist team.

An immense crowd is expected at the contest, which will be called at 2 o'clock. Before that time the Northwestern Medics and Armour Institute will play a short game. The officials for the big game are: McCarthy of Brown, referee; Darby of Grinnell, umpire; and Holbrook of Michigan, head linesman.

Williams Defies Conference.

Minnesota also declares it is fit for the battle, Thorpe being the only one of the regulars who will not be in the lineup. Coach Williams took the players to Marshall field yesterday for their final instructions, and afterwards refused to give his estimate of Minnesota's expected margin.

He also declared that Strathern was eligible to play, and that he would be in the game today.

CROWD COMING TO SEE GAME.

Nearly 5,000 People Leave Minneapolis to Attend the Minnesota-Northwestern Contest Today.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Nearly 5,000 people left Minneapolis tonight to see the Northwestern-Minnesota game to be played on Marshall field tomorrow. The Gophers never before had such a following when away from home. Long excursion trains were run over four roads. Upon some lines the tickets were exhausted two days ago. With the round trip rate of $3 the people were willing to board the train and stand up during the all night trip.

The total number of "rooters" was close to 4,500. These, together with the Minnesota partisans already in Chicago, will make the Gophers feel much at home when they appear on Marshall field. Most of the excursionists will return late Saturday night, although some will remain over Sunday.

The general feeling is one of confidence in the team. A hard, fast game is anticipated, but with Dr. Williams' men playing as they did against the Badgers, the maroon and gold supporters feel certain of success.

O'BRIEN PAYS WAY TO CHICAGO.

Minnesota Quarter Back, Left at Home by the Coach, Will Be a Spectator.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Henry O'Brien, the fast half back and quarter back of the Minnesota football team, paid his own way tonight to Chicago, but did not leave with the second squad, as was expected. He will not appear on Marshall field tomorrow in a football suit, it is said, but instead will witness the game from the grand stand, having bought a ticket here before he left tonight.

In this city tonight the matter is the talk of every one at the university who has heard of the affair, which seems to have developed into strained relations between the coach and the fast half back.

It appears O'Brien failed to appear on the field at practice every day this week, and as a result was left out of the chosen twenty-five men who left for Chicago Thursday evening. That O'Brien did not get into the Wisconsin game last Saturday is also a source of bad feeling.

Neither Side Scores.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 18.—In the playoff for second place in the Olympic association football championships today, between the St. Roses school and the Christian Brothers' college, both of St. Louis, neither team scored. Thomas Cook of St. Roses suffered a broken leg.

NEAR CLOSE OF SEASON.

TWO FOOTBALL GAMES ENGAGE ATTENTION OF ALL TODAY.

Northwestern-Minnesota Battle on Marshall Field Gives Chicagoans Their First Line on the Gophers and Their Claim to "Championship" Class—Yale and Harvard Meet in Annual Game at New Haven for Secondary Honors of the East.

Today's games mark the close of the football season for several of the leading teams of the country, and the rest will finish their 1904 schedules on Thursday of next week. Several, including Michigan and Princeton, wound up their year's work last Saturday. In consequence there will be only two games of general importance this afternoon—the Minnesota-Northwestern contest on Marshall field and the Yale-Harvard battle at New Haven.

The meeting of the purple and the Gophers in this city gives Chicagoans their only chance of the year to see Dr. Williams' men in action, and the game assumes greater importance because of the claims Minnesota is setting up by its unbeaten record to consideration in the first rank along with Michigan. On the early season showing of the Evanston team this game would have been interesting only for the opportunity it afforded for a line on the Gophers, but the strong recovery McCornack's men made after their defeat by Chicago has added interest to the affair because of the practical certainty that the giants from Minneapolis will be obliged to extend themselves to win, and will have to show top notch form to escape defeat.

Dr. Williams expects to win, and Coach McCornack does not claim victory in advance. Neither did he in advance of the Illinois game, although deep down in his inner consciousness he was not surprised by his team's victory over the state university. Both coaches expect a hard battle today, and freely say so. If Northwestern shows as much fight today as last Saturday those predictions will come true, and if Minnesota is troubled by overconfidence there will be some bitter medicine for Williams' men to swallow.

The only other "big nine" game today is that between Illinois and Iowa at Champaign, in which nothing is exactly at stake, as both teams have been beaten this season. If the Champaign eleven has recovered its spirit and strength after last Saturday's bruising defeat it should be able to win from the Iowans by a comfortable margin.

In the east the season practically closes today with the Yale-Harvard game in New Haven and the Dartmouth-Brown game in Boston. Yale is a pronounced favorite over the crimson in the betting, and unless Harvard has come fast in the last fortnight the blue ought to wave on top tonight. But Harvard has a way of improving rapidly just before the final test and it has had incentive enough for improvement in the defeat at the hands of Pennsylvania and the tie with Dartmouth.

Harvard sympathizers and coaches are not publicly confident, while Yale is. It is traditional that Yale is most openly sanguine in advance of a game it expects to lose, while Harvard gloom is a sign of concealed strength. However, all signs fail at times. Although both crimson and blue have been trailed in the dust this year, there is as great interest as ever in the meeting of these ancient rivals, and one of the biggest crowds of the year will make the journey to Yale field. A victory for Harvard will give Pennsylvania a good claim to first honors in the east, while a victory for Yale will complicate matters beyond untangling this year.

Pennsylvania is one unbeaten eleven in the east and Dartmouth is the other, consequently the New Hampshire men have much at stake in today's game with Brown, which has met defeat at the hands of Yale, a team which Dartmouth has not faced this year.

O'DEA QUITS WISCONSIN TEAM.

Trainer Has Differences with the Coaches—Curtis and Cochems Friendly.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Trainer O'Dea of the Wisconsin university football team today surrendered all control over the men as trainer on account of being overruled by the coaches in the matter of the diet and work of the men. After the Minnesota game O'Dea announced he would not train the team another year, but it was expected he would finish the present season.

Head Coach Curtis today characterized the report that the entire charge of the team had been turned over to Assistant Coach Cochems as absolutely untrue. In every detail of the work Head Coach Curtis retains his authority, but during the last few days, on account of his own poor physical condition, he has had Cochems follow the team in its actual scrimmage work.

The sophomores won the class game from the freshmen, 21 to 0, by superior weight, experience, and defensive ability.

CANADA TO PLAY CHICAGOANS.

Galt Champions and Wanderers to Meet in Association Football Match at Parkside.

Canada and Chicago will meet on the football field at Parkside this afternoon when the Galt eleven, champions of the dominion, and the Wanderers team of this city face each other under association rules.

Coming with great reputations and holding the Ontario, Manitoba, and Olympic championships, much is expected from the Galt players. For four years the senior team of the club has won the senior championship of Ontario, a title equivalent to the championship of Canada, and it will be a great feather in the cap of the Wanderers if they succeed in defeating the visitors.

Provided the weather is fine, the contest is bound to be fast, scientific, and exciting, as the ground at Parkside is in perfect condition for good play. The Galt men have trained specially for their trip to St. Louis and Chicago, and in the matter of condition, which counts for much in the association game, they may be superior to the locals. The Wanderers eleven will be the strongest the club has put in the field this season and will put up a stubborn contest. Lineup:

Galt.		Wanderers.
Linton	Goal	Roberts
Gourlay	Full back	Spencer
Bucker	Full back	Bowman
Fraser	Right half	Waller
Johnson	Center half	S. Govier
Lane	Left half	Williamson
Taylor	Outside right	Dixon
Steep	Inside right	McLaughlin
Hall	Center	Barker

TODAY'S HIGH SCHOOL CONTEST.

Old Hyde Park and Englewood Rivals Will Battle This Forenoon on Marshall Field.

A splendid high school contest is expected this morning, when the old south side rivals, Hyde Park and Englewood, clash in their annual struggle at Marshall field. Although Englewood is the general favorite, the great improvement shown by Hyde Park since the advent of the "frat" men, under the system of coaching used by Merion Wolfe, the old Hyde Parker and Michigan player, has given the blue and white team plenty of backers, and even at Englewood the contest is looked forward to as a severe fight.

In weight, both in the line and back field, and in experience the two teams are at a standoff, as well as in comparative scores.

YALE AND HARVARD TO BATTLE TODAY

Eastern Elevens Will Meet in Annual Football Contest at New Haven.

LIGHT WORK FOR TEAMS.

Signal Drill Is Only Practice Taken—Surprising Changes in Lineups.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Yale and Harvard will meet in their annual football battle on Yale field tomorrow afternoon, and one of the greatest games ever played between the two universities is expected. Both Yale and Harvard elevens took part in light work today, the practice being designed to head off nervousness more than to drill the players in actual play.

Signal drill for the Harvard squad behind the canvas stretched on the Pequot house lawn at Morris Cove and signal drill on the Yale field gridiron, from which the heavily strewn straws was raked for the occasion, comprised the afternoon's work.

The arrival of Vice President-elect Fairbanks and Mrs. Fairbanks from Indiana to yell for Yale brought two of the most distinguished guests who will see the battle. The senator will shout for the Elis like an undergraduate tomorrow. Mr. Fairbanks' friends say he expects to send a telegram of condolence tomorrow night to President Roosevelt, who is a Harvard man.

Harvard Men at Morris Cove.

The Harvard men slept in their clubhouse rooms at Morris Cove. The noise and excitement of the coming crush, which began roaring this afternoon, proved too much for the Yale men, and they were taken to the college infirmary on Prospect hill to sleep. They will be driven after their breakfast at the New Haven house training table tomorrow morning for a five mile drive and a morning at the New Haven country club. They will then lunch at the New Haven house and will go to the gymnasium at 12:45 to dress. Two special trolley cars will leave the gymnasium at 1:25 for the university field.

The Harvard men have been told they will leave the Pequot house at 11:45 tomorrow morning, take special trolley cars five miles back to the city, lunch at the Young Men's Christian Association building, dress there, and take cars at 1:15 for Yale field. Special dressing rooms have been rigged up under the Yale baseball stand for the players of both elevens to go between halves.

Surprises in Lineups.

There were a few surprises tonight when Head Coach Wrightington for the crimson and Head Coach Rafferty of Yale announced the probable playing order as follows:

Position.	Yale.	Wt.	Wt.	Harvard.	Position.
R. E.	Neal	162	179	Randall	L. E.
R. T.	Hogan	190	215	Bull	L. T.
R. G.	Tripp	198	218	White	L. G.
C.	Roraback	211	224	Parker	C.
L. G.	Kinney	213	202	Squires	R. G.
L. T.	Bloomer	180	189	Derby	R. T.
L. E.	Shevlin	179	162	Montgomery	R. E.
Q. B.	Rockwell	145	148	Starr	Q. B.
R. H. B.	Morse	170	179	Sperry	L. H. B.
L. H. B.	Hoyt	178	165	Hurley	R. H. B.
F. B.	Flynn	178	195	Mills	F. B.

Chief of the changes noted in this is that "Ted" Meyer, the best of the Harvard tackles when in condition, has been displaced by Roger Derby, who faced Jim Hogan of Yale last year. Don Nichols, the star Harvard left half back of last year, has succumbed to the fleet freshman, Sperry. It was said at the Harvard quarters today that the change was finally decided upon because Nichols was inferior to Sperry in defensive work. It is admitted Derby is not in first class condition, and will have to retire in favor of Meyer before the game has progressed far. Derby will get some fierce plays slammed in his direction.

Morse in Place of Leavenworth.

At Yale Sammy Morse is given the position of Leavenworth, who made a stellar reputation in the Princeton game last Saturday but now is limping badly with a muscle bruise he sustained in that contest. Morse would have gone into the Princeton game ahead of Leavenworth had he been in condition, but Leavenworth made such a grand showing there that he would have held it in the Harvard game had he not received the bruise, while Morse is again in tiptop shape.

It is only the wizard training of Mike Murphy that has brought Leavenworth into shape to withstand the battle on Yale's second string tomorrow. Yale's substitutes who will get a show in the second half are Veeder, left half back, and Leavenworth, right half back. This last arrangement is exactly the order that faced Princeton in the second half of last Saturday's game. Hutchinson has been picked as first substitute quarter back to Rockwell. He is better than Rockwell in a broken field and is a better drop kicker, but cannot run the eleven as well as the veteran. For first substitute end Hare, who played in the big games two years ago, has been picked. Arthur Erwin will be substitute center to Roraback. Erwin has been substitute center and tackle for two seasons. For guard, Carl Flanders will be first substittue. He has been first substitute for this position for two years. Frank Werneken, a freshman, is next to Hoyt, Yale's best punter, and will take Hoyt or Veeder's place.

Coaches Hold Conference.

The coaches held a conference tonight and decided that Owsley was too battered to play. Flynn, who replaced him in the Princeton game, will hold his position tomorrow. The coaches said tonight that left half back would not be settled until tomorrow morning, but that Hoyt would probably start ahead of Veeder. This eleventh hour change, after everything was supposed to be settled in the Yale lineup, knocks two Chicago boys, Owsley and Veeder, out of a chance to play. It also indicates that Yale's condition is not as excellent as has been claimed.

MICHIGAN MEN AT NEW HAVEN.

Coach Yost, Baird, and Fitzpatrick in East for Big Game—Vice President-Elect Fairbanks Also There.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Coach "Hurryup" Yost, Graduate Director Baird, and Keene Fitzpatrick of the university of Michigan arrived here today and set tongues to wagging this afternoon about the possibility of a game between the east and the west for next season. Mr. Baird laughed when asked if a contest was being arranged. He said:

"We came here to see a game, not to arrange one. Our mission was not to talk business this trip."

Yost was asked to talk about the prospects of the teams for tomorrow and said: "That is something I have not the least idea about. I have never seen a Yale-Harvard game in my life and came east to see my first."

Keene Fitzpatrick, who left Yale to go to Michigan in 1898, looked the Yale eleven over and said they seemed in fine condition. Jim Robinson, the Princeton trainer, also arrived today. He is also an ex-Yale trainer and is rooting for old Eli as a point of getting a jab at his old rival "Scotty" McMasters of Harvard. He said the Yale squad was in first rate shape and sure to play in top notch form. "We found out what that was at Princeton last Saturday," he said.

Yost, Baird, and Fitzpatrick paid a social call to Walter Camp, the Yale director of athletics tonight, but both sides said after it was over that the Michigan men were simply paying their respects to the Yale authority.

Jeff Denies He Will Fight Johnson.

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 18.—"The story that I have agreed to fight Jack Johnson is not true," said James J. Jeffries today. "I will never fight a negro; back to the boiler works first. I am entirely in the hands of the press and the people. Any white man they choose I will fight on six week's notice. Unless this is done before a great while I will retire from the ring and be the only retired champion."

Gardner Knocks Out Smith.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 18.—Tonight Jimmy Gardner of Lowell, Mass., knocked out Rube Smith of Denver in the fifth round. With the exception of the second round, in which Smith floored Gardner with a right to the wind, the Lowell boy had the better of the milling. The men fought at 135 pounds.

Kokomo, 6; Lafayette, 5.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—The Lafayette polo team lost to Kokomo tonight in a close game by a score of 6 to 5. Ten minutes of overtime was required to cage the deciding goal.

Protested Minnesota Player.

STRATHERN, MINNESOTA

"Mose" Strathern, Minnesota's football captain and center, it has been discovered, is playing football for his fifth year at Minnesota university. He has taken part in all of the big games this fall. Strathern played two games with the Minnesota team in 1900, the contests being with Ames and North Dakota.

MORGAN PARK IS WINNER.

DEFEATS THE UNIVERSITY HIGH SCHOOL TEAM EASILY, 58 TO 0.

Academy Team, Which Is Faster and Heavier than Its Opponents, Simply Runs Away with Contest at Marshall Field, Rolling Up Big Score—Game Is So One-Sided That It Is Featureless, Long End Runs Being Frequent—Want to Play North Division.

The fast and heavy team from the Morgan Park academy overwhelmed the light University High eleven at Marshall field yesterday afternoon. At the close of two short halves the academy boys had rolled up 58 points, while the high school lads had not scored. The game was featureless unless the long runs of the Morgan Park backs and the ineffectual attempts of the university boys to stop them could be called features. Not once did University High prevent its opponents making first down, while the south siders gained the necessary five yards only twice.

Coach Harper and his Morgan Park protégés are now anxious to meet North Division, the team which claims to have won the high school championship. Harper said last night that North Division had ignored his challenge sent two weeks ago. In the game yesterday the teams lined up as follows:

	Morgan Park [58].	University High [0].

Ames, 41; Cornell College, 6.

Ames, Ia., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Ames defeated Cornell college on State field today by a score of 41 to 6. The game was slow, and both teams were given to fumbling. Irwin broke away on Ames' ten yard line and ran down the field for ninety yards and made a touchdown. Jones of Ames received serious injuries, and will not be able to play in the Drake game.

East Des Moines, 6; West Des Moines, 0.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—East Des Moines cinched the Iowa high school football championship today by defeating West Des Moines by a score of 6 to 0.

GOSSIP OF THE PUGILISTS.

"Kid" Goodman and Eddie Randall to Meet in the Windup at the C. A. A. Tonight.

The complete card for the intercity boxing show to be held at the Chicago Athletic association tonight was announced yesterday and in four of the five bouts to be staged St. Louis fighters will meet men who have been fighting in the local rings. The windup will bring together "Kid" Goodman, one of the crack little fellows, and Eddie Randall of St. Louis at 126 pounds. The other bouts enlist "Kid" Abel and Phil Tormey, 126 pounds; Billy Huber and Maurice Thompson, 135 pounds; Charley Cornwall and Jack Robinson, 145 pounds; and Harry Trannel and "Buddy" Glover, 116 pounds.

Johnny Reagan and Willie Fitzgerald of Brooklyn arrived yesterday and are looking for trouble in their respective classes. Reagan is anxious to get a crack at Abe Attel or some of the other boys in his division, while Fitzgerald would like to hook up with Jimmy Gardner when the latter returns from Denver. Fitzgerald and Gardner met once before, Gardner being returned the winner, and Willie is anxious to try again.

Benny Yanger, who is matched to fight Maurice Sayers at Milwaukee next week, is doing his training stunts along different lines than he has for previous battles. In recent fights Benny has tried to fight cleverly, but has not been particularly successful, and has decided to go back to his old style of going in and slamming away at his opponent. What effect this will have on Sayers is hard to figure out, but Benny expects to drop over a punch hard enough to score a knockout.

Harry Gilmore Jr. left last night for Dubuque, Ia., where Monday night Martin Duffy and Tom Wallace are scheduled to fight fifteen rounds. Gilmore, who looks after Duffy's interests, will arrange matters preliminary to the battle and will remain in the Iowa city until after the fight. Duffy and Wallace will leave for the scene of the battle tomorrow night. The men are to meet at 148 pounds at 3 o'clock, which is easy for Duffy, who has been training for several days and yesterday tipped the scales at 141½ pounds.

INDOOR BASEBALL MEETING.

Representatives of Eight Clubs Confer on the Matter of Dates, Halls, and Players.

A meeting of the Chicago Indoor Baseball league was held last night at the Grand Pacific and a temporary organization effected for the coming season. Eight clubs were represented at the meeting, as follows: Spaldings, Street & Kents, All Chicagos, Rivals, Illinois Centrals, Warrens, Donahues, White Giants, Corn Exchanges, Marquettes, Athletics, and Dearborns. Several other applications for membership were received.

The league this year will be limited to eight clubs, and a committee was appointed last night to investigate the financial backing and the playing strength of the various applicants. An effort will be made to select the best eight clubs, and each club will be obliged to provide a forfeit to insure finishing the season's schedule. The players of each club must be registered and signed to contracts to prevent jumping from one club to another.

F. O. Schoppe, W. F. Corey, and J. A. Hanen were appointed a committee on constitution and bylaws, and W. C. Healoin, J. A. Hanen, W. A. Gallahan, and W. F. Corey a committee to provide the three halls which it is proposed to use for the games.

The league will meet again on Tuesday next at the same place to complete the organization and appoint a schedule committee. It is planned to begin the season by the middle of December and finish it in the middle of March.

CLOSE RACES AT BENNINGS TRACK.

TAME SPORT AT OAKLAND.

Odds-On Choices Figure in Majority of Contests—Honiton Takes Feature.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Finishes in five out of the six races today were so close that the crowd which went to the Bennings track had plenty of excitement.

Three year olds ran the first race, at seven furlongs, and J. L. McGinnis' Brooklynite, backed down to 7 to 2, got home in front a short head before Briarthorpe at 7 to 1, who in turn beat Panique, 12 to 1, by a similar margin. Et Tu Brute led for a quarter of a mile. Then Crimmins made a bold dash with Briarthorpe and led up to the last furlong pole, where Notter collared him with Brooklynite, who finished strongly.

R. T. Wilson Jr.'s Sufferance, a prohibitive favorite, barely won the second race, for 2 year old fillies, by a head. Redfern drove her hard and she was all out to beat Queen Rose, a 12 to 1 shot, who made most of the running and kept the place from Bravery.

TOO MANY ODDS-ON FAVORITES.

Sport Is Tame at Oakland—Red Cross Nurse Beaten—Hildebrand Arrives.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—The card presented at Oakland this afternoon was lacking in interest. There were four odds-on favorites, three of whom won. But one race was marked by a real contest. In the third race, at one mile, North West beat Red Cross Nurse a head on the post. The latter was played for a "killing" but faltered in the final strides. The bookmakers have started off loser.

THREE TEAMS IN STOCKYARDS TOURNEY REACH 4 FIGURES.

Arcadias Average 967 2-3 and Take Two Games from Bruck's Men, and O'Learys Twice Dispose of the White Stars—Halcyon Players Notch 990 1-3 Against the Garlands in the Southwest League—Rolfe of the Clarendons Gets 223 2-3.

Three four figure totals were recorded last night in the Stockyards league. Two of them came in the Arcadia-Monarch series, in which the former team averaged 967⅔ and took two games from the Bruck quintet.

In the other series the O'Learys began at top sped and then slumped, but took two games from the White Stars.

Good counts were made in the Phoenix league, where Waddell's five dropped one game to the South Parks and the Schillers blanked the Drexels. Barrett of the Schiller team averaged 210

Halcyon rollers averaged 990⅓ in the Southwest league, shutting out the Garlands. The big figures give them the largest team average of any of the local clubs, the Gunthers, in the Sheridan league, previously holding that honor.

In the Sheridan league the Clarendons notched 940⅔, Rolfe leading with 223⅔. Worden, in the Illinois league, averaged 205 in a double header. Scores:

MEETINGS OF THE BIG LEAGUES.

American Magnates Called Into Session Dec. 7 and the National Magnates on Dec. 13.

President Johnson yesterday issued the call to American league club owners for the annual fall meeting of the league, to be held in this city on Wednesday, Dec. 7. The principal business to be disposed of, according to the league executive, will be the awarding of the pennant to Boston again, and incidentally some discussion of the league's interest in the Washington club.

New York, Nov. 18.—President Pulliam today issued a formal call for the annual meeting of the National league and American Association of Baseball Clubs to be held in this city on Dec. 13. The annual meeting of the board of directors is to be held on the same day.

LIVED DUAL LIFE FOR MANY YEARS.

Widow of Illinois Doctor Learns He Left Another Wife and Family.

MAY CLASH OVER ESTATE.

Children of First Mate Claim They Are Legally Entitled to Property.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Dr. T. C. Conklin of Farmington, who died Nov. 8, led a double life for twenty years, and not until after his death did the fact come to light that he was a bigamist. There are two sets of children, and for twenty years they have resided within a few miles of each other. One wife lives in Farmington and the other in Peoria. Lewistown, Canton, and Farmington have been thrown into great excitement by the discovery.

The facts so far as his second wife is concerned were learned when she journeyed from Farmington to Lewistown, the county seat of Fulton county, to have herself appointed administratrix of the estate of between $7,000 and $10,000. She was astounded to discover that many years ago he had married a Miss Steel and that the latter was still living with her children in Peoria. The records showed he never had been divorced. Mrs. Conklin returned to Farmington and started an investigation.

Leaves His First Family.

The doctor's first marriage took place forty years ago. About twenty years later the family removed to Missouri and settled on a farm. Subsequently Dr. Conklin returned to Farmington to keep up his practice, he said. While there he met his present wife, whom he had known before. Her name was Merron. He continued to contribute to the support of his family in Missouri, but finally suspicions were aroused and his first wife went to Farmington and made trouble for the doctor. He induced his children to go back to Missouri. Some time afterward, however, his first wife and her children removed from Missouri to Peoria and for the last ten years have made their home in Illinois.

Disclaims Former Marriage.

It is said the doctor continued to contribute to the support of his first wife and children and that he induced his sons to believe he was not married to their mother, claiming his second marriage was legal. One of the sons in Peoria learned after the doctor's death, it is said, that his mother was legally married and that the children of his only legal wife and their mother would be entitled to the estate.

Two sons of the doctor, Frank and Albert Conklin, and one daughter, Mrs. Ella Burbridge, live in Peoria, while another son lives at Racine, Wis.

CANDIDATES FIND LAWMAKERS COY.

Meet Refusal of Pledges to Vote for Any One Man for Speaker.

CHICAGO MEASURES FIRST

Plans Are to Prevent Hostile Combination from Organizing House.

With some disquietude the eight or more candidates for the speakership of the house of representatives find that the disposition of the legislators is to remain unpledged. At least three of the candidates have started an energetic campaign, and the others are hunting for pledges of support. They find that the members of the legislature are coy.

The key to the situation is to be found in the legislation which Chicago expects to get from the next assembly. The Chicago friends of these measures have worked to keep the legislators unpledged and with considerable success.

"Let the situation develop," is the request which has been made to the members who can be relied on to work with the Chicago people. Consequently the individual campaigns of the candidates for the speakership are progressing at random.

It is of importance to the legislation which Chicago wants that the people who are counted on to oppose it should not get possession of the chair in the legislature. There are several good opportunities for an attempt in this direction, to head off which is the prime object of the friends of the measures.

Charter Committee Chooses Five.

Five lawyers for the framing of the Chicago charter have been agreed on by the subcommittee of the Civic federation charter committee. Their names are withheld because they have not been asked to undertake the work and until they have consented the announcement will not be made public.

E. G. Keith of the subcommittee said that the names of the attorneys probably could be given to the charter committee at a meeting early next week. The meeting to have been held yesterday was postponed because of the death of ex-Judge Thomas A. Moran, one of its members.

The candidacy of John M. Harlan for the mayoralty nomination by the republican city convention has been started, although without a specific announcement from Mr. Harlan. Three precinct clubs in the Thirty-third ward have indorsed it. Mr. Harlan's comment was:

"It could not fail to be gratifying to me that such evidence as this showing the good will and generous judgment of me by fellow republicans of the Thirty-third ward has been expressed. I do not attempt to dissemble the pleasure that such an expression of confidence gives me."

He was asked if he would be a candidate and replied:

"I have no definite plans. I do not feel that the question has been presented to me in such a way as to demand immediate consideration or decision."

John G. Woolley announces himself as through with the proceedings which have been causing unpleasantness between him and O. W. Stewart. On his return yesterday he said that there were no further steps to be taken as far as he was concerned and that the matter was one for the national committee to handle.

"It was unpleasant to have to say anything," he said. "Unfortunately it became necessary."

SOCIALISTS MAKE BIG GAINS.

Official Count Adds 1,238 to Debs' Vote —Work in Four More Wards Completed.

A notable point brought out yesterday by the official recounting of the votes in the Eleventh, Twelfth, Thirteenth, and Fourteenth wards is the steady gain made by all the minor candidates for the presidency except Corregan, the social-labor nominee.

The increase in the Debs figures is especially remarkable. To date he has gained 1,238 votes over the police returns. Swallow's strength has grown by 150 ballots and Watson's by 100. Corregan has lost 100 votes.

In the four wards Roosevelt gained seventeen votes on Parker while Stringer cut down Deneen's lead by 173.

DEMOCRAT WINS IN PEORIA.

George Ducher by 51 Votes Defeats State Senator Putnam, Republican, for Re-election.

Reports from Peoria last evening were that while the republicans had carried the county by fair sized pluralities the official count, just completed, showed that State Senator Putnam had been defeated for reelection by George Ducher, the democratic candidate, by fifty-one votes.

The result is ascribed to a factional fight. Putnam has been the special representative of Gov. Yates in Peoria county and the dispenser of the state patronage, especially that connected with the asylum for the incurably insane. He had several hard primary fights with the Cullom men, as well as the adherents of Lawrence Y. Sherman, who is popular in the territory, and he was cut at the polls in consequence.

Putnam is expected to contest the result at the coming session, depending on the big republican majority in the senate to seat him.

FAIRBANKS DISPELS A RUMOR.

False Report of Injury to Vice President-Elect Draws Pittsburg Crowd to Greet Him.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Vice President-elect Charles W. Fairbanks, in passing through Pittsburg tonight on his way to Washington, was the recipient of a complimentary demonstration by a crowd that gathered at the depot on hearing a rumor that he had been hurt in a wreck. The gathering and the reason for it were surprises to him, and as he made a brief speech. Mrs. Fairbanks was seen to take tearful recognition of the interest displayed in her husband's welfare.

MISSOURI BALKS AT ROOT IDEA.

Republican Leaders Repudiate Suggestion That Their Party Return Cockrell to Senate.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Elihu Root, former secretary of war, in an interview in Washington was quoted today as saying that Missouri republicans would do the state honor if they should return Cockrell to the senate, but leading representatives of the party here do not look with favor on the suggestion that they send back a democrat. Thomas K. Niedringhaus, chairman of the republican state committee, and Cyrus P. Walbridge, defeated candidate for governor, both senatorial possibilities, repudiate the suggestion. They say the party is entitled to the fruits of the victory.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Mrs. Amelia Cook Alive.—The death of Mrs. Amelia Cook, wife of Francis K. Cook, principal of a private school in Winnetka, was reported wrongly in "The Tribune" yesterday morning. The mistake was made by the City Press association's representative, who, having heard of the death of a Mrs. Cook, reported it as that of Mrs. Amelia Cook without investigation. Mrs. Cook has not been ill. Prof. Cook was visited by many who had read the report yesterday.

Denies Embezzler New Trial.—Judge Kersten denied a new trial to John G. Brown, convicted of the embezzlement of $30,000 from the estate left by his father. He was sentenced to the penitentiary for an indefinite period. Brown's father, a horseman, was shot in a raid at Garfield park race track in 1892.

Six Hundred at Vendome Dance.—More than 600 guests last evening attended the opening dance and dinner of the season, given at the Vendome hotel, Sixty-second street and Monroe avenue. Chrysanthemums formed decorations in the ballroom, and Japanese art work was used in the dining room.

Orphans Will Eat Turkey.—The management of the Chicago Orphan asylum, 5120 South Park avenue, has appealed to its friends to contribute turkeys, "fixings," fruit, or money toward the annual Thanksgiving day feast of the orphans.

One Death from Smallpox.—Mrs. Martha Brennan died in the isolation hospital of smallpox yesterday. John Graf, 325 West Erie street, 24 years old, has been taken to the hospital.

ROOSEVELT SAD, NOT ANGRY, OVER ATTACKS FROM SOUTH.

John S. Mosby Makes Public a Letter Written by the President During the Campaign.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—John S. Mosby received, a few months ago, a letter from Judge Roulhac of Birmingham, Ala., commenting on the attitude of the southern people toward the president personally. Col. Mosby sent the letter to Oyster Bay, as he thought the sentiments expressed in it by a confederate veteran would be gratifying to the president. He received a reply which he did not publish during the campaign, as he felt that the president's motives in writing the letter would be misconstrued. The letter is as follows:

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Nov. 10, 1904.—My Dear Col. Mosby: That is a fine letter of Roulhac's, and I appreciate it. I have always been saddened rather than angered by the attacks upon me in the south. I am a half southerner myself and I can say with all possible sincerity that the interests of the south are exactly as dear to me as the interests of the north. Sincerely yours,

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

A GOOD MAN—A USEFUL CITIZEN.

Thomas A. Moran was a citizen of whom Chicago was justly proud. He was a great lawyer and no city has so many that it can well spare one. He sat upon the bench for over twelve years and proved himself to be one of the ablest men who ever administered justice in this state, which has had many able judges. The people showed their confidence in him by successive reëlections, and he could have held his office indefinitely had he so chosen.

But Mr. Moran was something besides lawyer and judge. He was a man whose conduct was governed always by principle. He was a strong party man. He was sincerely and enthusiastically a democrat. But whenever his party, much as he loved it, went in pursuit of false gods he refused to keep company with it. Being an outspoken, courageous man, he never shirked an important issue, but let the community know exactly where he stood.

When Gov. Altgeld, leader of the democratic party in the state, declared war on Judge Gary and tried to defeat his reëlection, Mr. Moran, though a democrat, resented angrily the attempt to strike down that veteran judge, though he was a republican, and aided in his reëlection. When the democracy went over to Bryan and free silver Mr. Moran became an ardent and influential gold democrat. He could not be loyal to his party when it involved disloyalty to principle.

Thomas A. Moran really merited that much abused title of "good citizen." He stood up fearlessly for the right as he saw it. He would not compromise with any form of rascality. He sought to be just, on and off the bench, and he met with a greater measure of success than is the fortune of most men. He died too soon for Chicago, which has few of his kind.

NOT GOVERNED BY THE RETIRED LIST

Looking back upon the campaign in a dispassionate spirit, does it not strike the reflective and philosophical student as amazing that any "sane and safe" party should propose to the bounding manhood of this country the abandonment of one of its best possessions? When we come to think—in the calm, melancholy days of late November—of this issue so cruelly resurrected from the grave where it was put in 1900 and propelled into the forum of debate, insufficiently clad for public exposure, we are inclined to drop a silent tear over the follies of mankind. What political leaders having an atom of sense or experience can believe now that the democracy had any chance to win on an issue of that kind?

The cry of "anti-imperialism" was raised by a number of venerable gentlemen who have outlived their political usefulness. The apostles of discontent on the Philippine question were Carl Schurz, George S. Boutwell, George F. Edmunds, and Gen. Nelson A. Miles. The average man, and especially the average boy in the street, would have thought twice a short time ago if he had been asked whether some of these gentlemen were alive or dead, and might even now reflect with discontent upon the fact that one or more of them are certainly known to be alive since the campaign brought their existence to light.

In a sense, all these gentlemen, and many more like them, who became "strenuous" over the Philippine issue are on the retired list. The American people have never yet been governed by their retired list. They never will be while they remain vigorous, progressive, self-confident, alert, and virile.

Take the case of Gen. Miles, for example. The young men of the country who know anything about him know that he was a brave soldier in the civil war and a very paladin of offense during the Indian wars that succeeded it. As a counselor they know nothing good of him. He is not sagacious when he leaves the tented field. His statesmanship is mediocre, his temper bad, his vanity boundless, and his conceit uncontrollable. Who would think of asking Gen. Miles in these days for an opinion on any public question? Even in matters relating to the army his judgment is so warped by political feeling and his utterances so tinctured by malevolence that they no longer have any weight.

Mr. Boutwell is a crabbed, egotistic, self-centered octogenarian whom no man would think of consulting on any question of business or affairs. Messrs. Edmunds and Schurz decidedly are on the shelf, and so are most of the other gentlemen who have united with them in the Philippine clamor.

THE TRIBUNE does not care to indulge in self-laudation nor to iterate the wearisome shibboleth "I told you so," but is it not true that the bounding youth of the country repudiated, as THE TRIBUNE said it would do, with scorn and indignation the suggestion that we should let the Philippines go? The issue was no more popular than that of 1860, when Horace Greeley cried out, "Let the erring sisters go in peace." The young men of the country simply would not have it. They were determined that no palsied hand should haul down the American flag in the Philippines or any other place where it was properly flying.

Why, the story of the Hawaiian islands should have been enough. "Paramount Ascendency" Blount, under the direction of Grover Cleveland, took down the flag in those islands, and the country knew him no more, and there was no stop to public agitation until they became permanently a part of the United States.

So will it always be in matters of this kind. The Little Englanders who wished to have Great Britain abandon South Africa have put the liberal party out of power most of the time for a generation, and it will be kept out of power as long as peace-at-any-price statesmen control its policy.

The corpse of "anti-imperialism" has been put under ground twice. Twice should be enough, but if the insane and unsafe democracy wishes to raise the issue in 1908 the party of progress will again cheerfully meet it with bloody hands and welcome it for the third time to a hospitable grave.

A PRAYER FOR DEAFNESS.

Bryan is still talking! The political magpie unceasingly offends the atmosphere with his discordant chatter. He is tiresome and doesn't know it. He squeaks and gibbers in the streets in company with other unsheeted dead. What anodyne can soothe that afflicted soul? Who will quiet the perturbed spirit? Who minister to the mind diseased?

Bryan has a good deal to answer for and he feels it. He has led a great political party to two disastrous defeats and has contributed largely to a third. It will not do now for him to disavow responsibility for Parker. He accepted Parker and preached him—crucified—in Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, and Nebraska, with the result that wherever he went republican majorities multiplied. Either he was untrue to himself in October or he is untrue now. Probably untrue both times. He will not grow in public esteem by accusing Parker or blaming him for a defeat to which all elements of the disheveled and frayed-out democracy contributed, according to their means. It is not magnanimous, not brave, not manly to heap insults upon a fallen foe.

Manifestly the sage of Lincoln is in pain. Something ails him. He has appendicitis of the brain. Part of it ought to be cut out. If he could be separated from his sense of self-importance he might do better. He is incurably of the opinion that millions of his fellow-countrymen are hanging breathless on his lips. If they are, they are tired of hanging. They would like to be cut down and decently interred.

As for the nostrums, the specifics, the cure-alls, and the quack remedies of Dr. Bryan, they can well wait a while. They cannot be given to the patient for four years, and it is a question whether the patient will take them when they are prescribed. They can wait, and Bryan can wait, and the people can wait while he is waiting. In peace there is nothing so becomes a man as modest stillness and humility.

Will some good friend kindly pull the curtain over pretty Poll? If nobody will do that, Ulysses will have to stop his ears or lift up a supplication to all the pagan gods for a temporary attack of deafness.

SAVE THE SCHOOL CHILDREN.

School attendance is compulsory. For several hours during each school day large and small children are kept in crowded classrooms. It is the duty of those who have charge of the children to see to it that their health does not suffer by reason of that enforced attendance. The rooms they occupy must not be overheated or too cold. There must be thorough ventilation. The evils of foul air are fully understood now. All intelligent people appreciate the need of perfect cleanliness as the greatest enemy of microbes and the diseases they cause.

It is a crime to do anything which imperils the health of the school children. The seeds of disease will be sown among them if the rooms in which they have to sit for hours are allowed to be used by other persons for miscellaneous purposes. President Gompers has suggested that the trades unions be allowed to hold their meetings in the schoolrooms, so that they may not be obliged to hire halls or to gather in saloons. The idea of diverting those rooms from their only lawful purpose did not originate with him. The first suggestion was that local improvement associations be allowed to use them. The advantages of getting a comfortable room rent free appealed to all, and men and women of many kinds wish to utilize the schoolrooms for social, industrial, economic, and various other purposes.

If permission be given to one, it will finally be given to all. There will be no discrimination. Should there be a cold winter and many houseless tramps on the streets unthinking charity workers will demand that the schoolhouses be made lodging houses, as police stations and the city hall corridors once were. Let down the bars ever so little, and the schoolrooms will be filled night after night by persons who, whether clean or dirty, will leave behind them a poisoned atmosphere and the germs of deadly diseases. It may be possible for janitors to remove the visible dirt before the children arrive in the morning, but they cannot remove the invisible microbes or the small vermin the evening visitors may have left behind them.

The doors of the schoolrooms should be shut against all but the children. It is argued that the school buildings belong to "the people," and that "the people," meaning all who do not wish to rent a hall to meet in, should be allowed their free use, with heat thrown in. The buildings are public property, but they can rightfully be used only for the single purpose of instructing children without injury to their health. The board of education should not wantonly expose their bodies to disease while it is improving their minds.

LEGAL STATUS OF THE SIGN BOARD.

The appearance of sign boards in the New York subway is calling out general protest among the people who use the new means of transportation. This protest is taking practical form through the Municipal Art league. It was hoped when the subway was built that it would not be disfigured by the signs which overrun the American landscape generally. In the contract between the Board of Rapid Transit and the company which leases the subway it is stated that it is "the policy of the city that public property shall not be obstructed, disfigured, or made ugly by advertisements." As the board has the authority to regulate the advertising in the subway it is hoped that it will place the dignity and beauty of a great public work above its value as an advertising medium.

The question of regulating, taxing, or prohibiting sign boards and advertisements, because of their unsightliness is one which the future will have to thrash out, for up to the present time but little has been done to determine whether the public has the right to abolish unsightly advertisements. In his admirable work on "Police Power," Mr. Ernst Freund says: "It is generally assumed that the prohibition of unsightly advertisements (provided they are not indecent) is entirely beyond the police power, and an unconstitutional interference with the rights of property. Probably, however, this is not true. It is conceded that the police power is adequate to restrain offensive noises and odors. A similar protection to the eye, it is conceived, would not establish a new principle, but carry a recognized principle to further application."

The city of Los Angeles has successfully regulated sign boards on the ground that they mar the natural beauty of the city. While it may be true that the majority of courts at present would not uphold legislation on the ground of mere unsightliness, it is also true that the interpretation of the law is subject to the individual construction of the various courts of the different states. And as judges are influenced by public opinion, it is not unlikely that the increasing annoyance which the public experiences in seeing the landscape mutilated by advertising signs will eventually be reflected in judicial decisions.

JUDGE PARKER must wonder sometimes, in his artless Esopian way, whether those charges he made against the president and Chairman Cortelyou during the late campaign won any votes for him.

IN A MINOR KEY.

May Never Have Heard of It.

After a stormy interview with Mr. Boodelle, the successful contractor and politician, the indignant caller had gone away.

"I fully expected to see you slug him," said the private secretary, "when he called you a 'persistent violator of the eighth commandment.'"

"I suppose I ought to have done it," said Mr. Boodelle, grinding his teeth, "but I couldn't recall the eighth commandment to save my life!"

Omissions of History.

Shakspeare, now comparatively advanced in years and wearied from his literary labors, had just discovered that he looked like Hall Caine.

"Heavens!" he exclaimed. "What a narrow escape I have had. If I had known this sooner I might have written 'The Manxman'!"

Another Confidence Game.

"I want to see the man that answers the questions," said the heavy footed caller who had clumped up three or four flights of stairs.

"What do you want of him?" asked the man at the desk.

"It's this way," said the other, dropping into a chair. "A feller that's always talking imperialism and predicting a monarchy for this country offered to bet me a dollar and a half that the people wouldn't be allowed to choose a president for 1908. I took him up, and we agreed to leave it to you."

"You've lost," the man at the desk decided. "The president for 1908 is already chosen. But the people, of course, will choose the president for the term beginning in 1909, and——"

"I thought there was some catch in it," interrupted the caller, rising from his chair and clumping toward the door; "but I wasn't goin' to let him bluff me—darn my fool hide! Good day."

Similarity.

"When I write a poem," observed Gettus, the rising author, "I usually put it away in soak, as it were, and let it stay a few months before I look at it again."

"I usually do the same thing," said Borus, the struggling author, "with my overcoats."

No Danger.

"You are going on an ocean trip?" they asked her, in surprise. "Aren't you awfully afraid of seasickness, particularly at this season of the year?"

"Not at all," replied the charming bride. "I've always taken my wedding trips on the ocean."

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright: 1904: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

THERE have been so many matrimonial alliances between the great London house of Baring and the daughters of Uncle Sam during the last hundred years that the death of old Lord Northbrook and the succession of his only son, Viscount Baring, to his earldom and estates, as well as to the chieftainship of the family, cannot but excite a certain amount of interest on this side of the water.

The new Lord Northbrook is a tall, good looking man, who was the hero of a sensational romance a number of years ago. He was staying at Cairo on a visit to his cousin, Lord and Lady Cromer, when to their dismay he became infatuated there with the wife of a Scotch laird, Ian Murray Grant of Glenmoriston in Invernesshire, and subsequently eloped with her. A divorce suit ensued, in which Lord Baring figured as co-respondent. On the day that the decree of divorce was made absolute he married Mrs. Grant at Paris. But she had not borne the title of viscountess for more than twenty-four hours when she was struck down by an attack of typhoid fever, to which she succumbed ten days later.

Lord Baring was supported at the grave of his wife by his father, the late Earl Northbrook, and by his sister, then unmarried and now Lady Emma Crichton, the Barings having always been noted for their clannish disposition to stick to one another when in trouble. It is this, indeed, that renders them so great a social power, not merely in financial circles but also in politics and especially in society. Indeed, they virtually control several of the best London clubs.

A number of years later Lord Baring married a second time, his wife being Lady Abercrombie, widow of Sir Robert Abercrombie, the latter a bald headed and dissipated looking little man who was over here at the time of the Centennial exhibition in 1876, and aroused much comment by his extraordinary success at cards. He was chief of the great Scotch clan of Abercrombie and descended from that Sir Alexander Abercrombie who took such a prominent part on the side of Oliver Cromwell against King Charles I., and who was the first baronet of the so called Nova Scotia baronets. These Nova Scotia baronets do not bear the "bloody hand" upon their escutcheons as do ordinary baronets, and they were originally created for the purpose of promoting the colonization of Nova Scotia. Fifteen thousand dollars was paid for the honor, and in return the payer received a patent of baronetcy and a grant of land in England's transatlantic colonies. The present head of the Abercrombie clan is young Sir George Abercrombie, stepson of the new Lord Northbrook.

The new Lady Northbrook is a pretty woman, tall and graceful, with a cloud of pale golden hair, and is by birth a member of that old Irish house of Coote, which has so many old colonial associations with this country, one of its members in particular, the earl of Bellamont, having achieved much fame as a reform governor of New York, where a monument is now being erected over his tomb in old Trinity churchyard.

Whereas the late Lord Northbrook was a statesman "par excellence," and had served a term as viceroy of India, besides having repeatedly held cabinet office, the new earl is above everything else a soldier and a traveler, and has no actual share in the management of the great banking house which constituted the foundation of the family fortunes—a foundation in which American dollars played a notable rôle.

The Barings are of German origin, Franz Baring, the original ancestor, having been a minister of the Lutheran church at Bremen at the beginning of the eighteenth century. It was his son, Francis, who emigrated to England, secured naturalization as an Englishman, married an Englishwoman, acquired a fortune in the wool trade, and entered parliament, where he represented the city of Exeter for nearly a quarter of a century. His son Francis was chairman of the East India company during those fateful years when the great Sultan Tippoo of Mysore was being conquered, and when Sir Arthur Wellesley, afterwards duke of Wellington, was winning his spurs by adding to the British empire in Hindustan.

The real founder of the family fortunes, however, was Alexander Baring, second son of Sir Francis, and he may be said to have been the first Englishman of note to marry an American heiress—namely, the elder daughter of United States Senator William Bingham of Philadelphia, whose dowry, estimated at $5,000,000, was invested in the house of Baring in Bishopsgate street, London, and enabled it to branch out on a huge scale. In fact, thanks to this, its was able fifteen or sixteen years later to loan 40,000,000 francs to the French government for the war payments at the time when France was occupied by the allied armies in 1815, and with reference to this enterprise one of Napoleon's marshals is said to have remarked that there were six great powers in Europe—namely: England, France, Russia, Austria, Prussia, and Baring Brothers.

This Alexander Baring was raised to the house of lords as Lord Ashburton, played a considerable rôle at Washington during the presidencies of Andrew Jackson and Martin Van Buren, and negotiated the Ashburton treaty between the United States and Great Britain.

Lord Ashburton's elder brother was Sir Thomas Baring, whose own eldest son was the first Lord Northbrook, and a grandson of Sir Thomas was the late Thomas C. Baring, who in 1859 married Miss Susan Minturn of New York, his own son, Harold, being now married to a daughter of John Augustus Churchill of New York.

Another of the first Lord Ashburton's brothers was Henry Baring, M. P., who married a younger daughter of United States Senator William Bingham of Philadelphia. But this union did not turn out happily and after it had been dissolved by divorce Henry Baring married again, and it is from this second matrimonial alliance of his that are descended the earl of Cromer, England's plenipotentiary in Egypt; the earl of Revelstoke, and his next brother and heir, the Hon. Cecil Baring, who, like so many other members of his family, is married to an American woman, a daughter of the late Pierre Lorillard and formerly the wife of T. Suffern Tailer.

The Barings have a branch office in New York, at the head of which is the Hon. Hugo Baring, one of the younger brothers of Lord Revelstoke, and it is pleasant to be able to add that the house has completely recovered from its temporary difficulties in 1890 resulting from near a century of titanic war with the Rothschilds. The liabilities of the firm at the time were over $20,000,000. But the entire family came forward with its large private fortunes, and so great was the confidence in the firm that the Bank of England, in connection with seven large Scotch banks, advanced the money necessary to tide them over their difficulties, which have been entirely wiped out, the firm of Baring Brothers standing today higher than ever. Indeed, the only thing that serves to recall the sensational smash of this house (which until 1890 had charge of all the foreign finances of the Russian government and possibly still manages them today) is the fact that the late Lord Revelstoke's London mansion, and his wonderful collection of art treasures, have passed into other hands.

From the above it will be seen that the Barings are represented in the house of lords by three earls—namely: Lord Northbrook, Lord Revelstoke, and Lord Cromer, and by a baron—namely: Lord Ashburton, while their importance in the upper house of the national legislature is further strengthened by the number of other peers who have married into the Baring family, which has to its credit at least a dozen matrimonial alliances with the United States.

Thanksgiving in Perspective.

WHEN you go to buy your turkey, then the dealer, smooth and perky, tells you that the fowls are cornered by the grasping Turkey Trust,
AND that though he hates to charge you prices that will seem too large, you will agree he's only doing what he actually must.
THEN he murmurs, "Thank you, kindly," when you pay the price resignedly, and take up the storage turkey whose good points have been discussed.
NEXT you think of oyster dressing, and go gayly on, not guessing that the oyster has been cornered by a conscienceless combine,
AND the dealer is regretful when he hears your speech grow fretful; he explains: "The rise in prices is the corner's work, not mine."
THEN he tells you: "Thank you, greatly," when you pay the price sedately, and go further down the market looking for a grocer's sign.
THERE you find that higher prices have hit condiments and spices, that the cider and the mincemeat and the sugar and the bread
HAVE been rendered more expensive by the dealers apprehensive, who are fearful lest the public be extravagantly fed.
SAYS the grocer: "Thank you, truly," when you meet his prices coolly, never hinting at the notions that are throbbing through your head.
WHEN you go to get a pumpkin you are treated as a bumpkin, for the dealer eloquently shows the merits of a squash,
AND apologizes deeply when he cannot sell it cheaply, for, he says, the trust has grabbed them all from here to Allegosh.
THEN he chuckles: "Thank you, mister," though in words designed to blister you declare that talk of pumpkin trusts is pure and simple bosh.
SO, although you feel ungrateful, and you view with broodings hateful all this lot of boosted prices that destroy your appetite,
YET the fact is that your buying stops a lot of gloomy sighing, for it makes the dealers' prospects look extremely fair and bright.
IF of money you'd a bankful you might make all of them thankful ere you ate Thanksgiving dinner at some 50 cents per bite.

NEWS OF THE THEATERS.

Chicago Orchestra.

Chicago's splendid orchestra is certainly on the top wave of popularity just at present. Yesterday afternoon, for the third public rehearsal of the season, every seat in the Auditorium was sold and many hundred persons were turned away from the box office unable to purchase tickets. One box in the upper tier on the north side of the house was left unoccupied, but aside from this there was not an empty seat visible in any part of the vast concert room. It is understood that the same conditions promise to prevail at the concert tonight, so that the week will close with a record of over 20,000 tickets sold for the six symphony concerts thus far given.

Such a record is indeed one of which any organization might well be proud, and is one which, it is believed, will scarcely find its parallel in the history of regular symphonic concerts throughout the world. No other city boasts an orchestral concert hall of such size and completeness as is the Auditorium, and a record of six virtually sold out houses in such a hall therefore is unique. The music lovers of Chicago are to be commended on the interest they are displaying in the concerts given by Mr. Thomas and his men, and the Orchestral association is to be felicitated on the support it is now receiving at the public's hands.

The program yesterday contained an announcement to the effect that the orchestra will remain for another two weeks in the Auditorium. The statement reads that "in order to give time for necessary rehearsals in the new hall, and to open it with a special dedicatory performance," the trustees deem it best to give in the Auditorium concerts of Dec. 2-3 and 9-10.

The program yesterday contained no orchestral novelties, but the three numbers it did contain were of established worth and established popularity. The "Benvenuto Cellini" Overture of Berlioz belongs in the list of the gifted Frenchman's most successful and most pleasing creations, and the Overture to "Tannhäuser" is the peer in public favor of any work in present day orchestral literature. The symphony was the Tschaikowsky "Pathetic," and it seemed that never before had Mr. Thomas and his "boys" read the noble swan-song of the great Russian with so much of passionate intensity, such full revealment of its rich, glowing coloring, and such spiritual exaltation as they did yesterday.

It was a performance technically flawless—it is only necessary to recall the tonal loveliness of the proclamation by the strings of that haunting second theme in the first movement, the exquisite finish and finesse which characterized the first part of the second division of the work, the snappy crispness and unfailing precision in the march, and the splendid sweep, bravour, and absolute unanimity of the strings in the finale.

But it was not alone in technical perfection that the orchestra did itself proud. Mr. Thomas and his men caught the full, deep, emotional character of the impassioned music, felt the physical and mental uplift which must have had large place in its conception, and knew how to make sensible to the listener the yearning, the slightly forced happiness, and the courage, both of which are not untinged with cynicism and distrust, and finally the poignant grief and unrest of soul which are voiced in this most remarkable of modern symphonies. It was a notable performance and the audience gave unqualifiedly of its approval and applause.

The soloist of the afternoon was Mrs. Zeisler. Everything from the white canvas spread from the entrance door to the piano—a consideration not usually shown any artist appearing with the orchestra—to the "stir" in the audience which preceded the pianist's appearance, told that a soloist of whom much was anticipated was expected.

The first sight of our gifted townswoman brought applause from everybody in the hall from the last listener up in the back row of the gallery down to the youngest scion of the house of Zeisler, who occupied center position in one of the boxes nearest the stage. He was proud of his mother, was that black haired little man, and he got an extra bow every time that mother acknowledged the applause. He had good reason to be satisfied with her, for rarely has Mrs. Zeisler done anything here in concert which showed her in more advantageous and brilliant light than did the Henselt F-minor Concerto which she "revived" yesterday.

The work is not one of the masterpieces of piano literature—it was written in a day when the melodic and the superficially graceful and pleasing were more considered in music than the harmonically intricate and the emotionally deep—but it nevertheless contains many pages of brilliant writing and many across which messages of no inconsiderable beauty are inscribed. The slow movement is the gem of the work, although the first part of the opening division of the work is also interesting. The last section scarcely escapes the trivial and was made attractive yesterday only by the refined and intelligent manner in which it was interpreted.

Mme. Zeisler gave of her ablest powers, both technical and musical, and there was felt more of the old time fire of temperament than has glowed in her playing in several seasons. It was a notable performance and a welcome revival of a composition undeservedly neglected. A peculiarly delicate and poetic performance of Henselt's "If I Were a Bird" was given as encore.

The same program will be offered at the concert tonight, beginning at 8:15.

An Interesting Travelogue.

"The difference between a travelogue and a lecture is that the travalogue is longer," was the introductory statement of Burton Holmes last evening, when at the Auditorium he inaugurated his twelfth season of illustrated lectures. The travelogue did prove longer. It lasted for nearly two hours and a half, but it was none the less interesting and entertaining on that account. In fact, it knew increase in these virtues, for there was literally more of a good thing.

The audience was the largest Mr. Holmes has ever addressed in Chicago. When it was announced that he was to use the Auditorium fears were felt as to the possibility of his filling the vast room—filling it with auditors and with his voice. Last night proved that he was equal to both undertakings. The place was sold out—not a seat save a few of the cheaper ones at the extreme rear of the balcony was unoccupied, and many patrons were turned away because they would not take tickets which obliged them to ascend to these cheaper places. As for the voice, it was audible even at the back of the balcony, and save when coughing or other noise disturbed every word of the speaker was easily understood.

The lecture was therefore in every respect a success. Having given the lecture four times earlier in the week, Mr. Holmes had fully mastered its text, and his delivery was therefore fluent and free from the hesitancy which in previous seasons often marred it on opening nights.

Of London Mr. Holmes gave a remarkably comprehensive and interesting survey. The tremendous place is as far beyond presentment in a lecture as its viewing is beyond the time and capabilities of the average sightseer. Only impressions can be given in one or obtained by the other, and to the doing of this the speaker last night wisely limited himself. He showed the majority of the most famous buildings, and some of the more notable residences, took the spectator into the jumble of Petticoat lane in the east end, and into the stately elegance of Park lane and Belgravia in the west, afforded glimpses of the theaters and galleries, and gave some remarkably accurate and typical motion views of the wonderful street life of the most wonderful of cities.

Incidents from the coronation festivities and the annual trooping of colors were displayed in especially long and elaborate moving views, and many interesting and entertaining pictures revealed of the social and business life of the great town. The illustrations are among the finest Mr. Holmes has ever used here, and his lecture one of his best. The travelogue will be repeated this afternoon in the Auditorium at 2:15.

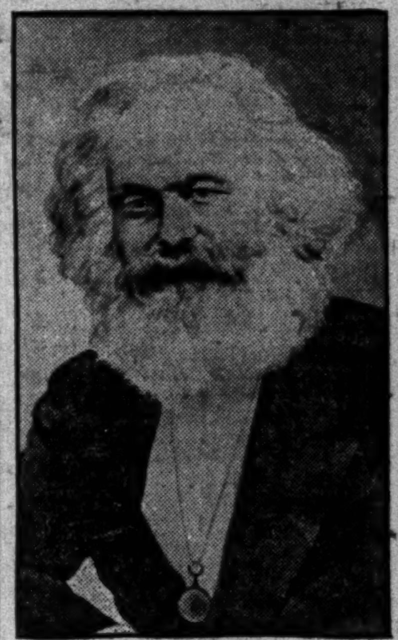

W. L. HUBBARD.

SHORT STUDIES IN SOCIALISM.

—The Rise of Modern Socialism.

SOCIALISM, in one form or another, is as old as human society. No monarchy was ever so despotic, no democracy ever so free that at least a few of the people living under it did not think how they might improve the social conditions of themselves and their fellows. Plato wrote his "Republic" twenty-three centuries ago in democratic Athens. Sir Thomas More dreamed of "Utopia" and Lord Bacon of his "New Atlantis" under the iron rule of the Tudors.

Literature of this fanciful Utopian sort grew especially prevalent and popular in the latter part of the eighteenth century, and the first half of the nineteenth. Rousseau by his "Social Contract" helped hurry on the French revolution. Cabet, Saint Simon, and Fourier in France, Robert Owen in England, and other writers of high ability and broad human sympathies, criticised keenly the existing social order and advocated schemes more or less fantastic for its amendment. Many attempts were also made to realize practically the ideals of socialists. Owen, who was the wealthiest manufacturer in England, spent a fortune trying to establish communistic villages in his own country and the United States. Hawthorne, Charles A. Dana, and other Americans of eminent ability, founded the famous Brook Farm settlement. Louis Blanc carried on a systematic agitation for socialism in France.

KARL MARX.
The author of "Capital," the bible of the European Socialist.

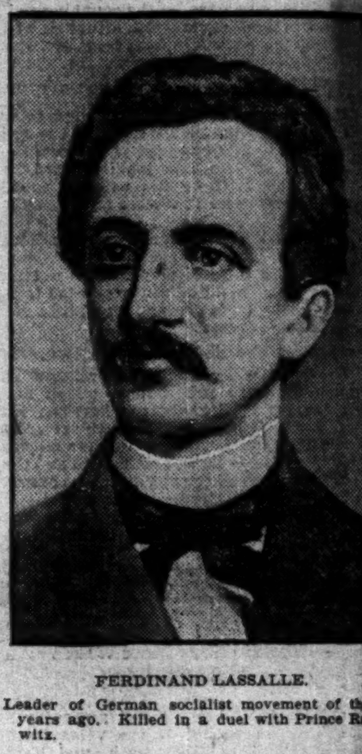

By 1860 this wave of Utopianism had spent itself. Louis Blanc and his followers were crushed in the revolution of 1848. The socialists of England and the United States were disheartened by the universal breakdown of communistic experiments. A Frenchman, writing in an encyclopedia in 1865, expressed the general opinion when he said that socialism was dead and gone and had now only a historical interest. And in a way he was right. The old, fanciful, and impracticable socialism was dead. But at the time when its opponents were most confidently congratulating themselves upon its extinction, Ferdinand Lassalle was beginning an agitation which set all Germany by the ears and preluded the spread of the doctrines of a new socialism over the civilized world.

Of Jewish parentage, Lassalle was a beautiful and precocious youth, and had in manhood qualities which dazzled all who came near him. Fair women fell victims to his winning manners, beautiful brown hair, and handsome face and shape. His witty and agreeable conversation and capacity for drink made him a favorite at every club. The range, depth, grasp, and splendor of his mind won him the friendship and admiration of the ablest men in Germany, including Prince Bismarck. His courageous and disinterested devotion to and advocacy of what he deemed the cause of the proletariat made him the idol of the working classes. His oratory was logical, brilliant, and passionate, his energy enormous, his will indomitable. He was a born agitator. As George Brandes says, the word "agitator" seems to have been made for him.

Lassalle, then 38 years old, organized at Leipsic in May, 1863, the Universal German Workingmen's association. This was the real beginning of his propaganda. The object of his agitation was to get the government of the German empire to make loans of money to coöperative associations of workingmen, and thus enable the workers to build up industrial plants which could successfully compete with the industrial concerns operated by private capitalists. He saw that the government could never be got to make the proposed loans as long as it was dominated by the higher classes. Therefore, as a necessary means to the desired end, he urged the workingmen to organize "for the purpose of a legal and peaceful but unwearying, unceasing agitation for the introduction of universal, direct suffrage in every German state." The workers were apathetic. The government prosecuted him again and again for utterances which it deemed incendiary. But Lassalle was irrepressible and indefatigable. He wrote, he spoke, he organized until the eyes of all Germany were on him and the country was in a ferment. But he was to be cut off in the midst of his labors. Going to Switzerland for rest, he met pretty Helen von Donniges and won her heart. Helen's father interfered in behalf of a young Wallachian nobleman named Racowitz. Lassalle challenged the old gentleman. Herr von Donniges passed the challenge along to Racowitz. Racowitz and Lassalle met the morning of Aug. 28, and Lassalle received a pistol wound from which three days later he died.

His death, at the height of his fame and influence, seemed an irreparable loss to socialism. But he had broken ground in which others were to sow fruitful seed. Twenty years earlier Karl Marx, also of Jewish parentage, had been driven from Germany for socialistic utterances. In Paris in 1844 he had met Friedrich Engels, who became his life long friend and associate. Three years later Marx and Engels had issued their famous "Communist Manifesto." The month after Lassalle's death the International Workingmen's association was organized in London under Marx's influence. Two years later appeared his "Capital," a work which fast became the bible of socialism, and the ability and power of which have never been questioned by the most uncompromising of socialism's opponents.

The gospel according to Marx was in many respects new. The crux of it was that socialism will come as a result of social evolution, just as Darwin had shown that man had come as a result of biological evolution. The age of manufacturing succeeded the age of handicrafts, the age of capitalistic production that of manufacturing, by a natural process. Socialism will come the same way. Capitalistic production has an irresistible tendency to concentrate all wealth and the control of all industries in a few hands. This is taking place now. The workers—the "proletariat," as they are known in socialist literature—being deprived of the products of their toil, become restless and "class conscious." "The knell of capitalist private property sounds. The expropriators are expropriated." That the public, the "collectivity," shall take over possession and management of the instruments by which wealth is produced and distributed, Marx considered inevitable as fate. The work of the advocate of socialism was merely to prepare the way so the great revolution might be frictionless. The International was wrecked by Marx at The Hague in 1872 to keep it from falling into the hands of the anarchists under Bakunin, but not before it had carried his and Engels' doctrines into every civilized country. Marx's economic teachings are rejected by many socialists, especially in England; but his theory of collectivism as a natural, inevitable result of a social evolution which is taking place in every country where a capitalistic industrial system exists is almost universally accepted by them and has contributed a great deal to propagate socialist views.

FERDINAND LASSALLE.
Leader of German socialist movement of thirty years ago. Killed in a duel with Prince Racowitz.

The growth of socialism during the last quarter century has been steady and rapid. Mr. A. M. Simon, of Chicago, a leader of the movement in the United States, in an article recently published, shows that in seventeen leading countries the aggregate socialist vote was 373,850 in 1881 and 6,285,364 in 1903. The socialists of France polled 880,000 votes at the last election, as compared with 47,000 in 1887. They have forty-eight members in the house of deputies, and until recently they had a representative, M. Millerand, in the French cabinet. The socialist strength in Germany was 312,000 in 1881. It was 3,008,000 last year, and socialists elected eighty-one members to the reichstag. There are only about 100,000 avowed socialists in England, but both the great parties teem with men holding socialistic views. The socialists of the United States polled 2,068 votes in 1888. In 1902 they were 226,000 in number. At this year's national election they were more than 600,000 strong. Socialism has become quietly, almost imperceptibly, a force with which the moralists and statesmen of America, as well as those of Europe, must seriously reckon.

WOOS HIS WIFE IN VAIN,

E. T. CHAPMAN FOUND TO HAVE WRITTEN LOVE LETTERS.

Aurora Man, Being Sued for Divorce, Writes Letters and Makes Pleas Over Telephone, Woman Testifies, but She Is Only "Bothered"—Man Buys Whisky by Case, and, Although Church Trustee, "Thinks He Needs It"—Other Cases in Court.

Matthew T. Chapman as a writer of love letters had a style of his own. After his separation from Mrs. Helen Leet Chapman of Aurora he sent her several missives, containing these sentences:

I know you are miserable without me. I love you so.

My home and happiness are destroyed. You only can restore them.

I know you must still love me at heart, even as I do you.

Life without a home and you would not be worth living.

I have been anxious to know, as I do know, that you love me still.

If you would not believe the lies told you, there would be no trouble between us.

I cannot say the word "home," for there will be no home for me without you in it.

We can only be happy by making others happy, and vice versa.

"Bothered" by His Pleas.

Mrs. Chapman introduced the letters yesterday as evidence in her suit for divorce after she had sworn Chapman had "bothered" her for a reconciliation ever since her suit was begun. Every Sunday, she said, he called her up by telephone and begged her to return to him.

Mrs. Chapman also swore the defendant used to buy whisky by the case—"one case a month"—and that she told him he was "a fine temperance man and church trustee."

"He said everybody ought to take a little drop," she continued, "especially when getting along in years. He said it would do them good."

Wed in Alaska; Part in Zion.

Married in Juneau, Alaska, in 1889, William Y. Baird and Mrs. Jessie M. Baird parted in Zion City recently, where, the husband said, he had sent her in the hope that life in the quiet community would cause her to give up the liquor habit. She was sent away, and Baird now wants a divorce.

Lorena May Howard, actress, said she lived only sixteen days with Harry E. Howard, musician, after their marriage in Pittsburg sixteen years ago, when she was 15 years old. She wants a decree.

Bertha B. Reynolds, charging cruelty, sued John G. Reynolds of Evanston. They parted on Tuesday, seventeen years after their marriage. Hanna Ehlert sued William Ehlert, 2537 Drake avenue, Evanston. They parted on Wednesday.

Divorce Case Brings Suits.

Suit for $50,000 damages was filed by Joseph Sackheim, 1053 Milwaukee avenue, against Morris Miller, 1039 Milwaukee avenue, because the latter named him as co-respondent in a divorce case. The action was in retaliation for Miller's suit for $25,000 against Sackheim for alleged alienation of his wife's affections.

Mrs. Regina Tischler was given the property at 215 Blue Island avenue, purchased by her husband, Adolph Hersch Tischler, the court finding Tischler had bought it with money borrowed from her before he deserted her in Austria.

ADULTERATED FOODS DANGER TO PHYSICAL AND MORAL MAN.

Dr. Wiley of Agricultural Department Tells New York Students Fraud Debases the Mind.

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—"The adulteration of food and drugs has done more to sap the moral life of this country than has the rum trade," declared Dr. H. W. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture, to the students of the College of the City of New York this afternoon.

"Do you wonder that, when the country in which a young man is brought up is one where they countenance the adulteration of foods and practice fraud in selling these goods, where he learns that any way to make money, even by deceit, is not frowned upon; that in after life he becomes a defaulter? I do not wonder at it, because he wants to make money and his means are not any different from those of the dishonest manufacturer."

Among the strange stuffs that had come to his attention, Dr. Wiley said a cargo of broken eggs from China was the latest. According to the government experts these eggs were gathered in China, broken, and mixed with five or six pounds of boracic acid to the 100 pounds of liquid eggs, and shipped to this country. Dr. Wiley declared that Chinese broken eggs are in great demand, and are used by many of the most prominent caterers in making fancy cakes.

The men arrested furnished bonds.

DR. HIRSCH GIVES A REBUKE.

Assails Religious Half-Heartedness, Saying Many Congregations Depend on Social Affairs for Strength.

"The life of most congregations depends upon how many cups of coffee or how many slices of cake the women sell at the church fair, and many men profess religion because of the associations and prestige that it gives them."

This is what Dr. Emil Hirsch said last night in Temple Israel, when he pointed out the half-heartedness with which some congregations go about their religious duties. He declared that no one could be a believer unless he was impelled by some vision.

The Japanese, he said, were impelled by the vision of greater worldly importance and national advance, and this vision gave great strength to them in their war with Russia.

WANT ST. LOUIS EXHIBITS FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS HERE.

Trustees to Establish a Bureau of Geography Showing Raw Products and Their Methods of Manufacture.

The school board has established a bureau of geography for the purpose of supplying all the city public schools with collections showing various industrial products in their raw and manufactured states, together with the processes of cultivation and manufacture. Supt. Cooley has asked the exhibiters at the St. Louis fair to donate to the schools the exhibits for which they have no further use.

It is intended to have the collection show facts with relation to the industrial life and development of all the countries of the world. Edward A. Jackson, curator of the Chicago Normal school, has been intrusted with the work of collecting material at St. Louis.

After fighting for three years to have a public school named after Copernicus Trustee Wladyslaw A. Kuflewski leaned back in his chair at the meeting of the buildings and grounds committee yesterday after the name had been recommended for the ninth time and said: "I guess my dream will come true after all."

Trustee Kuflewski urged that the new school at Throop and Sixtieth streets should be named after the astronomer.

On recommendation of Trustee P. S. O'Ryan the name John P. Altgeld was given to the school at Seventieth and Loomis streets. The action will not be final until approved by the board at its next meeting. Bids were opened for the new Jefferson Park school, Argyle and Fifty-second avenues, which will cost $95,000.

The judge was told that Crook is a member of a coterie of "straw" bondsmen and has been warned not to attempt further practice in the Criminal court. The case in which Crook's trouble arose was that of Joseph Roth against the Winthrop Harbor and Dock company on appeal from a justice court. Crook was on the appeal bond.

WILL AID CIVIC IDEALS.

MRS. BLAINE GIVES $1,000 TO MUNICIPAL MUSEUM.

Promises of Many of the Foreign Exhibits When the World's Fair Closes Are Said to Assure Success of the New Institution, Which Will Be Established in Rooms in the Library Building Probably in February—Lectures a Feature.

The promises of many of the foreign exhibitors at the St. Louis exposition to give their collections to the proposed municipal museum at Chicago was said yesterday to have insured the success of the institution, which will be established in the public library building probably in February.

In addition to these assurances the directors received $1,000 from Mrs. Emmons Blaine. This puts the undertaking on a firmer financial basis.

Will Contain Big Collection.

The museum when completed will consist of a collection of plans and photographs, illustrative of the evolution, organization, and activities of the principal cities of the world. New York will contribute models of the subway and the Lenox library; Boston fac similies of her public buildings, playgrounds, and baths. A moving sidewalk on a small scale will be the gift of France. The mono-rail system now in operation between Liverpool and Manchester will be shown in miniature by England.

Many of the Central and South American cities have responded readily, believing the museum will exploit their advantages and encourage immigration. Of these Buenos Ayres gives liberally. The city of Dusseldorf has presented models of its water front development. Selections from the "municipal street," the exhibit of five American cities, will be brought from St. Louis.

Lectures Will Be a Feature.

Lectures will be given during the winter on public sanitation, health, garbage disposal, and tramway systems. Letters inviting further contributions are being sent out signed by Mayor Harrison, the honorary president of the corporation.

POND WITH PANSY BORDER IS FLOWER SHOW FEATURE.

Exhibit of Albert E. Sawyer of Oak Park Wins the Children—W. N. Budd's Carnation Phyllis Wins a First.

The children who visited the Chicago flower show in the Fine Arts building last night found one of their principal attractions the miniature pond bordered with a bank of field grown pansies offered by Albert E. Sawyer of Oak Park. They hovered around it all day, poking inquisitive fingers at the little white swans that swam languidly through the glassy water strewn with petals.

For the "grownups" the table decorations were the center of attraction. These were given over to competing florists and the effects obtained were pronounced "exquisite" by all the women present.

One table was set with a tall jar of American beauty roses. Another was strewn with orchids. At each plate was a tuberose favor, for the men a single flower, for the women a cluster. Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt's gardenias formed the decoration of the third table. All received honorable mention.

W. N. Budd's seedling carnation Phyllis won the sweepstakes and the silver cup offered by John Dupee. Other carnation honors were taken by the E. G. Hill company of Richmond, Ind., with a big white blossom called Mlle. Jeannienovien. H. G. Selfridge took first prize for the best basket of orchids. Cut violets also were displayed.

Blooms of all flowers gathered in bouquets by competing florists will close the show today.

"AUTO" CLUB WANTS PEACE.

Committee Is Appointed to Confer with Park Commissioners and the City Authorities.

Members of the Chicago Automobile club are planning for peace. A legislative committee was appointed yesterday afternoon to confer with the park commissioners and with the representatives of the city in regard to disputed points. At the same time it was decided to push the construction of a new clubhouse.

"There is every reason to believe that the club and the park commissioners and the city can agree," said John Farson, president of the club, after the meeting. "The new park ordinances that have been proposed and the speed laws can be settled without any trouble if we can all meet and talk it over.

"Our building committee is getting right to work. By next spring we shall have 1,500 members of our organization."

Charlevoix Men and Women Have a Novel Party at Their House in Indiana Avenue.

The Charlevoix club, Sixtieth street and Indiana avenue, gave a "pig in the bag" party last night. The women bid for partners and paid their money before they knew who the partner was. When once a man is bought he must obey his purchaser. Mrs. Thomas Mardue bought F. F. Gross, president of the club. One of her first orders was that he should leave the room and return with his nose blacked. And Mr. Gross wore a black nose for the rest of the evening. John Robnett amused the crowd by fanning a bowling ball for half an hour. Ray Hammond obeyed the mandate of Mrs. James G. Condon and nursed a ten pin. F. H. Todd rolled a peanut across the ballroom floor at the request of Mrs. Charles A. Meade. The sale of partners brought $76 into the treasury of the ladies' auxiliary.

LOSE HOPE OF MISSING FIANCE.

Friends of Miss Florence Baron Begin to Think Norman Gillett Will Not Return.

Miss Florence Baron, 988 North Kedzie avenue, who expected to be married Wednesday evening to Norman Gillett, has not heard from or seen her fiancé since some time before the hour set for the wedding. The Norman Gillett to whom she was engaged, she says, was a conductor on the Chicago and Alton railway. The only Norman Gillett in the employ of that company has been away on a leave of absence, which, it is said, already has expired. Miss Baron at first would not believe the stories to the effect that the Gillett she was engaged to was married already. His failure to appear and offer some explanation has convinced the friends of Miss Baron that there may be some basis for the charges.

HALL CAINE'S THE PRODIGAL SON.

Reviewed by Prof. George C. Howland of the University of Chicago.

"THE PRODIGAL SON," by Hall Caine (D. Appleton & Co.), will please all who have liked this author's earlier stories. The scene is in part the same as that of "The Bondman," and as Iceland is not overworked in fiction the descriptions of Icelandic customs and landscapes add an element of strangeness and so of interest to a theme by no means uncommon. There are two brothers: one is steady, diligent, wise, self-sacrificing; the other is wasteful, fickle, a liar, and a thief; it is the second whom the women love and upon whom his parents bestow their wealth and their affection. That in the end the prodigal son returns from long exile no beggar but wealthy, famous, and loving, affords a dramatic climax, but is not an explanation or a justification of the preference his parents have felt and shown. It is this simple directness of fact which gives Hall Caine his popularity. Most people are not trained psychologists, they will listen to tales as the children do. Does any child question the fact that Cinderella was good and her sisters bad, or ask the reason why? The study of the growth of a soul does not interest the majority as much as a relation of visible deeds. Oscar, the prodigal, is bad through two-thirds of the book. In the last part he is good and great. There is no record of the period of conversion, no agonizing study of detail, no question of probability. The story has the simplicity of an early ballad.

In a world in which the daily papers present so much that is tragic it is yet probable that most tragedies go unrecorded. The melodramatic author may be as true to life as the realistic chronicler of the humdrum. "The Prodigal Son" is by turns beautiful, vigorous, dull, lurid, inartistic, and thrilling. It will appeal to a large class of readers, although it will probably not be read a hundred years from now.

"OFF THE HIGHWAY," by Alice Prescott Smith (Houghton, Mifflin & Co.), is a California story about incomprehensible people who do uninteresting things. The author's painful attention has been directed to fashioning striking phrases rather than to the construction of a reasonable plot. Thus one of the characters has "a dark pulsing face" which has "often a curious air of anachronism when contrasted with the placid toned well drilled faces around him." "Women, package laden, skurried by with agitated, staccato steps, but with all their haste few of them neglected to look at Godfrey." Yet this anachronistic magnetic gentleman does nothing to justify his existence. There is much cleverness displayed, but the impression produced by the constant succession of words in unusual meanings or novel combinations is like that of bumping over a rough road which leads to no place worth the effort.

"THE BRETHREN," by Rider Haggard (McClure, Phillips & Co.), is a story of the crusades. The twin brothers who follow to the holy land their kidnapped cousin are genuinely romantic figures. The cousin is by a strange combination an English lady and a Saracen princess who cannot for a long time choose between the brothers, and fortunately by the time the choice is made the rejected one has found that he truly loves elsewhere.

The city of the Old Man of the Mountains, the camp of Saladin, the beleaguered city of Jerusalem, all glow in bright colors in these pages. The inventive genius of Mr. Haggard disports in these fields and difficulties are raised only to be cleared away. It is an exciting story of adventure.

"JOHN VAN BUREN" (Harpers), is an anonymous story of political life in New York as seen from the inside. It is claimed that the author has concealed his identity because of his own prominence in politics. However that may be, it contains some capital scenes which have all the appearance of reality. There is a slender thread of a love story running through it.

It is an interesting story and well told.

GEORGE C. HOWLAND.

BOOK GOSSIP OF LONDON.

Grimm Again the Favorite in Children's Stories—New Histories of the War—Examples of Binders' Art.

[Copyright: 1904: By the New York Herald.]

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Most of the important autumn books have been issued, and the publishing season may be said to be almost over and the selling season to be in full swing. It is noteworthy that Grimm is more than ever in evidence among children's books this season, which also are richer than ever in illustration. The reissue of Mrs. Edgar Lucas' translation of Grimm is yet to come, with several new stories not yet ready.

"Ghost Stories of an Antiquary" also will be in place by the approach of Christmas. These were written by Dr. Montagu James, and reveal the "learned and distinguished director of the Fitzwilliam museum" at Cambridge in a new light. They are for those who "appreciate the pleasant feeling of growing horror."

But Christmas could hardly turn up more regularly than war, and now instead of books about Japan and Russia, histories of the war have begun. Douglas Storks' book, "With the Japanese Army in Manchuria," is the first in the field, and it has been eagerly read and exhaustively reviewed by the London papers. It is described by one as an ably written chronicle of the first seven months of the war, by another as a bright and interesting record, and by another as an able contribution, with not a dull page in it.

An earlier period in the history of the Russian army is dealt with by the Hon. Col. Frederick Wellesly, son of Lord Cowley, who for sixteen years was British ambassador to Paris. He also was for a long time military attaché at the court of St. Petersburg, and accompanied the Russian troops through the Russo-Turkish war. He records his experiences with the Russians in peace and in war in a book which is to be published by Eveleigh & Nash.

The passion for historical bindings will not be allowed to lapse as long as the binders' art is equal to careful reproduction. As far as English bibliography goes the Stuart period is the most prolific in fine example, and a sumptuous work promised by John Lane is to have a dress likely to surpass anything which has been seen for a long time. This is to be Allan Feas' history of the last two years of Charles I. The cover is to be a replica of that which adorns the famous bible the king gave to Archbishop Juxon. There are included a number of contemporary memories, including some from men who conspired for the king's escape, and a hundred or more photogravure portraits. All these should make the work a historical gallery worthy of the highest rank in any collection of Stuart literature. The edition will be limited to 400 copies, and the issue is almost exhausted in advance.

Sporting Story with Leech's Pictures.

"Ask Mamma" is the title of one of those long, rambling, plotless sporting tales so popular half a century ago in English magazines. It was capitally illustrated by Leech and it is his pictures which give value to the reprint issued by D. Appleton & Co., in their series of old English sporting romances.

Mr. Stephen Phillips' new Poem is a play of even greater dramatic power than his "Ulysses." Its theme is that of the story of David and Uriah, but its scenes are of the time of Cromwell. Its characters are: Mardyke, the elderly husband of a young wife who rusts in Puritan homespun, and longs for "the color and the bloom and the music of life." To these comes Sir Hubert Lisle, commander of Cromwell's forces in the Fenland. The final scene, set five years later, is intensely dramatic in such a way as none but an exceedingly modern poet would have devised.

Symons' Studies in Prose and Verse.

An Interesting Volume of Essays.

BY JEANNETTE L. GILDER.

ONE of the most interesting of the younger generation of writers of England is Mr. Arthur Symons, and it is with no little pleasure that I have been reading his "STUDIES IN PROSE AND VERSE," published in this country by Messrs. E. P. Dutton & Co. Mr. Symons is perhaps eccentric at times, but he knows how to write and he has unusual powers of penetration. Not only does he know how to write prose, but he knows how to write verse. All of his verse may not be exactly suited to family reading, but it is, nevertheless, of admirable quality.

This book is dedicated to Mrs. Ludwig Mond, not in a line or two, as is the usual matter of dedications, but in more than a page. As Mr. Symons gives a good summing up of his own intentions in this dedication I quote it in full:

I dedicate this book to you in memory of evenings, now too many to count, in London and in Rome, when we have talked of books together. There are many things in it with which you will not agree; yet in you there is one thing I can count on, a continual sympathy; and another, rarer thing as well, which does not always go with it; a divination which can strike through the words to the meaning, and deeper, to that meaning's meaning. If there are any names here that do not interest you disregard them, or read other names in their places. I am interested only in first principles, and it seems to me that to study first principles one must wait for them till they are made flesh and dwell among us. I have rarely contrasted one writer with another, or compared carefully the various books of any writer among themselves. Criticism is not an examination with marks and prizes. It is a valuation of forces, and it is indifferent to their direction. It is concerned with them only as force, and it is concerned with force only in its kind and degree. As you will see in reading the book I have a few principles of criticism, and I apply these few principles to every writer and on every occasion. If, as I hope, there is any essential unity in this collection of essays on contemporary writers, that unity must come wholly from the uniformity of the tests which I have applied to all this varying material. Others may care possibly for my opinion on Balzac, my opinion on Tolstoi; you, I know, will see what my real aim has been, and your interest in the matter will be the same as mine.

There are thirty essays in this volume, the first of which, on Balzac, will be considered by many readers the best. It is certainly a fine presentation and a dignified performance.

The first man who has completely understood Balzac, says Mr. Symons, is Rodin, the French sculptor, and, he adds, "it has taken Rodin ten years to realize his own conception." Though Rodin may understand Balzac, and I am sure that he does, his fine statue of the novelist was refused by France at the time of the Balzac centennial celebration, at which time this essay was written. "It is," exclaims Mr. Symons, "more than a hundred years since Balzac was born. A hundred years is a long time in which to be misunderstood with admiration."

There had been great novels, indeed, before Balzac, but, according to Mr. Symons, no great novelist. "Condemned to write in prose, and finding his opportunity in that restriction, he created for himself a form which is perhaps the nearest equivalent for the epic or the poetic drama, and the only form in which, at all events, the epic is now possible." Poetry today, according to Mr. Symons, can no longer represent more than the soul of things. "It has taken refuge from the terrible improvements of civilization in a divine seclusion, where it sings, disregarding the many voices of the street. Prose comes offering its infinite capacity for detail; and it is by the infinity of its detail that the novel, as Balzac created it, has become the modern epic." In all that he writes of life "Balzac seeks the soul, but it is the soul as nervous fluid, the executive soul, not the contemplative soul, that, with rare exceptions, he seeks." There are moments when he becomes unreal, because "he wishes to be too systematic; that is, to be real by measure. He would never have understood the method of Tolstoi, a stealthy method of surprising life. To Tolstoi life is always the cunning enemy whom one must lull asleep, or noose by an unexpected lasso. He brings in little detail after little detail, seeming to insist on the insignificance of each, in order that it may pass almost unobserved, and be realized only after it has passed. It is his way of disarming the suspiciousness of life."

And yet with all his admiration of the great novelist, Mr. Symons cannot deny that "Balzac's style as style, is imperfect."

Mr. Symons, in writing these essays, worked along no special lines. He picks out the writers whom he cares for regardless of public estimate. Some of his essays are little more than notes; the one on Meredith, for example, the one on Oscar Wilde. With Maupassant he deals at greater length. To Mr. Symons everything which Maupassant wrote is interesting. "It is more exclusively and merely interesting than the work of any writer of fiction who has been called great, it is too exclusively and merely interesting to be really great work. His work," continues Mr. Symons, "is the confession of the average sensual man, in whom an extravagance of health turns to fever, that there is something in the world, or not in it, which sets a term to enjoyment even while one has both will and strength to enjoy."

Hubert Crackanthorpe, whose suicide in the Seine attracted more attention than his contributions to literature, is the subject of one of Mr. Symons' shorter essays. I remember reading it at the time it was first published, and I wondered then as I wonder now, why so clear sighted a writer as Mr. Symons could find so much in the perverted work of young Mr. Crackanthorpe. Most of the stories of this writer were published in the Yellow Book. They could not well have been published anywhere else for they were more yellow than bookish.

I recommend these essays of Mr. Symons to the young writer, not that the young writer should imitate his style or that of any one else, but that he should study it for its directness and simplicity, and because it is always a good thing to become acquainted with the work of a stylist.

Mr. Hall Caine, I should think, would bear a grudge to Mr. Thomas W. Lawson, for Mr. Lawson's frenzied finance articles in Everybody's Magazine have rather swamped Mr. Caine's frenzied fiction. When the publishers of this magazine paid $10,000 for the serial rights in "THE PRODIGAL SON" they expected that to be their trump card. That was to bring in the subscribers—that was to put Everybody's on a solid financial basis. But in the meantime along came Mr. Lawson with his frenzied articles, and "The Prodigal Son" was put in the background by the prodigal financier. Nevertheless, I dare say there were a great many readers of Everybody's Magazine who much preferred Mr. Caine's romance to that of Mr. Lawson's. The readers of Mr. Caine's novel in book form, which will be published by Messrs. Appleton this week, will find 50,000 more words for their enjoyment than appeared in Everybody's.

Mr. Caine has made a dramatic version of "The Prodigal Son," as he did of "The Christian" and "The Eternal City," and the play will soon be brought out in this country and England. Mr. Caine is one of the few authors with the dramatic sense. There is nothing more fatal, as a rule, than for an author to attempt to dramatize his own story. Many have tried and most have fallen by the way. Mr. Caine has a theatrical temperament and he seems to understand dramatic construction. His plays are not the highest form of drama nor are his books the highest form of literary art, but that does not mean that they are not enormously popular.

SOME MISCELLANEOUS WORKS.

Volume XI. of the twelve volume edition of "THE COLLECTED WORKS OF WILLIAM HAZLITT," which McClure, Phillips & Co. publish, has just been issued. It and volume XII. comprise matter which remained uncollected during Hazlitt's lifetime, and not otherwise included in the present edition.

Among the chief contents are the following essays, lectures, and papers: On abstract ideas, fragments of lectures on philosophy, contributions to the Morning Chronicle, contributions to the Champion, to the Examiner, to the Times, to the Yellow Dwarf, to the Edinburg Magazine, to the London Magazine, and to the Literary Examiner, concluding with six essays not certainly Hazlitt's.

Although many of these fragments and essays were such that Hazlitt set little store by them, there is scarcely one so light or so brief that the strong individuality of the man is not somewhere in evidence. They cover a marvelous range of subjects, but Hazlitt dashes at each with his enthusiasm, his prejudice, his cocksureness, and the varying shades of his satire.

Two of Ginn & Co.'s late publications are "READINGS IN EUROPEAN HISTORY" by James Harvey Robinson, and "A SHORT HISTORY OF ENGLAND" by Edward P. Cheyney. Although designed for higher school use, the books belong almost to literature. They are prepared by well known instructors in history and have notes which greatly increase the value, and many illustrations.

Ernest Pertwee, the English reciter, has compiled "ROUTLEDGE'S XXTH CENTURY SHAKSPEAREAN RECITER," a book of extracts made with great care and with the public elocutionist in mind. (E. P. Dutton & Co., New York.)

Brentano's, New York, issues a facsimile of the 1817 edition of "THE LETTERS FROM A PORTUGUESE NUN." No matter how many issues of this book appear, it seems to be just as popular as ever.

Doubleday, Page & Co., New York, are the publishers of the trade edition of Kipling's "TRAFFICS AND DISCOVERIES," a notice of which has already appeared in these columns. The volume contains some of Kipling at his best.

Dana Estes & Co., Boston, are the publishers of a new edition of Alexander Dyce's "GENERAL GLOSSARY TO SHAKSPEARE'S WORKS." The work is too well known to Shakspearean scholars to call for comment here.

"A PRIMER OF LIBRARY PRACTICE FOR JUNIOR ASSISTANTS" by George E. Roebuck and William B. Thorne is published by G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York. It contains a deal of information and a great many useful hints for those who are seeking to become librarians.

A. Wessels company, New York, has published a neatly printed and bound edition of the "MAXIMS" of La Rochefoucauld, a book the wisdom and cynicism of which seem always to demand new readers.

The Engineering News Publishing company of New York has printed "BRITISH SEWAGE WORKS," by N. M. Baker, with notes on the sewage farms of Paris and on two German works. As the sewage problem is one of the most discussed of all public works questions in America, there should be a great interest in this publication in all large cities.

The A. Wessels company, of New York is publishing a series of source books of American history. Among late issues are reprints of Canfield's "LEGENDS OF THE IROQUOIS," and Burnaby's "TRAVELS THOUGH NORTH AMERICA."

Robert Grant's "The Undercurrent."

A Novel Dealing with the Divorce Problem.

BY ELIA W. PEATTIE.

ROBERT GRANT is not a novelist. He is a physician—and a drastic one. "Unleavened Bread" was as severe a dose as the American woman ever swallowed, and "THE UNDERCURRENT," Mr. Grant's latest book of didatic fiction, is little less severe. The essential difference, so far as severity goes, is that in "The Undercurrent" there is a heroine of whom both author and reader must needs approve.

The story deals with divorce, and there is little to be said pro and con upon that important subject that Mr. Grant has not contrived to put in the mouths of his characters. He shows divorce at its wanton worst; shows it, too, in those phases which make it the gate of liberty to the soul degraded by a fearful alliance; indicates what the conditions were before the rights of the individual came to be considered in place of the welded structure of society; and makes plain the attitude of the church upon the subject.

To outline the story hastily, Constance Forbes, a well born, poor girl, studying kindergartening, married Emil Stuart, a brisk young man with small eyes, an aggressive pompadour, and a tremendously good opinion of himself. He considered himself first a financier and then a politician and was furious when time and circumstance proved him to have been mistaken in both cases. He used his own money and then his wife's, and at last made way with the funds of another man intrusted to him. About this time he decided to desert his wife and two children and did so. He was never heard of again.

Constance, young, lovely, and loving, with her little ones, set about the task of making her way. She was helped by the rector of an Episcopal church and by a rich benevolent woman. In course of time, while she was acting as stenographer to a fine, disinterested, and ambitious young attorney, love came to her. But she put it aside because she was not, as a church woman, willing to marry while her husband was living. In contrast to her conduct appears the progressive marriage game of a number of members of the "smart set." But if their precipitate and emotional careers are made to appear heinous, Constance's resolution, reached at the end, to marry her devoted lover, seems incontestably right. Mr. Grant may be sure that in this decision he will carry even his conservative audience with him.

The book is not amusing and is not intended to be so. It is a debate, and is so stiringly conducted that few Americans will be able to regard it with indifference. The work differs utterly from "He That Eateth Bread with Me," Mrs. Keayes' novel upon the same subject, but its more obvious method and coarser literary work, so definite, clear, and argumentative, will probably win more popularity than did Mrs. Keayes' revelation of a deserted woman's mental sorrows. (Charles Scribner's Sons, publishers.)

When Frank Danby (Miss Frankau) wrote "Pigs in Clover" she succeeded in arresting the attention of the great company of readers of English novels. It was to be apprehended that she would follow up this signal success with another novel, hot from the factory. But she has shown discretion. A reasonable time has elapsed between that novel and her new one, "BACCARAT," and the finished style and unforgettable story, the living characters, and compact tale of the new book show it to be a work on which care and time have been expended.

Much more compact and dramatic than her first novel, it possesses in common with it a story of deep and terrible human interest.

A grave, simple natured English attorney named John Courtney takes under his protection the daughter of a broken down French gambler. He marries the girl and she, fresh from her convent life, is ignorant, not only of her father's vices, but of all vice. She knows nothing of the world save the convent and her home. To this home she brings the spirit of a bird. She worships her husband and her two children. She is a housekeeper who understands the refinements of the art. Something more of delight than it is usual to associate with domesticity exists in the house.

It is decided, however, that the children, to perfect their French accent, shall be taken to spend the summer on the French instead of the English coast. They go to Cabourg, and unexpected business causes the husband to return to England for a fortnight. Then begins an appalling tale. The vivacious Julie, accustomed to petting, knows no one. She mopes on the sands and about the verandas, and, inevitably, she becomes acquainted. Motoring and gaming are the amusements of the place, and Julie is given a taste of both. She has never before heard of a game of chance, but no sooner does she find herself at the baccarat tables than a new, strong madness seizes upon her. She plays to varying fortunes, loses, becomes in debt to the caisse, and permits a croupier who has been complimenting her to redeem her debts. There comes an hour fearful to contemplate, and Julie, the light hearted, stands before the abyss of her own follies. Her love for her husband has become a torment—the husband she feels she can never meet. She elopes with the croupier, but is stricken with brain fever, and John comes to her, nurses her to health, and takes her home.

But now comes the most absorbing part of the tale—a story of consequences, both spiritual and physical—such a tale as only our latter day perceptions and sympathies can appreciate. To tell it here were to coarsen it. It must be left for the reader—the mature reader—one who can read "Madame Bovary" and understand the inner core of that prodigious and fateful tale. Mrs. Frankau's art has deepened. She is above the ranks of casual novelists and must be, in the future, reckoned with those of strong purpose and liberated expression. She finds herself free to tell her tale, unafraid of the criticisms of those who believe life to be a thing of smiles, pallid sacrifices, and trivial rivalries.

One may agree that the sapless serenity of the average novel is the best thing for the great company of the tender who dwell in our homes and smile upon the world with innocent eyes, but it is a relief now and then to face the issues of life and encounter on the printed page the reflex of existence in its deeper aspects. (J. B. Lippincott company, Philadelphia.)

Hermann Sudermann's play, "THE FIRES OF ST. JOHN," as presented in Boston last January, appears now in an acting edition—fully protected by copyright—from the press of John W. Luce & Co. of Boston. The translation and adaptation is by Mr. Charles Swikard, and the chief rôle, that of Marie, was played in this country by that intellectual actress, Miss Nance O'Neill.

St. John's night is, as those versed in Christian lore and tradition know, the one night of the Christian year when one may, without fear of damnation, serve the devil. So much concession is made to a ruler who is, in theory at least, deprived of his throne and his authority. Wherever voodooism exists there are orgies on St. John's night, and in the towns that keep their medieval lore there are frolics and fooleries.

Sudermann has chosen this night for his theme, and has shown how two human beings, long repressed, chained to a rock of duty with chains of gratitude, break from all that holds them and have their hour of sinful and triumphant freedom. The story is told in a homely manner. The simple household with its provincial ways, its flurry over the coming marriage of the daughter, and its complaisant charities, is depicted in the most straightforward manner. The conversation is that of unaffected folk, who instinctively repress themselves. Everything happens in an ordinary way. And yet the conflict between freedom and the enslavement of the soul goes on as passionately as in any grandiose play of the old school.

The story in brief is this: In the Brauer household are father and mother; Gertrude, their betrothed daughter; George von Harten, her fiancé; and Marie, their adopted child. Marie is the daughter of a thieving gypsy woman, but has been brought up by the Brauers, and, unrealised by them, has grown to be the unthanked drudge of the household. George has been educated and protected by Brauer. The taste of charity is bitter in the palates of both Marie and George. They love each other and secretly revolt against the well regulated household which sweeps every one into its calm and orderly ways. But they continue to do their duty with a sort of frenzied sense of their responsibilities, and only once, and that on St. John's night, does their smothered passion leap out into flame.

But with morning habit resumes its sway. They submit to fate. Marie continues with the preparations for the wedding of Gertrude and George and George resumes his attitude of consideration toward his young bride. All the household, in a flurry of wedding excitement, utterly respectable and innocent of appearance, goes off to the church for the marriage ceremony. Only—the bride has her bitter doubts of her husband's love—the groom is sick with disgust of life, Marie, staying at home, crushes down her anguish as might one burning at the stake, and underneath the well fed calm of Herr and Frau Brauer, is a consciousness that for some reason which they cannot so much as guess, nobody seems quite happy or quite obedient. They have commanded laughter, and when they are obeyed the laughter seems the most offensive thing they have ever heard.

ELIA W. PEATTIE.

NEW BOOKS FOR THE CHILDREN.

"BY CONDUCT AND COURAGE," the last book of the late G. A. Henty, is a story of the glorious days of Porter and Nelson. The hero enters the navy as a ship's boy, and quickly wins promotion to the rank of midshipman. In the West Indies his bearing and services attract the notice of the admiral, who gives him command of a small cutter, in which he cruises about among the islands, chasing and capturing pirates, and even attacking their stronghold. In Corsica he meets with a thrilling adventure with no less a companion than Nelson himself. The same high ideals of manliness and patriotism that made Henty beloved of boys and parents are in marked evidence in this wholesome, interesting story. (Chas. Scribner's Sons.)

Mr. Kirk Munroe went over to China to gather the material for a book of adventure for boys, entitled "THE BLUE DRAGON." The story has two heroes, one an American, the other a Chinese lad. Both are well born, both of aspiring and honorable minds; each in turn visits the other's country and is subjected to persecution. The inhuman animosity of each country for the other is pictured in a way to make a disinterested person of either race blush for the virulence of prejudice that exists; and the youth who peruses the book probably will be inclined, when he has finished, to look with increased tolerance on fellows who chance to be born over seas. Mr. Munroe evidently believes that the west is east and the east is west when two honorable youths meet. The story has plenty of adventure. The literary style is curiously old fashioned, perfectly lucid, and singularly uninspired. (Harper Bros., New York.)

"IN THE CLOSED ROOM" is a story of child ghosts by Mrs. Frances Hodson Burnett. There are two little heroines—one in the flesh, through which the spirit ever shone; one in the spirit in a tenuous mask of flesh. The dead one had the power to visit the living, and the living had the perception to understand the dead. At last they wandered away together to the Unknown and left two mourning mothers. The detail and circumstance of the story is developed with excellent verisimilitude, and the tale is heartbreakingly sad, but delicate, and showing Mrs. Burnett's art at its best. Jessie Wilcox Smith has illustrated the book in a characteristic manner. (McClure, Phillips & Co., publishers.)

"THE CHILD AT PLAY," by Clara Murray (Little, Brown & Co., Boston), is a little book with colored pictures designed for children who are just beginning to struggle with word forms. It will serve at once as an excellent gift for the young and as a book of instruction.

"IN THE MAZE," by Grace E. Ward, is a book for children, full of wonderful conceits. In other words, it is a collection of seven stories of the modern fairy type, bringing in the characters of the old stories as if friends tried and true. The humor, the sweetness, and the humanness of the stories and their up to dateness combined give them a charm possessed by too few children's books. The frame work of one story is the adventures and experiences of a man, a hater of children, who is taken upon a vacation by a fairy into the midst of children. Scorning a tea party, he is reduced to six inches in size, growing in stature after he learns to play with and love the children. The numerous illustrations by Clare E. Wood add much to the book. (Little, Brown & Co.)

The large bag of dreams upon the back of a tiny man, the Dream Man, gives the name to a group of stories, "THE DREAM BAG," by Winifred A. Holdane. Two little girls are visited frequently by this little man, who takes them to the realms of fairies, in the moon, skies, or flowers, where they are fêted or, hidden away, are privy to the secret ways of fairy folk. The book is well illustrated and printed, though the stories seem to lack both spontaneity and originality. (Laird & Lee.)

Twenty modern fairy tales by Raymond Fuller-Ayres, illustrated with charming pictures by Walter Bobbett, comprise the contents of a pretty volume which bears the title, "THE KING OF KINKIDDIE" (E. P. Dutton & Co.). Kinkiddie is one of "the finest, best kept, clean, light, and with all modern improvements kind of a kingdom that ever was," but its ruler is unhappy because of his mother-in-law and her pet lapmule. Who wouldn't be troubled by the spectacle of a fat old lady with a mule sitting on her lap? Other good tales are "The Boy Who Would Not Work," "The Musical Magician," "The Knight Who Knew It All," "The Homesick Houseboat," and "The Accommodating Anaconda." The stories will amuse little folks, and are agreeable to grown people because of their freshness and delicate satire.

Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, have imported a number of English illustrated books for young children. Abroad they are published by Blackie & Son, and they are printed in Glasgow. One of these is "THE ANIMALS' ACADEMY," illustrated by Harry B. Neilson, with verses by Clifton Bingham. The rhymes and pictures remind us of the sort of thing with which Oliver Herford has made us acquainted. The large pictures are colored. The small are black and white. "GAMMON AND SPINACH" has pictures by Stewart Orr, and verses by John Brymer. In both these books the animals do remarkable things, more or less amusing. "TWO MERRY MARINERS" is also by Orr and Brymer. It relates the adventures of a little boy who went out to see the world, guided by a hare. The book is larger than the other two, and the colored pictures are better. "DROLL DOINGS" has Neilson's pictures, and verses by "The Cockiolly Bird." It is a book of nonsense, verse, and appropriate colored illustrations. All these books are for young children.

"DID YOU EVER?" is a nonsense book written and illustrated by Lewis Baumer (E. P. Dutton & Co., New York). The pictures in colors and black and white are good, and the verses are easy.

"GOOP TALES," by Gelett Burgess (F. A. Stokes company, New York), is another of those curious things which this author issues yearly. He calls it "a study of the behavior of some fifty-two interesting individuals, each or which, while mainly virtuous, yet has some one human and redeeming fault." The pictures, of course, form the principal feature of the book.

Hall Caine's

What were Hall Caine's feelings as he reached the climax of this great story? "I am getting nearer the end, and, oh dear, what an end it is! Every page tears my very heart out, and if the reader feels it one-hundredth part as much as I do there will be no question about the ULTIMATE of the book."

The first editions were 225,000 copies. There were 183,000 printed in English alone.

"'The President' is the strongest novel that Alfred Henry Lewis has written. It is the best of the stories of American politics that have appeared in the last few years. In 'The President' Mr. Lewis proves that he has a gift of plot creation almost equal to his power of character delineation. His style is distinctive, unhackneyed, sparkling. His story is deftly constructed, full of wit and epigram, with every character alive and interesting."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Dr. Luke of The Labrador

"The production of a literary artist whose future eminence depends on his ability to turn out further stories not of better but as good quality as this. . . . We should call him next of kin to Mr. Barrie."—JOSEPH B. GILDER in The Critic.

The Toronto Globe predicts that it "will probably prove to be the greatest book yet produced by a native of Canada."

The Outlook editors agree that it is among the choicest contributions to English literature that have come to their office.

The Prospector

Ralph Connor from irresistible impulse has almost touched again upon the country which "The Sky Pilot" and "Black Rock" have immortalized. "The Prospector" deals with the days before the smelter superseded the prospecting miner who panned gold, when the country was peopled but sparsely by a motley crowd of prospectors, cowboys, ne'er-do-wells and fortune hunters. FUNNY—QUAINT—ODD.

BEING DONE GOOD

By EDWARD B. LENT.

"The higher dilutions of homeopathic tinctures represent one drop of medicine in a globe of water girdled by the orbit of the planet Saturn. The real devilish mixtures that must not be left where children can find them stand for one drop of the drug in Lake Superior. No boarding-house hash could be so attenuated with potato without being mistaken for potato only."

"'Being Done Good' is entertaining from cover to cover—this the doctors themselves must admit—and, moreover, it is an object lesson in the way of cheerful burden bearing that may well be remembered. There is enough philosophy in the book to furnish material for a dozen treatises and good nature enough to make them all readable."—Newark News.

If his cupped and blistered legs would bear him up Mr. Lent would qualify as a rival of Simeon Ford as an after dinner speaker."—New York World.

MONEY SETS NEW RECORD

DUN REPORTS UNIQUE STATE OF CHICAGO'S FINANCES.

Commercial Agency Says Bank Deposits and Clearings for Week Simultaneously Reached Greatest Volume, for First Time in History—Discount Rate May Advance—Trade Sustains Favorable Developments—Good Sale for Manufactures.

The weekly review of Chicago trade, published by R. G. Dun & Co., the mercantile agency, is as follows:

Bank deposits and clearing house exchanges are seen to be largely ahead of those a year ago, and, for the first time in local history, both simultaneously record their greatest volume. While official statements disclose ample cash resources, there are indications that money is now working into better general demand, and the discount rate soon may advance from its present minimum.

Trade Still Is Favorable.

Trade has fully sustained recent favorable developments. Heavy distribution of manufactures continues and freight tonnage gained, but while the weather was good for shopping it held too mild for a satisfactory disposition of seasonable retail wares. Wholesale shipments of staples and holiday lines to interior points made a good aggregate.

Late buying has been well maintained for the country, and city merchants bought more freely, most of the demands including dry goods, millinery, men's furnishings, woolens, and food products. The demand for jewelry, silverware, and smokers' articles showed a moderate gain. Orders for reassortments were of limited extent, but discounting of bills purchased was frequent, and mercantile collections generally were reasonably prompt.

Raw materials exhibit increased receipts. Iron ore, coal, lumber, and hides make the best comparisons with a year ago and provide against expanding needs of manufacturers. Prices disclose firmness in all supplies for factory consumption. Advances were effected in quotations for pig iron, bar iron, and wire product, without creating lessened demand. Metal producers have booked numerous orders for future delivery, and there are commitments indicating a variety of finished materials required for railroad, ship yards, and business structures.

Lumber Receipts at High Mark.

Lumber receipts exceeded 48,000,000 feet, the largest quantity in a long period, while shipments also reached increased figures, country demands having shown notable improvement. Woodworking, electric, machinery, and shoe factories report a gain in production and new business coming forward more liberally.

Operations in grain were influenced by poor outside buying and heavy Argentine shipments. Forwarding from this port was only 2,674,327 bushels, a decrease of 37 per cent as compared with the corresponding week last year. Values suffered a sharp decline, corn being weakest and closing 5 cents a bushel less than a week ago. Provisions were in fair request, but producers made liberal offerings and quotations ruled slightly under last week's. Receipts of live stock—301,071 head—fell considerably short of those a year ago. Sheep brought an advance of 15 cents a hundredweight, while hogs and choice beeves both declined 20 cents.

Bank Clearings Are Great.

Bank clearings, $210,648,541, are 19.9 per cent more than those of a year ago. Money was firmly maintained at 4½ to 5 per cent for choice commercial paper. The borrowing demand is more general and gradually has been extending, particularly among manufacturing and jobbing interests.

Failures reported in Chicago district numbered twenty-five, against twenty-two last week and thirty-four a year ago.

ACTIVITY IN FOREIGN TRADE.

Exports During October Exceed Every Month on Record Except October, 1900.

New York, Nov. 18.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade tomorrow will say:

Business was retarded by the storms, which interrupted telegraphic communication, but the loss was quickly recovered, and retail trade responded to the lower temperature, while a large jobbing distribution of holiday goods occurred.

Foreign trade is exceeding the most sanguine expectations. Official returns for October make the value of exports $162,570,393, exceeding every month on record, with the exception of October, 1900, which reported only $800,000 larger exports. From the highest forms of machinery and other finished steel products down to scrap and pig iron, there is evidence of a better demand and an upward tendency in quotations.

As the packer hide market is closely cleaned up and many varieties sold for distant delivery, there is a tendency toward higher prices, despite the lessened activity. This strength is reflected in leather, which has the additional stimulus of continuous exports. New England shoe factories have large contracts on hand for spring delivery, and salesmen will soon start west with fall samples. Progress in cotton goods is still slow, but buyers are gradually exhibiting a little more disposition to provide for the future.

Failures this week numbered 217 in the United States, against 249 last year, and 27 in Canada, compared with 17 a year ago.

Great Gains in Trade.

Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: "Reports from the great basic industries are more favorable and wholesale and jobbing trade in holiday and spring goods displays a more confident tone. Trade generally is showing great gains over the corresponding period a year ago, and the aggregate year's business in most lines will make better comparisons than at one time seemed possible. Money displays remarkable ease, crop moving necessities are about satisfied, and a return flow from the country is apparently in sight. Gross railway earnings show a tendency to increase late gains and to swell earnings for the year to totals above those of 1903.

"Wheat, including flour, exports for the week ending Nov. 17 aggregate 1,289,642 bushels, against 1,454,276 last week, 2,974,277 this week last year, 5,277,672 in 1902, and 5,518,930 in 1901. From July 1 to date the exports aggregate 26,678,081 bushels, against 64,876,028 last year, 103,258,324 in 1902, and 118,176,156 in 1901.

"Corn exports for the week aggregate 189,978 bushels, against 148,051 last week, 1,391,625 a year ago, 243,381 in 1902, and 445,350 in 1901. From July 1 to date the exports of corn aggregate 10,929,864 bushels, against 22,982,003 in 1903, 2,388,080 in 1902, and 17,-929,900 in 1901.

GROWTH OF SAVINGS DEPOSITS IN CHICAGO.

Savings deposits of Chicago state banks on Nov. 11, 1904, were approximately $123,269,-880. In the period from Sept. 7 to Nov. 11 there was an increase or $3,161,230. In the year 1904, up to Nov. 11, the increase was $14,264,764, or 13.08 per cent. The $100,000,000 mark was passed in the reports of the banks for May 21, 1903. Going back over a period of fourteen years, or to 1890, savings deposits have increased $110,916,792, or 898 per cent. The banner year in the matter of increase in dollars was 1902, when the gain was $21,158,354, or 30.76 per cent. The largest gain stated in percentage was in 1892, when the increase was 34.80 per cent.

In looking over the growth and savings since 1890, general financial conditions are fairly reflected. On Dec. 31, 1892, the savings were $19,513,370. But in 1893, when panic was widespread, the banks lost nearly $4,000,000, or over 18 per cent, and at the end of 1893 the savings were $15,867,279. In 1894 they again began to mount and continued until 1896. Then local bank failures and the uncertainty over free silver in the first Bryan campaign, again caused hoarding, though to a much less extent than in 1893. But in 1897, with the resumption of general prosperity, the savings of Chicago state banks began to mount, and have since continuously increased.

On a basis of 1,900,000 population for the city the banks hold in savings deposits an amount equal to approximately $64.80 for each inhabitant. As indicated, the greatest gain was in 1902, when, also, there was the greatest expansion in business and stock market operations. In 1903 the percentage fell, and thus far in 1904 it is still lower, though there remain over six weeks for further growth. The appended figures give in detail an idea of this growth in saving:

IN THE REAL ESTATE WORLD.

A deed in trust by executors of the estate of Frederick H. Winston to the Northern Trust company, filed yesterday, developed the fact that the widow, Mrs. Sallie Hews Winston, instead of accepting $100,000 in Chicago mortgage securities, in accordance with an ante-nuptial contract, had taken a five-ninths interest in the property at 35 Adams street.

This property, which fronts south in the block between Wabash avenue and State street, 35x77 feet, was valued by the executors, Frederick S. and Bertram M. Winston, at $180,000, thus making Mrs. Winston's interest exactly $100,000. The board of review for 1903 valued the property, however, at only $130,840.

Contract Made in 1896.

The contract in question was made Oct. 12, 1896, and the will of Mr. Winston, filed on March 4 last, following his death on Feb. 19, directed the executors to comply in all respects with the terms of the contract. It provided that the executors within two years after the testator's death should pay to the Northern Trust company $100,000, to be held in trust by the company for Mrs. Winston and invested in first mortgages on improved real estate in Chicago.

The trust deed recites that Mrs. Winston requested the executors to convey to her a portion of the real estate of the deceased in lieu of the payment of $100,000, and that they so agreed on Oct. 26, 1904. Mrs. Winston quitclaimed all right of dower and any interest whatever in the other real estate of the testator.

Give Shore Rights to Park.

Robert C. Gehrke, Alexander H. Revell, Mrs. Harriet S. Smith, John G. Shortall, and others have quitclaimed to the Lincoln park commissioners all rights of accretion and other riparian rights in a strip of shore line property lying east of Lake View avenue and between Belmont avenue and Diversey boulevard. This action follows a decree of the Circuit court entered Oct. 31, establishing a permanent boundary line between the submerged lands of the commissioners and the interested property owners.

The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company has sold to William H. Nichols of New York 378x304 feet at the southeast corner of Twenty-first and Morgan-streets for $34,220, taking a purchase money mortgage for $22,813 for five years at 5 per cent.

Frank S. Packard has sold to Carrie B. Wilbur 100x222 feet in Hawthorne place, 375 feet west of Sheridan road, for $20,000, subject to an incumbrance of $15,000.

Buys Indiana Avenue Flats.

Albert C. Harvey has purchased from Louise H. Kenyon the flat property in Indiana avenue, 249 feet south of Fifty-eighth street, 50x178 feet, for $19,500, with $10,000 incumbrance.

Albert L. Strauss has leased for the United States Restaurant company, from Henry Strong, the basement and a storeroom, 18x20 feet, in the new Republic building at the southeast corner of State and Adams street. The lease runs for ten years at a rental said to approximate $155,000. The lessees will expend $75,000 in furnishings. The store will be used as an entrance and waiting room.

JURY FIXES PRICE AT LAST.

Gives City Victory by Deciding $400,-000 Is Value of Land Condemned for Haymarket Square.

After deliberating for a day and a night a jury yesterday noon gave a verdict fixing the price to be paid by the city for the use of property in West Randolph street to extend Haymarket square. The figures practically were those offered by the city.

The case has been vigorously contested and has been on trial for three weeks. A score of attorneys representing the owners of property that was confiscated were arrayed against Robert Redfield, attorney for the board of local improvements, and Assistant Corporation Counsel Frank Johnston, who began the condemnation suit on behalf of the city. The verdict is regarded as a great victory for the city.

The widening of the west side street will be from Sangamon to Halsted street, and the thoroughfare will be broadened from eighty to 150 feet, thirty-five feet being taken from each side of the course. The cost of the property was set by the jury at around $400,000, the amount to be paid for the land taken being assessed back on the remaining portion of the property, on the theory that the latter would be greatly benefited by the extension of the market.

EARLY FLURRY IN STOCKS

AMALGAMATED COPPER AND SUGAR PROMINENT IN TRADING.

Some of the So-Called Obscure Issues Make Good Gains—Favorable Condition of Chicago Banks and Reported Intention to Loan Millions to Wall Street Have Effect in Financial Circles—Railroad Earnings Reported as Showing Increase.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Amalgamated copper and sugar were the chief factors in an early flurry in the stock market today. The close was weak on active selling. Some of the so-called obscure issues scored violent advances. The strong condition of the Chicago banks exercised a favorable influence in financial circles.

The day's news of actual conditions was not unsatisfactory. The engagement of $500,-000 additional gold for Paris tomorrow and the promise of reflection in tomorrow's bank statement of the heavy withdrawals of gold for export were without influence, as money on call was easy, and banks which held out for the 2½ per cent rate had difficulty in placing all of their available funds. The condition of Chicago national banks as of Nov. 10, in accordance with the call of the controller, attracted favorable comment, and it was alleged that Chicago institutions were seeking to place many millions of loans in Wall street.

Secretary Shaw's call upon national banks for return of government deposits set a definite period for that operation and thus relieved the uncertainty. With a requirement for 10 per cent of deposits held deferred to Jan. 15, and calling for but $10,000,000 and the remainder of the $25,000,000 or 25 per cent of holdings left to as late as March 15, the operation causes little apprehension.

Railroad gross earnings so far reported for the first week in November are estimated to show an increase considerably exceeding 25 per cent, compared with the corresponding week of last year, and the second week earnings received today showed the higher level well maintained.

Bonds were active and irregular. Total sales, par value, $10,380,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Close: Money on call steady, 2@2¼ per cent; closing bid, 2¼; offered at 2½. Time loans steady; 60 days, 3¼@3½ per cent; 90 days and six months, 3¾@4. Prime mercantile paper, 4¼@4¾ per cent. Sterling exchange strong, with actual business in bankers bills at 486.95@487 for demand and at 484.05@484.10 for 60 day bills. Posted rates, 485 and 487½. Commercial bills, 483⅞. Bar silver, 58¾c. Mexican dollars, 46¼. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds irregular.

POINTS FAULTS IN CITY.

COLIN C. H. FYFFE TELLS OF CHICAGO'S MONETARY NEEDS.

Says New Charter Is Means of Taking Municipality Out of "Financial Rut"—Declares Council Appropriation Bill Is "Too Narrow," and That It Has Caused Endless Litigation—Makes Attack on Juul Law, Citing Some Costly Flaws.

Faults in the city's methods of raising money for revenue, which should be corrected in the new charter, were outlined last night by former Assistant Corporation Counsel Colin C. H. Fyffe in a talk to students of the John Marshall law school.

Mr. Fyffe devoted most of his attention to the insufficiency of the council appropriation bill, which he characterized as "too narrow" for Chicago's requirements. He also suggested changes in the method of adjusting the tax assessments to the city budget in the county clerk's office, concluding with some pointed criticism of the Juul law.

Finances the Most Important.

"Financial necessity has been the mother of the new charter movement," said Mr. Fyffe, "and therefore, in the construction of the new charter, provision for adequate finances for the city should receive the most attention. The city is in a financial rut, where it has been for many years. There will be much discussion as to the enabling measures of the new charter on this score, and it is the duty of every citizen to study closely the financial difficulties of our municipality."

With the taxing bodies and their methods Mr. Fyffe found no fault, and declared that the new charter framers will be able to make few improvements in the present system. Of the shortcomings of the appropriation bill, however, he said:

"There are many stumbling blocks in this part of the statute which need elimination. Endless litigation has been their product, and departments of the municipality repeatedly have been tied up for absurd reasons. Some provision should be made in the new charter for broader appropriations when the city council deems them proper. Again, there should be allowance for the transfer of surplus appropriations."

Assails the Juul Law.

In the Juul law Mr. Fyffe found so many defects, as he said, that "he hesitated to criticise any one of them."

"To cite one instance of its foolishness," he said, "it forced an honest county clerk in collusion with honest officials of a county board to grant to the sanitary trustees an entirely unlawful amount of money. On another occasion this law cost the city of Chicago $250,000 expense in an effort to raise $50,000 or $60,000 for the benefit of the west park system."

HAS M'KINLEY MONUMENT FUND

Completion of Sum of $600,000 for National Memorial Announced by State Chairman Revell.

The completion of the fund of $600,000 for the erection of a national monument to the late President William McKinley was announced yesterday by Alexander H. Revell, chairman, at a meeting of the Illinois auxiliary of the McKinley National Memorial association in the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank building. A total of $50,000, the proportion allotted to Illinois, was reported by Mr. Revell to be on hand. In New York next Tuesday the national trustees of the association will meet and adopt a design for the monument.

FORBIDS LAYING WATER MAINS.

Judge Kohlsaat Prepares an Order Restraining City Operations in Austin District.

Judge Kohlsaat is preparing an order restraining the city from laying water mains and constructing hydrants in the Austin district.

The petitioner is the Chicago Suburban Water and Light company, which claims a contract for furnishing Austin with water for all purposes, made twelve years ago, to hold for twenty-nine years.

The case was argued yesterday. The contention of the city is that two buildings have been burned in Austin on account of insufficient water pressure.

The contract with the Suburban company was made when Austin was a part of the village of Cicero, and it is asserted the city has no right to annul it.

ECZEMA ON LITTLE GIRL

Sleepless Nights for Mother and Awful Suffering of Child.

CURED BY CUTICURA

Had Given Up All Hope of Ever Making Any Cure.

"My little girl has been suffering for two years or more from eczema, and during that time I could not get a night's sleep, as her ailment was very severe.

"I had tried so many remedies and spent much money, deriving no benefit. I had absolutely given up all hope of making any cure. But as a last resort I was persuaded to try a set of the Cuticura remedies, and to my great delight a marked change was manifested from the first application. I gave the child a bath with Cuticura Soap, using a soft piece of muslin cloth. This I did twice a day, each time following with the Cuticura Ointment, and at the same time gave the Resolvent, according to directions. One box of the Ointment and two bottles of the Resolvent, together with the Soap, effected a permanent cure. I submit this for publication if you desire, hoping it will add to your success and assist so many thousands of sufferers in curing themselves." MRS. I. B. JONES, ADDINGTON, IND. T.

The first step in the treatment of the chronic forms is to remove the scales and crusts and soften the skin, by warm baths with Cuticura Soap. The scalp, ears, elbows, hands, ankles and feet will require frequently a thorough soaking in order to penetrate the thickened skin and crusts with which these parts are often covered. Dry carefully, and apply Cuticura Ointment, lightly at first, and where advisable spread it on pieces of soft cloth and bind in place. Take the Resolvent, pills, or liquid, in medium doses. Do not use cold water in bathing, and avoid cold, raw winds.

Sold throughout the world. Cuticura Resolvent, 50c, (in form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c per vial of 60); Ointment, 50c; Soap, 25c. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Boston, 137 Columbus-av. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Proprietors. Send for "How to Cure Eczema."

ANOTHER TURN IN WHEAT

SHARP DECLINE EARLY, BUT THE CLOSE SHOWS SMALL GAINS.

Covering by Shorts Starts Rally Which Is Held in Spite of Renewed Short Pressure—Local and Eastern Bulls Supporting Market—Steady Increase in Receipts of Corn and Steady Loss in Cash Premiums Make Futures Weak.

Newly developed bearish sentiment among local traders, larger northwestern receipts, a break of nearly 1d at Liverpool, favorable crop reports from Argentina, slightly larger shipments from that country, 984,000 bu, and an estimate Indian shipments would be 2,000,000 bu for the week brought enough liquidation and short selling into the wheat pit to force a further decline of ⅜c in December and May, to $1.10 and $1.10¼ respectively.

But on the break there was steady absorption of wheat for some interest, the trade generally disposed to interpret it as continued covering for Armour account, and the market hardened. Other shorts covered as prices gathered momentum on the upturn, and there was finally considerable buying, which was supposed to indicate the eastern bulls were taking hold of the market again. Reports of a better flour demand in Minneapolis, sales of 65,000 barrels claimed, although some late advices disputed the genuineness of the business, and the inspection of 83,000 bu No. 2 hard winter out of store here, pointing to a reduction of contract stocks, had more or less to do with encouraging the rally.

After one or two backsets in the advance, May recovered to $1.11⅜ and closed at $1.11¼ bid, a net gain of ⅛c for the day. December also gained ⅛c to $1.11 bid. The reaction was helped by the relative firmness of the July, which lost only ⅛c on the break and closed 1⅛c higher on moderate buying orders from the southwest, where the weather is still dry. Scattered complaints of damage from drought and Hessian fly were received, the Modern Miller called attention to such reports, but said no serious damage had been done.

Armour Sales on Bulges.

On the extreme advance there was some open Armour selling, which caused a slight closing reaction, and on earlier bulges there had been selling by commission houses which were supposed to be active for that interest. In the view of most local traders Armour operations seem to be dominating the market largely. The Armour attitude continues frankly bearish, and it was intimated the house sold considerably more than it bought.

It was evident local and eastern bull interests had plucked up courage on the break, and there was considerable buying on the upturn by Champlin, Pringle-Fitch-Rankin, Kneeland, McDougal, and Ware-Leland. Northwestern markets rallied less than this, and there was northwestern selling here on the upturn through Daggett.

Cash prices were steady, except that low grades dragged. Some houses found the milling demand still dull, while others experienced moderate improvement, scattered sales amounting to 40,000 bu. There were 848 cars at Minneapolis and Duluth, compared with 681 a year ago, and primary receipts, instead of running much under last year's figures, showed a comparative gain of 4,000 bu at 1,049,000 bu. Atlantic coast clearances were 97,000 bu, all flour. Exports for the week from both coasts and Canada, 1,209,000 bu. Some Minneapolis advices reported liberal farmers' deliveries as the result of the fine weather. Kansas City messages reported a falling off in the movement. Minneapolis stocks were estimated to increase 1,050,000 bu for the week, those at Duluth to show little change. Another fair increase in the visible supply is expected Monday.

Receipts of Corn Larger.

Corn prices are still wearing away under the steady increase in the country movement and the local receipts. There were over 500 cars in the day's arrivals, for the first time; estimated receipts, 517 cars. Country advices indicate consignments are increasing and acceptances on bids sent out on the basis of the May price here were more liberal than in weeks. It was estimated there would be 1,000 cars here on Monday. Under influences of this sort cash prices declined 1c to 2½c, making total losses of 5c to 7c for the week. There was selling of December by cash interests, which presumably expect to manufacture contract corn to fill these sales, and the price lost 1c to 49⅝c. May was more stubborn in spite of considerable short pressure and some liquidation, losing less than ½c at most, and closing ¼c lower, at 45⅝c sellers. Some local shorts took profits. Primary receipts are showing the effect of the increasing movement, 617,000 bu, compared with 320,000 bu a year ago. There was a good shipping demand on the break, sales about 225,000 bu, including 25,000 bu for direct export. Clearances were 5,000 bu. Argentine exports were 2,854,000 bu, compared with 4,003,000 bu the previous week and 1,937,000 bu a year ago. Liverpool futures were ⅛d lower, spot ¼d lower. Covering by some of the local shorts on the dip caused some reaction in the May.

Oats Hold Steady.

Oats covered the narrow range of ¼c and closed practically unchanged in spite of the corn weakness. Receipts are so light and country sales so small there is little pressure except for short account. There were 83 cars on the inspection sheet and the day's arrivals were estimated at 73. Cash prices held steady, the shipping demand only fair, sales 65,000 bu. Clearances were 17,000 bu.

Provision Traders Changing.

Provisions were dragged lower by the weakness of corn and the decline of 5@10c in prices of hogs at the yards. Trade was confined almost entirely to changing, and these operations widened out the carrying charges slightly. At the close pork showed losses of 2½@7½c, lard of 2½@5c, and ribs a shade to 2½c. There was moderate buying of May ribs by Cudahay and of lard by A. S. White. Local hog receipts were 25,000 head, and 15,000 are expected today. The western markets received 69,800 head, against 62,100 last year. Liverpool quoted lard 3d lower. Cash trade was reported fairly active, with prices steady.

Rye was dull. Cash was 1c lower at 82@84c for No. 2 spot. November was nominally 79½c, December 79⅝c asked, and May 81½c asked. Receipts, 8 cars.

Barley offerings were light and prices steady. Malting sold from 38@48, fancy 52c, feed from 38@38½c, and screenings from 26@38c. Receipts, 38 cars.

Flaxseed was ½c higher for No. 1 Northwestern, at $1.18½ bid, and No. 1 steady at $1.11. May was $1.18½ and December $1.11. Receipts, 2 cars here, 89 cars at Minneapolis, and $1.80 at Duluth.

Timothy seed easy. Country lots ranged from $1.75@2.50. November was $2.65, January $2.72½ bid, and March sold at $2.82½. November clover seed was $12.25 and bag lots $7.00@12.00.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

Milling demand in the local market was of modest proportions, but there were sales of enough scattered carlots to make a total of 40,000 bu. Two of the local mills were in the market for a little spring and hard winter wheat, the other not buying. Prices for choice wheat on the sample tables were about steady, but poor grades were slow and draggy. No. 2 red was $1.15@1.18, No. 3 red $1.08@1.15, No. 2 hard $1.09@1.14, No. 3 hard $1.03@1.10, and No. 3 spring $1.05@1.12. No. 2 red in store was 5c over May. Minneapolis was quoted steady to 1c higher, No. 1 northern $1.13⅜@1.14⅜ in store, and Duluth steady at $1.14. At Kansas City No. 2 hard was $1.06@1.08 and at St. Louis No. 2 red was $1.14@1.15½. Cash business in corn was better, sales 225,000 bu, including 10,000 bu No. 2 at 52c in store and 25,000 bu No. 3, sold all rail for direct export, and 50,000 bu No. 4. Sales of oats were 65,000 bu white clipped.

The rush in the movement of new corn is beginning to have the expected effect on local receipts, which so far this week have exceeded shipments by over 900,000 bu. The daily arrivals have at last passed the 500 car mark and there were plenty of predictions there would be over 1,000 cars on Monday and nearly as many on some of the other days next week. Notices of consignments are still pouring in and undoubtedly a heavy movement is started from the country to catch the fast disappearing cash premiums. Those premiums are declining so fast some of the shippers may get left, and country dealers apparently were afraid corn shipped now might miss the premiums altogether, for they were more willing to accept bids sent out on the basis of the May price. Sales to arrive were considerably larger, not only from Illinois, but from Iowa and Nebraska.

Corn experts are pointing out some queer vagaries either in the quality of the corn in different parts of Illinois or in the grading by the inspectors on the different roads. Receipts of corn on three lines running down through the state show a wide variance in quality. Yesterday's inspection on the Wabash showed only 5 cars No. 4 and 50 cars no grade. On the Illinois Central the inspection was considerably better, 63 cars No. 4 and 51 cars no grade, while on the Alton there were 30 cars No. 4 and only 1 car of no grade.

Several Minneapolis messages claimed a revival in the flour demand there, one to Bogert declaring: "I know the flour demand is much better than is generally believed. There is no mistaking the urgent cash demand here." Later messages claimed sales of 65,000 brls. The bears pointed out that this was little more than one day's grinding, and just at the close a message to Shearson-Hammill claimed the reported business could not be confirmed.

The visible supply as last posted shows a surplus of 3,356,000 bu over the total of last year, 31,302,000 bu, against 27,946,000 bu a year ago. The bulk of it at Canadian points, notably Fort William and Port Arthur. This year Canadian points have 4,425,000 bu, leaving the visible at American points 26,877,000 bu, while a year ago there were 2,425,000 bu at the Canadian markets, leaving the American total 25,521,000 bu. This makes the surplus at American points 1,356,000 bu.

A St. Louis message said: "Gov. Stanard says flour trade is dull. He and other large millers have lots of flour sold to large jobbers who are slow in giving shipping instructions. He says the thin wheat makes the flour all right, as all the gluten is there, only the starch being lost. They are running their Dallas mill almost entirely on Colorado and Utah wheat, which works fine with some mixture of hard wheat."

The Modern Miller says: "There has been no relief from the drought conditions except in widely scattered localities. Although complaints that the wheat is suffering from lack of moisture are coming from some sections, as also reports of the prevalence of Hessian fly in the fields, yet no serious damage is apparent as yet."

Exports of wheat for the week, as reported by Bradstreet's, were 1,209,000 bu, compared with 1,454,000 bu the previous week and 2,974,000 bu a year ago. Exports since July 1 aggregate 27,311,000 bu, compared with 66,456,000 bu the corresponding period in 1903.

"No. 3 hard wheat and No. 3 northern wheat sold today at 8c per bu higher than it did ten days ago," said a Minneapolis wire, "and although the option market at the same time is 3c per bu lower than it was then."

Missouri messages sent claims of damage to winter wheat by drought, Fayette, Mo., wiring Knight-Donnelley: "Weather dry. Rain needed badly. Acreage 10 per cent short. Early seeding damaged 25 per cent."

Some of the seaboard exporters became confidently bearish on the break, a New York message reporting San Francisco anxious to consign flour to that market, and German rye millers offering to ship rye flour there.

Estimates of arrivals were: Wheat, 54 cars; corn, 517 cars; oats, 73 cars; rye, 17 cars; barley, 11 cars; hogs, 15,000.

Receipts of Hogs Large and Prices Rule Weaker—Sheep and Lambs Lower.

Receipts yesterday were 4,000 cattle, 24,000 hogs, and 10,000 sheep. There was no quotable change in the cattle market. The quality was poor and buyers were not inclined to pay any better prices. The best cattle on the market sold at $5.70. Hogs sold 5@10c lower because of heavy receipts. The top was $4.85. Sheep and lambs ruled weaker.

ACTIVITY IN "L" SHARES.

NORTHWESTERN AND METROPOLITAN HAVE ADVANCES.

Talk of Tariff Revision Causes Disturbance in New York Stock Market—Some Features of the United Boxboard Deal—Paper Products Company Will Be Used as Agent for Both the United and Independents—Railroad Earnings—Financial News.

Trading in elevated shares was the feature of the local market yesterday. Northwestern L common advanced from 23⅛ to 26⅜, the buying being largely by J. H. Wrenn & Co. The advance was probably the result of favorable progress on plans for the Ravenswood extension. Metropolitan L common was also firm, advancing 2¼ points. South Side Elevated was firm. It is becoming well understood that an eventual consolidation of all the elevated roads is being figured upon. Every so often there are spurts in prices in harmony with the development of this idea.

The Can shares were but moderately active and closed steady. National Biscuit shares were without feature. Swift & Co. was lower.

Tariff Talk Disturbs Wall Street.

John C. King, who has been in Wall street this week studying conditions, yesterday wired the following after the close of the market:

"Best authorities on money here will none of them predict higher than a possible call rate of 4½@5 per cent, and that only during the last few days in the year. The gold shipments seem to cause no apprehension whatever, and the prediction is freely made by bankers that if money stiffens enough to make it attractive there will be large receipts of loanable funds from the west.

"The call of the secretary of the treasury was used today as an excuse for the break in the market at the close, but as a matter of fact the reaction was caused by profit taking.

"The best class of houses here, with almost no exception, report a moderate increase in their loans, and there seem to be no signs of any overspeculation at the present time.

"The buying of stocks is for extremely good people, who are amply able to take care of their committments.

"The two most disturbing factors in the present situation are the possibility of war scares from time to time, and the growing talk of a revision of the tariff. The president is already asking prominent merchants, manufacturers, and importers to the white house for an informal discussion on this subject, and people close to him state that he feels strongly the necessity of early action.

"This, in the long run, in my opinion, will be of benefit to the country generally, but will undoubtedly be disturbing to certain interests, at least temporarily."

Boxboard Deal.

Conferences between United Boxboard officials and officials of the independent companies in New York have not resulted in the closing of a deal, though concerning the situation the Wall Street Journal says:

"The scheme involves the formation of a large association to control the output of the factories of both the United Boxboard and Paper company and the independents. The Paper Products company, which has in the past acted as a selling agent of the products of all these mills and of which the United controls half the directorate, will still continue as the selling agent, and will, it is understood, have a supervising control of the output of all the mills. The situation has been created by the condition of overproduction and stagnation in the trade, and the object of this large association is to overcome these difficulties. The United practically is paid to take a certain tonnage off the market for six months, with the option to the independents to extend the period for a further six months. At the same time the interests of the United are made the same as those of its recent competitors. Instead of the formation of a large new corporation to carry out the purposes of the association, the Paper Products company will be used and will be more important than it would be as selling agent only."

IN THE FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Money was in good demand today. Discounts were firm owing to the prospects of further gold exports and unfavorable continental exchanges. Business on the stock exchange was mostly buoyant. Consols hardened, and home rails were more animated. Americans opened strong in response to the tone in New York, and closed firm. Foreigners were strong on Paris support. The new Japanese loan is receiving much attention, and considerable satisfaction is expressed at the promptness in making the allotments. Imperial Japanese government 6s of 1904 were quoted at 94⅜.

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—Prices improved on the boerse today. The weekly statement of the Imperial Bank of Germany shows the following changes:

	Marks.
Treasury notes increased	620,000
Other securities decreased	11,620,000
Notes in circulation decreased	41,020,000

PARIS, Nov. 18.—Trading on the bourse today was calm and prices were firm. Russian imperial 4s were quoted at 94.81 and Russian bonds of 1904 at 505. The decline in Russian bonds was due to the payment of coupons.

SHAW CALLS FOR $25,000,000.

Secretary of Treasury Asks That Banks Holding Government Deposits Make 25 Per Cent Payment.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—Secretary Shaw has announced a call upon national banks holding government deposits to the amount of 25 per cent of their holdings, 10 per cent to be paid on or before Jan. 15 next and 15 per cent on or before March 15 next. This, the secretary estimates, will bring into the treasury about $25,000,000, and make a working balance of approximately $50,000,000. The call includes all banks except a few active depositaries where the amount of deposit is relatively small.

RATE DIVISION FINDING BITTER.

Interstate Commerce Commission Grills the Wisconsin Central Road.

HOLDS SYSTEM IS WRONG.

Sees No Excuse for the "Gratuities" Paid to the Industrial Lines.

The Wisconsin Central is severely criticised by the interstate commerce commission in its decision in the matter of divisions of joint rates and other allowances to industrial and terminal roads.

"It appeared," says the commission, "that divisions of rates to the lines owned by the International Harvester company were first granted by the Wisconsin Central in September, 1903. The explanation of the traffic manager of that road was that they were granted by him as a matter of justice; that it was a universal rule observed between connecting roads to allow the originating line a division of the through rate, which never was less than 25 per cent, and that he knew of no reason why this originating line should not have the benefit of that rule."

The commission would not accept that statement as representing the exact facts. In its opinion there is no analogy between the Illinois Northern and the Chicago, West Pullman and Southern railroads (belonging to the harvester company) and the connecting line which originates traffic under ordinary conditions.

Lack Essentials of Railroads.

These roads, the commission says, have none of the essentials of a railroad proper. They were constructed for the sole purpose of moving cars from various industries to trunk line railroads, and the service is essentially one of switching. It has been performed for years by these railroads upon that basis. It is performed by most other lines centering in Chicago under similar conditions, on a basis of a switching charge of $3 a car, and there is no reason why the harvester company's lines should be allowed a division of $12 a car.

When the Wisconsin Central substituted the division for the switching charge it increased the compensation paid by it to the harvester company's lines from two to three times. The commission can find nothing in the condition of either the harvester lines or the Wisconsin Central which justifies any such gratuity, and does not for a moment believe that it was a gratuity.

The commission expresses the opinion that "this act sprang, not from motives of generosity or the dictates of justice, but from the desire and expectation to thereby obtain from the International Harvester company traffic not otherwise obtainable. Corresponding divisions were subsequently granted by other competitive lines, because otherwise competitive business could not be obtained."

Steel Lines Also Under Fire.

The arrangement of the railroads with the United States Steel corporation's line, the Chicago, Lake Shore and Eastern, is denounced. The divisions with the latter, the commission says, plainly are excessive. The rate from Chicago to New York on iron articles is 27½ cents for 100 pounds, with a minimum of 30,000 pounds. Assuming that a car contained only the minimum loading the aggregate freight would be $82.50 a car, of which the Lake Shore and Eastern would receive $8.25 for moving it to a connection with the Eastern line at Indiana Harbor. Commodities taking this rate usually load considerably above 30,000 pounds, so that the amount actually received for each car would be considerably increased.

Overcharge for Short Hauls.

The principal works of the Lake Shore and Eastern evidently is at South Chicago, and the distance for which it ordinarily moves a car to or from that plant would not exceed six or seven miles. For this service, under the conditions prevailing, $3 a car, it is held, would be ample compensation. The cost of moving a train load of coke from Indiana Harbor to South Chicago and moving empty cars back again, on which the Lake Shore and Eastern on the basis of its arrangement with the railroads would receive $840, probably would not exceed $40.

The commission is of the opinion that the only thing for which the railroads handling the traffic of the steel company to and from Chicago can properly charge is the switching service to and from the plants of that company; that the divisions in question are much in excess of any fair charge for that service; that they are intended and understood to be in excess of what would be a reasonable charge; that they are, in fact, paid to secure the traffic of the Illinois Steel company, and that they do amount to a preference in favor of that company by whatever figure they exceed a fair compensation for the service rendered.

Cattle Rate Hearing Still On.

Further effort was made by Attorney Cowan for the interstate commission at the hearing of the cattle cases yesterday to bring out evidence to show that in many instances the damage claims paid to certain shippers practically amounted to a rebate and that only favored shippers were paid such claims without resorting to a lawsuit.

J. A. Leith, claim agent of the Frisco road, said most of the damage claims were paid without question. The reason he gave for this was that the company would have little chance to win a suit in the courts.

"Do you mean to say," asked Attorney Cowan, "that the judges would be unfair to the railroad?"

"O, no," said the witness, "the juries generally are giving verdicts in favor of the shippers."

R. M. Calkins, assistant general freight agent of the Milwaukee and St. Paul, said shippers invariably designate the belt line over which the live stock is to go to the stockyards.

"What difference does it make to the shipper what line is used?" asked Commissioner Prouty.

"He generally has a preference," answered the witness.

Shows Increase in Pay.

W. E. Bailey, assistant general auditor of the Santa Fé, submitted a schedule showing the growth in salaries paid to employés during the last five years. He said the increase in total amount was due to a rise in the rate of pay and not to an addition in the working force. He showed that the increase in salaries during the last seven years amounted to from 15 to 20 per cent.

"But is it not a fact," asked Attorney Cowan, "that your gross tonnage has increased even more than your increased expenses for this kind of traffic?"

"I can't say," replied the witness. "It is out of my line. It may be so, but it is a question for the operating department."

Attorney Cowan brought out the fact that while a switching charge of $2 a car is made on cattle going into the stockyards, no such assessment is made on any other class of freight.

Other witnesses were on the stand, but their testimony brought out no important facts. The commission expects to get through with the hearing today.

Chicago-St. Paul Rate War.

St. Paul-Chicago lines are engaged in a rate war and a round trip figure of $3 between the two cities is being made. The football game between the Minnesota team and the Northwestern university is responsible for the trouble. The rate originally agreed upon for the Minnesota rooters was $10 for the round trip. Some of the roads, however, secretly cut, and soon a scramble for the business began.

The Great Western put the rate down to $5 and the Wisconsin Central at once followed with a $3 round trip rate, which has been met by the Great Western and the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroads.

NEWS OF THE INSURANCE WORLD.

WILL SUE INSURANCE AGENTS.

Frank F. Holmes Prepares to Seek Damages as Result of Mixup Over County Bids.

Attorneys for Frank F. Holmes are nearly ready, they say, to begin damage suits against some of the members of the Chicago Underwriters' association. The amount asked in each case is placed at $20,000. In the declaration as prepared the plaintiff alleges that in placing the county insurance he followed the rules of the organization, but a conspiracy was entered into before his bid was accepted to deprive him of the business by construing the regulations in a way that would make his course a violation.

Holmes declares that through the alleged conspiracy he was deprived of his rightful commissions and profits amounting to more than $5,000, and that he has been damaged to a material extent in addition. He asserts that certain offices belonging to the underwriters' association are refusing to do business with him and that there is an attempt on the part of some of the members to boycott his agency.

The hearing in the injunction case which Holmes began to restrain the association from trying him on the charge of violating its rules will be resumed before Judge Brentano next Tuesday.

General Agent Lenehan of the Phenix of Brooklyn gave a dinner to George A. Bailey, manager of the company's subagency branch, on the latter's retirement from that office. Mr. Bailey goes to Topeka to become a secretary of a new fire insurance company. There were twenty field men and members of the office force at the dinner.

Earl Thomas, who has been in the office of the western department of the Phenix of Brooklyn, has been appointed special agent for Colorado to assist State Agent Walter Bailey. Mr. Thomas is a brother of James Thomas, the company's Texas state agent, and C. F. Thomas, the Kansas state agent.

Representatives of five of the largest agencies of Minneapolis have been in Chicago this week arranging with managers to approve a plan by which these offices can operate through one office and the same set of employés, thus economizing in expense and affording more time for the heads of the firms to solicit business. The agencies are the Minneapolis Trust company, E. M. Christian, A. L. Belknap, Alexander Campbell, and Thorpe Bros. & Armitage. The companies have given their consent to the plan proposed. The agencies will retain their separate identities so far as agency licenses and dealings with the general offices of the companies are concerned. The new deal will go into effect on Jan. 1. There will be twenty-seven companies represented, which makes this one of the largest agencies in the country.

Fred S. James & Co., who have had the Chicago local agency of the Maryland Casualty company during more than a year, have resigned the company.

The committee, in charge of the dinner to be given for members of the Chicago Underwriters' association next Tuesday evening reports that a majority of the members already have signified their intention of attending.

In announcing the plans of the Prussian National, Manager Letton states that hereafter Harold W. Letton will be the only assistant manager. Newton L. Sample, who has been in the home office of the Traders' during two years, will assist in the underwriting department.

C. C. Woodworth of Detroit, special agent of the Royal Exchange in Michigan, Indiana, and Illinois, has resigned to take an interest in the Woodworth-Hawley company at Buffalo. This is a local agency of which Mr. Woodworth's father, C. H. Woodworth, is president.

Reports from Texas are believed to indicate that the anti-trust suits filed against the stock fire insurance companies in that state will be dismissed by the attorney general. They were brought on the ground that the companies had entered a combination to fix rates in Texas. Insurance companies say there is no combination, as rates are based on the actual experience which each follows. Some of the suits already have been dismissed, as the companies have shown that they write business in some instances below the published tariff.

Reporting on the recent fires in the navy yard compress, Memphis, Tenn., the secretary of the insurance exchange of that city says: "On the night of Nov. 7 an incipient fire was discovered in some cotton by a watchman, who immediately turned in an alarm, to which the fire department and salvage corps responded. They found the cotton on fire in four different places, but extinguished it before any appreciable damage was done. On the night of Nov. 10 the fire department and salvage corps responded to another alarm from the same compress. On this occasion the cotton was found on fire in six different places, but was extinguished without more than $150 damages. Precautions, thought sufficient in the first instance, were increased, and a force of six detectives has been secretly patroling the property ever since. Neither owner nor occupant of the compresses was aware of an enemy, and while it appears to be evident that both fires were of incendiary origin, there is no clew to the guilty party."

Does Away with Refusals in Cases Where Passengers Do Not Remember to Ask.

"I have given orders that conductors on our lines shall offer transfers to passengers at the time that fares are collected."

This was the comment made yesterday by Managing Receiver John C. Fetzer of the Union Traction company on THE TRIBUNE'S revelation of the company's transfer rules, which in many cases prevent street car travelers from obtaining tickets to which the Supreme court decision entitles them.

Blames Conductor for Trouble.

The one hour time limit set upon the life of a transfer Mr. Fetzer explained by saying that the longest run possible on Union Traction lines did not exceed fifty minutes. Therefore, he declared, a passenger obtaining a slip at the moment his car started would still have ten minutes leeway in which to catch another car at the end of the trip.

"The case presented in THE TRIBUNE," said Mr. Fetzer, "in which a transfer expired before it could be presented for the second stage of a journey, was due to the fault of the individual conductor and not to the company's rules. The conductor at the car barns, where the first change was made, should have punched the new transfer the hour at which it was issued, instead of marking on it the time at which the original slip was dated. This would have given the new ticket a life of one hour, which is the intention of the company. I am striving to carry out the fullest intention of the transfer decision."

Different on the City Railway.

The system on the Chicago City railway company lines to some extent obviates the possibility of a transfer expiring before it can be put to use. Instead of starting a transfer's life from the moment it is issued, the slips are punched so as to date their period of effectiveness twenty minutes from the time at which the car is due to make connections with the transfer line.

The recent increase of complaints over the working of the Union Traction transfer laws is said to be caused by a change in the form in which the tickets are printed. Up to a few weeks ago conductors were required merely to punch the slips so as to indicate within one hour the time of their issuance. Now each transfer bears a table permitting the employés to designate the time of origin within ten minutes.

Sexton Gives Legal Views.

Acting Corporation Counsel Sexton said:

"The Supreme court decision declares transfers shall be issued within the city limits for all rides which are continuous and in the same general direction. By compelling conductors to give out the slips only at the time of collecting fares the company may be said to be fairly protecting its stockholders against giving two rides for one nickel."

Mr. Sexton also was doubtful whether the companies could be compelled to offer transfers to passengers. Chairman Milton J. Foreman of the local transportation committee said the transfer sections of any new ordinance would be watched closely.

Complaints on Southwest Side.

The Union Traction transfer system on the southwest side has been the subject of much complaint by residents of that section. J. C. Carrier, 550 South Park avenue, Austin, is one who has made an unsuccessful protest to the company.

"To reach Twenty-sixth street, between Western and Forty-eighth avenues, I must ride from my residence east to Western avenue, transfer south to Twenty-sixth street, and return west in Twenty-sixth street, almost to my starting point," said Carrier. "It is possible to go to Twenty-sixth street and transfer east to the Ogden avenue line. The reason given for the failure to issue transfers direct to the Twenty-sixth street line was that the line does not cross the Forty-eighth avenue route. It is necessary to walk across the railroad tracks at this point. I would save two or three miles if I could transfer there. Instead I must pay another nickel."

Protest Meeting for "L" Patrons.

With the declaration that the Metropolitan elevated railroad delays passengers in its cars at the terminals, Ald. Leachman called a massmeeting of protest, to be held at Spaulding and North avenues Tuesday evening.

"Whole carloads of passengers are held in the yards at Humboldt park and Logan square, sometimes for fifteen to twenty-five minutes, waiting to get out and go home," said Ald. Leachman. "There is no reason why they should be compelled to lose so much time."

A Few Hints for Men Who Desire

FINE OVERCOATS AND SUITS

The making of our finer garments is practically the same as custom work, excepting that they are ready for service. There is the same careful handwork in building up the lining and staying which produce shapeliness. The hand-made collars and hand-worked buttonholes give the smart fit and finish that you expect only in custom work as a rule. Look over the handsome array—the beautiful patterns. Try on the coats and see how smart and fine fitting they are. Then decide for yourself whether it is worth while to pay your tailor may dollars more. Forget all previous opinions of "Ready-Made" clothing, and come prepared to get some new ideas when you visit "THE HOME OF THE OVERCOAT."

Here are some suggestions of qualities and prices such as have built up for this institution the largest clothing business in America or the world. About 1,500 men's fancy and plain overcoats. The fancy coats are cut about 52 inches long, with or without belt, with broad shoulders and long, loose skirts. The coats in plain effects are of fine melton, kersey and vicuna, cut 50 and 46 inches long. These garments are guaranteed to be the very best values ever offered to Chicago for the money. Special, $15.

Then, here is another money-saving offer. A very handsome line of men's shop-made overcoats that are hand-tailored throughout, made of the fashionable mill point vicunas and cut in the swell Chesterfield styles. Also 52-inch double-breasted belt coats, made of fancy tweeds and cheviots. The kind of garments merchant tailors charge $35.00 to $40.00 to equal. Here at only $20.00.

Men's frock or dress overcoats, hand-made throughout—made in the very newest single and double-breasted styles, black and oxford vicunas, serge and silk lined—price, $20.00 to $55.00.

Men's medium-priced suits. We pride ourselves on the remarkable values we are offering at $10.00. Well-made suits of strictly all-wool cassimeres, tweeds and worsteds, perfect in construction and fit and made in a way that causes them to permanently retain their shape and stylish appearance. Qualities that would cost you $15.00 elsewhere, special, $10.00.

Do you need a new pair of trousers to match that odd coat and vest? If so, here is a good opportunity. Today we shall offer 800 pairs of men's fine worsted trousers, in qualities that usually bring 50 per cent more than the price we ask; all sizes, guaranteed to be perfect fitting and the handsomest designs the mills produce—only $5.00.
